ECLIPSES OF THE SUN & MOON.

There will be four Eclipses in 1840, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. The first will be a partial eclipse of the Moon, on the 17th day of February, invisible at Montpellier. ☾ at 9h 2m morning.

II. The second will be an annular eclipse of the Sun on the 3d day of March, invisible at Montpellier. ☽ 11h 14m in the evening. This eclipse will be visible to the whole of the continent of Asia. The path of the central and annular eclipse first touches the earth in the Indian Ocean, a little east of the Strait of Babel-mandel—takes an easterly course, crosses the southern part of Hindoostan and the bay of Bengal, thence pursuing a northeasterly course, it passes over China, Chinese Tartary, and terminates near Beering's Strait.

III. The third is a partial eclipse of the Moon, August 18th, and visible as follows, viz :

Beginning of the eclipse	1h 07m	} Mean time in the morning.
Middle of the eclipse	2h 32m
End of the eclipse	3h 57m

Duration 2h 50m. Magnitude of the eclipse (the Moon's diameter being 1,) 0.6 on the Moon's northern limb.

IV. The fourth will be a total eclipse of the Sun, August 27th—☽ at 1h 53m in the morning. This eclipse will not be seen from any part of America, but will be visible from all the southern and eastern parts of Africa, from the southern part of Arabia and New Holland, and from all parts of the Indian Ocean. The path of the central and total eclipse begins on the eastern coast of Africa—passes easterly across the continent—crosses Madagascar—passes near the Isles of France and Bourbon, and terminates at some distance to the south of New Holland.

Weevil. Soak linen cloths in water, wing them & cover your grain with them; in two hours you will find all the weevil on the cloth. They must be carefully gathered off and soaked in water to destroy them.

JANUARY.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

'Winter has come from the icy seas,
Where the bleak winds blow and the salt waves freeze,
Where the sun shines on through a long day's light,
And at last gives place to a long—long night.'

Time wings his steady flight—the seasons walk their round—empires and individuals rise, decline and fall, and all things are quickly moving towards that bourne whence eternity begins. Another year with all its varied scenes—its joys—its sorrows—is closed upon the world, and its annals are inscribed in the book of God's remembrance, in eternity to be read to us who acted, or had a part to act, in its momentous scenes. That year is now beyond our reach. Its mispent hours can never be recalled. Repining is in vain. 'Twill not atone for our sins nor procure for them forgiveness. Then do your duty now, and hereafter, and trust the past with God, your Maker. The penitent and reformed he will forgive and bless their humble efforts, when they strive to mend their lives and conduct. Then with the year begin anew thy life, and through the same keep pace with business and with duty. Let not a moment's time in idleness be wasted. You have a mind and heart as well as farm to cultivate, and when the latter is covered with snow the former claims attention. Plant in your minds the seeds of knowledge, and in your hearts the seeds of virtue and religion, and carefully cultivate the tender plants.

Your barns now require particular attention, and you should see to them with your own eyes. Boys may save you some steps, but they must not be too far trusted or depended upon. See that your hay is not wasted, your cattle may feel the want of it before summer. Suffer not the roads in your neighborhood to be blocked with snow. Public spirit is a noble virtue, the want of it abject meanness.

No farmer should allow the reproach of neglecting education to lie against himself or his family; if knowledge is power, the beginning of it should be early and deeply laid in the district school.

Dark flitting round a mouldering tower,
I spied a strangely awful form,
And swifter moved the hastening power,
And louder roared the crashing storm.

FEBRUARY.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

' Where the wild Aurora brilliantly plays,
Darting its beautiful lance-like rays ;
Where the white bear sits with his shaggy form,
And howls to the roar of the beating storm.

“Most men spend their lives in anticipations, in determining to be vastly happy at some period or other when they have time. But the present time has one advantage over every other—it is our own. Past opportunities are gone, future are not come. We may lay in a stock of pleasure, as we would lay in a stock of wine ; but if we defer tasting them too long, we shall find that both are soured by age. Let our happiness, therefore, be a modest mansion, which we can inhabit while we have our health and vigor to enjoy it ; not a fabric so vast and expansive that it has cost us the best part of our lives to build it, and which we can expect to occupy only when we have less occasion for a habitation than a tomb. It has been well observed that we should treat futurity as an aged friend from whom we expect a rich legacy. Let us do nothing to forfeit his esteem, and treat him with respect, not with servility. But let us not be too prodigal when young, nor too parsimonious when old, otherwise we shall fall into the common error of those, who when they had the power to enjoy, had not the prudence to acquire ; and when they had the prudence to acquire had no longer the power to enjoy.”

He who idles away his time at the tavern, or lounges at the grogshop, while his poor wife and children are shivering over a handful of faggots at home, hungry, ragged and disconsolate, deserves not the name of husband, father, citizen or patriot. He may have the shape of a man, but he has the heart of a brute. The grogshop is the vortex of ruin, and ardent spirits drown more than all the streams, and other water upon the earth.

Never buy any thing at an auction because the article is selling very cheap, unless you have a use for it.

'T was time, on fry pinions driven,
For vullied lightnings rent the sky ;
The clouds with hissing bolts were riven,
And ruin roll'd in thunder by.

MARCH.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

But soon is heard the voice of spring ;
Is heard the flap of the warbler's wing ;
The snows dissolve and flow again,
In torrents upon the deluged plain.

Do not think of knocking out another person's brains because he happens to differ from you. Your own opinions are by no means the same as they used to be, and it would be just as rational to knock yourself on the head because you differ from yourself ten years ago! It is one thing to be stiff and another to be steady in an opinion. The steady man changes when reason requires it, but the stiff necked is at war with all reason.

All who have suitable trees should now be in readiness for the manufacture of maple sugar. He who now makes one pound of sugar from the produce of his own lands, adds so much to the stock of our national wealth ; whereas that stock is diminished in the same degree by every pound purchased from abroad. Besides, sugar made at home must possess a sweeter flavor to an independent American of the north, than that which is mingled with the groans and tears of slavery. And now to avoid being importuned and fretted at all summer, you will find it to your advantage to get out your flax. When there is so much storm and bluster out of doors, we should endeavor by all means in our power, to cultivate peace within. A good husband almost invariably makes a good wife, and good parents good children ; so you see all depends upon you, gentlemen.

Your cattle and sheep now require your strictest attention. Much may now be lost by a very little neglect. If your hay crumbles, sprinkle it with brine. Old Boreas is now making his last efforts. He will soon have to yield, and retreat to his northern cave.

“He who never changed any of his opinions, never corrected any of his mistakes; and he who was never wise enough to find mistakes in himself, will not be charitable enough to excuse them in others.”

‘Keep a place for your tools, and your tools in order.’

Then came a voice like rivers pent,
Between two mountain's craggy sides,
Like Erie. o'er its cascade sent,
And hoarser than the ocean tides.

APRIL.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Winter is gone to the dens of the north ;
The verdure of spring is peeping forth,
To deck the earth with beauties rare,
And mingle fragrance in the balmy air.

See that your fences are repaired early, and thoroughly. Cattle, sheep and horses will do much injury at this season, if permitted to range in your orchards, your meadows and your fields. And if you put up your fences in a slight manner so that your cattle once break through them, you may thank your stars if you ever keep them within any bounds afterwards. It is with cattle as with men, one offence leads to the commission of many more. It is much easier to prevent transgression than to reform the transgressor.

Spring grain may be sown on dry lands as soon as the frost is out, and garden vegetables for summer use should be sown the latter part of this month. Enter upon your business this month with a full determination to keep pace with your business through the year. If you once fall behind your business, instead of driving it, you will be dragged, and if you are dragged, you may be both stripped and bruised.

Be neither prodigal of your money, nor on the other hand too parsimonious. 'A prodigal may start with ten thousand pounds, and die worth nothing; a miser may start with nothing, and die worth ten thousand pounds. It has been asked which had the best of it? I should presume the prodigal of the two. He has spent a fortune, the miser has only left one—he has lived rich to die poor; the miser has lived poor to die rich; and if the prodigal quits life in debt to others, the miser quits it still deeper in debt to himself.' Balance then the account between thyself and others and die in debt to neither.

"It is easy to be upright in prosperity, it is the day of adversity that proves the heart."

It is a brave mind that exults not over a fallen foe,—it is a weak one that tramples on him.

"Every man hath just as much vanity as he wants understanding."

Oh sluggard! while thy life but dreams,
Its every pulse of pleasure dead
In slumber; while the morning beams
Play round thy head.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

The groves put on their dress of green;—
 Opening flowers enliven the scene—
 The ploughman jogs the fields along,
 And cheers his team with a merry song.

If it be true, as says the proverb, that an idle man's brains are the Devil's workshop, the old gentleman's business must have very much increased of late, if forsooth his business may be judged of by the number of shops he occupies. Eject him from the premises, down with his sign, neighbors! But to be serious. 'Idleness is truly the hot bed of temptation, the cradle of disease and the canker worm of felicity. In a little time, to the man who has no employment, life will have no novelty, and when novelty is laid in the grave, the funeral of comfort will enter the church yard. From that moment it is the shade and not the man, who creeps along the path of mortality. On the contrary, what solid satisfaction does the man of diligence possess; what health in his countenance; what strength in his limbs; what vigor in his understanding; with what a zest does he relish the refreshments of the day; with what pleasure does he seek the bed of repose at night. It is not the accidental hardness of a pillow that can make him unhappy and rob him of sleep. He earns his maintenance and he enjoys it. He has faithfully labored in the day and the slumbers of the night are a sweet retribution to him. 'To the diligent man, every day is a little life, and every night a little heaven. The toil has been honest, the reward is sure.' Having set before you the consequences of idleness and of diligence, choose you this day which you will follow. The one will lead you to misery, contempt and death, the other to respectability, comfort and happiness.

By driving your business before you, and not permitting your business to drive you, you will have opportunities to indulge in innocent diversions.

Put off no business, which ought and can be done to day, until to morrow.

What joy! to catch the fragrant gales,
With pinions sweeping as they play,
O'er each fair flow'ret that exhales
The breath of May.

JUNE.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Now the thrush and the blackbird sing,
And tune their notes to the parting spring ;
And now bleating lambskins play,
And insects skip in the sunny ray.

" Sweet is the breath of morn, her rising sweet
With charm of earliest birds; pleasant the sun
When first on this delightful land he spreads
His orient beams on herb, tree, fruit and flower,
Glistening with dew."

Those persons, almost without exception, who have lived to a very advanced age, have been distinguished as early risers, and it is very generally admitted that no habit contributes more, than early rising, to our health and happiness. Why then is it not more generally adopted? Why do we waste so many of the sweetest, most delightful and invigorating moments of each day upon our pillows? turning upon our bed as the door turneth upon its hinges? At this season especially, the morning breathes perfumes, the air is melody and the whole face of nature is beauty. How congenial to the feelings, and especially to "the feelings of joyous youth, in whose bosom fond hopes are swelling, and delightful visions of future success and pleasure rise one after another, in untiring succession. To such, the charms of an undisturbed hour of romance accompanied by all the bright and beautiful images which a fine morning presents to the eye and imagination, need only to be known to be dear. The still beauty of the hour at once tranquilizes the vulgar passions, which a vulgar world nourishes and foment, and awakens those softer and purer emotions, which are so much more congenial to the high destiny of the human soul. Health, too, as well as moral purity, breathes in the air of a spring morning; and female loveliness itself becomes more lovely under its refreshing and vivifying influence." If then you pursue pleasure, beauty, business or health.

"Rise before the sun, and when his journey's run,
And he's sunk in the west, retire to rest."

Never hire a man to do a piece of work which you can do yourself.

What joy to hear the quaver'd song,
That shames the brow of sloth and care,
In grateful numbers float along
The peopled air.

JULY.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Now the flowers that deck'd the field,
To the growing fruit their stations yield,
And labor with his brawny face,
Braves the heat of the sultry days.

A word to my fair country women! But not in that dictatorial strain in which I am accustomed to address my own sex. They are not to be driven. If moved at all it must be by the mild and gentle accents of flattery and persuasion. "Good morning, Mrs. Cleanly. I am extremely happy in finding you and your lovely daughters employed in the dairy room. I have frequently purchased of your butter and cheese in the market, have admired the neatness with which it was put up, and the richness and sweetness of its flavor, and have observed that it met a ready sale two or three cents in advance of that of ordinary quality. Now I perceive that every thing at home is in accordance with the butter and cheese sent abroad—every thing is sweet and neat. Just as it should be."

Washington's opinion of Agriculture.—"The more I am acquainted with agricultural affairs, the better I am pleased with them; in so much that I can no where find so great satisfaction as in those innocent and useful pursuits. In indulging these feelings I am led to reflect how much more delight to the undebauched mind is the task of making improvements on the earth, than all the vain glory which can be acquired from ravaging it by the most uninterrupted career of conquest."

Never carry your notes in your pocket book, as the desk or the trunk is a much more appropriate place for them.

It is a fact spoken of as not a little remarkable, that in America, there are one hundred and twenty different species of forest trees, whereas in the same latitude in Europe, there are only thirty four to be found.

Each season hath charms for the eye,
 In each, Jesus' goodness we scan :
 In the blood-tinctured hues of the sky
 We read his deep sufferings for man.

AUGUST.

FARMERS CALEDAR.

The strength of summer is wasting fast,
The lightnings flash to the roaring blast :
The field are losing the cheerful green,
The clustering fruits on the boughs are seen.

“There is no point in which a great part of our farmers err so much, as in tilling such large quantities of land as they do. Four acres closely fenced, well manured, and kept clean and well stirring, will produce more corn than ten acres in common mode of fencing, manuring and tending. Further, these four acres of ground will be enriched by the manure not absorbed by the crop of corn, so as to produce a greater crop the next year than the ten acres that were planted without or with little manure. Add to this, the personal labor, loss of time, wear of implements, worth of seed and loss of flesh in horses and cattle when ten acres are cultivated for the produce of four, and the balance in favor of tilling only a small portion of what it is common to till, will appear surprisingly great.” Farmers, if you have never made an experiment of the kind you will find your advantage in trying it.

Toil and be strong, but if you would be strong in reality, you must learn temperance, friends, and bear without reproach the choice of water. Ardent spirits afford no nourishment, and though they may for a little while animate the animal spirit above their ordinary level, they are sure to ebb to an equal degree below. Many seem to imagine that it is necessary, at this season, to build up a fire within in order to balance the heat that acts upon us from without. Were the outsides of our houses exposed to the flames, we should hardly think of preventing them by scattering fire within. To allay thirst in hot weather I find nothing better than milk and water, or sweetened water mingled with vinegar or ginger. These are victuals and drink too.

Unleached ashes mixed with salt, in the proportion of eight quarts of ashes to one of salt, is said to be very conducive to the health of cattle and horses, and sheep.

When the beauties of spring are prefer'd
And music and sillness accord,
In the notes of the ring-dove are heard,
The groans of our agonized Lord.

SEPTEMBER.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

The hills and the vallies their bounties pour
To fill with plenty the farmers' store ;
The flower of summer is withered and dead.
And the rustling leaves are sear and red.

It is one thing to give good advice and quite another thing to follow it. Every man is ready to do the former, but few, very few, the latter, and I am very fearful that my sage instructions will be permitted to pass by you like the idle winds which you respect not. But shall I on that account keep silence? No. I will cry aloud and spare not, whether you will hear, or forbear. If you follow my advice, yours will be the reward for so doing, but if you do not, you will suffer the consequences without exciting a particle of my compassion. Attend strictly to your business. Business before friends, is an o'd maxim, and, taken in its proper sense, is a very good one. Not that our friends are to be neglected or slighted, for the sake of attending to business; but that we should not suffer our crops to remain in the field to be destroyed by storms and vermin, while we make or receive too long visits. Secure your crops and get fairly up with your business and then you have my permission to spend a few days at this pleasant season in visiting your friends.

It is much better, and in the end, less mortifying, to be laughed at, than ruined; better to have a wife, who like Martial's Mamurra, cheapens every thing and buys nothing, than to be impoverished by one whose vanity will purchase every thing and whose pride will cheapen nothing. A rich carpet, looking glass, side-board and the like are well enough, for those who can afford them, but ill become the parlor of him who has to be dunned for his taxes. Remember that he who follows fashion, and buys every thing, will soon come to nothing.

“Despatch at once, if possible, whatever you may take in hand; if interrupted by unavoidable interference, resume and finish it as soon as the obstruction is removed.”

When the summer unfoldeth her charms,
For the soul of cont emplative mirth,
His sun still enlightens and warms,
His the air that refreshes the earth.

OCTOBER.

FARMER' CALENDER.

The leaves are fast falling and wane of the year,
Loudly proclaims that the winter is near ;
When the streams shall be mute and the tuneful breath
Be closed from our clime, or hush'd into death.

Let us endeavor to secure all the rewards, which the Giver of all good has bestowed upon the labor of our hands during the summer and autumn. Let none of them be wasted through neglect ; if all is preserved there will be sufficient, so that the poor and the rich shall be fed and peace and happiness be established in our borders. How encouraging is the business of agriculture ! If any man is to be envied it is the farmer, who derives his subsistence from the produce of his own lands. Who so independent ! If a man can be happy any where it is upon a snug little farm, with now and then a visit from his friends.

But if instead of a friend he chance to be called on by a sheriff with an execution in his pocket, or by a collector with a bill of last year's taxes, alas ! poor soul, he may seek employment in one place as well as another. I tell you what, friend, if you would get along smoothly, prosperously & happy, you must make your calculations to keep pretty much out of debt and never let your taxes lay unpaid after they become due. Your corn may grow luxuriantly, your hogs, sheep and cattle may fatten, and your garners may be filled with the exuberance of the field, still you will be continually in a state of vexation unless you are out of debt.

Drunkenness is the vice of a good constitution or of a bad memory ; of a constitution so treacherously good that it never bends until it breaks ; or of a memory that recollects the pleasure of getting drunk, but forgets the pains of getting sober.

“ Do not assume to yourself more credit for what you do, than you are entitled to, rather be content with a little less ; the public mind will always discover where merit is due.”

Every morn hath abundance to tell,
Of a Saviour's unlimited grace,
When a season of Autumn's mild spell
Proclaims the rich smiles of his face.

NOVEMBER.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

“Though the spring time of life is around thee now,
The elastic step and the shining brow
And the auburn hair that curling flows ;
Yet the winter of age will bring its snows.”

The diligent and circumspect farmer is now in a state of preparation for winter, and every one should be of this class. Prepared or unprepared, winter may come upon you like a thief in the night. Strive therefore to be in readiness. Let your buildings be tight and warm. Let your windows be mended if they need it, and not by stuffing it with rags. Let your yards be free from brush and legs and stumps, which when covered with snow might cause many a broken shin unless removed. Not long since I had occasion to take a short journey in company with my cousin Ned. As we approached a house, which had the appearance of having once been the abode of industry, wealth and comfort, but which was now their exact counterpart, “Here,” said Ned, “is a fine picture for you. It will make an excellent frontispiece for the Register. This was once the seat of the worthy John Goodman, Esq. His only son George now occupies it, but he is no more like his father than I am like Hercules. George was brought up to no business, but that of spending money, which, since the old gentleman’s death, he has closely followed, till of late he has got out of stock. Poor soul! Look at the shabby old dwelling, filled with ragged children, surrounding a disconsolate mother, without food, fire or clothes. Alas, this is the result of youthful indulgence and folly. Train up a child in idleness and supply him with money, and you train him for misery and ruin. Secure your cellars from the frost—Pay your debts—Listen to no tattlers Employ no quacks—Drink no drams.

Planting Fruit Trees.—Let it be observed as a general rule, always to plant or to transplant your fruit trees, before a single leaf expands or a blossom appears; it is true that some plant later, but never with equal success.

As the evening, with sad, silent tread,
 Moves mournful and slow to the west,
 The sun sinks in ocean's blue bed,
 And points to eternity's rest

DECEMBER.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

'But here is a scene, as good men teach,
Where the chill blight of winter never can reach;
Where the winter of life shall ever be o'er,
And the stern of death will wither no more.'

Book-keeping is a branch of education too little attended to in our schools and too little practiced by our farmers and mechanics. Every man ought to have an account book and to understand and carefully to practice keeping accounts. There is but little trouble in settling with our neighbors, if each one keeps an exact account of debt and credit, and is careful to adjust them once a year.

Of beings, who call themselves human, a busybody is one of the most detestable. One would think that we had quite enough of our own concerns to employ us without meddling with the affairs of others; yet we find many, very many, who are so much engaged in other people's matters that they have no time to attend to their own. One such person is often sufficient to keep a whole neighborhood, yea, a whole town, in a continual dispute and jargon. Let every one mend one, and then we shall have a peaceable and pleasant neighborhood; or in other words, let every one reform one, and there will be a general reformation.

You have now an opportunity of educating your children, and what better can you give them than a good education. Riches may take to themselves wings and fly away, honors may wither and fade, but a good education with habitual improvement, will abide by them, and be a perpetual source of pleasure and profit, though business and money and friends should fail them. But the time is short—employ it to the best purpose. Enjoy the reward of your toil. Be grateful for the bounties of Heaven. Cultivate your moral and intellectual faculties—live in peace—maintain a conscience void of offense.

The U. States covers a surface of nearly two millions and a half square miles, capable of sustaining a population of five hundred millions of human beings.

So the stern winter season awhile,
And the tempest that threaten'd above,
Shall yield to the durable smile
Of spring ever blooming in love.

WALTONS'
VERMONT REGISTER

AND

FARMERS' ALMANAC,

FOR

1841:

BEING FIRST AFTER BISSEXTILE OR LEAP YEAR.

Calculated for the meridian of Montpelier, lat. $44^{\circ} 17'$ North, long.

$4^{\circ} 25'$ east from the capitol at Washington.

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS BY

ZADOCK THOMPSON, A. M.

MONTPELIER:

PUBLISHED BY E. P. WALTON & SONS.

EXPLANATIONS OF THE ASTRONOMICAL DEPARTMENT.

As considerable additions have this year been made to the Astronomical Department of the Vermont Register, and as some parts of the preceding numbers have not been generally understood, we have deemed it proper to give the following explanations.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in a year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day, and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit, both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz. April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th, and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to 16 1-4 minutes.

All the calculations in this Register are adapted to mean solar time.

The right hand page for each month is the same as heretofore, with the addition of the column of the moon's southing. We have added twelve pages, giving the sun's declination and semidiameter, and equation of time to the nearest tenth of a second, and calculated for the instant of mean noon at Montpelier; and also tables of the declination and southing of the principal planets on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, standing at the head of the page.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be.) given in the Almanac, and also about 3 or 4 minutes according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience it has been thought best to apply both these corrections to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take for this purpose the 22d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 7 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 7 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 53m in the morning, and 5h 53m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there, and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon, as his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 53m, leaving 5h 49m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 53m, which gives 5h 57m for the time of his setting on the 22d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked sun south is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian, or in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again, when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

On page 7 will be found a list of such occultations of planets and stars by the moon, as may be suitable for observation for determining longitude, and may be visible in Vermont. And this is preceded by a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for the same purpose.

PUBLISHERS' NOTICE.

The improvements noticed in the preceding, will be followed next year with several others in regard to the matter, arrangement and style of "Walton's Vermont Register," so as to render it in every respect superior to what it has heretofore been. Early orders for 1842 are desired, that an edition may be printed equal to the demand.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN AND MOON.

In the year 1841, there will be six Eclipses, four of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. A partial eclipse of the Sun, January 22d, invisible in Vermont; ☿ at 16m. after noon. This eclipse will be visible only from a small part of the Southern Ocean.

II. A total eclipse of the Moon, February 5th, visible at Montpelier, as follows :

Beginning of the eclipse,	7h 30m	} Mean Time Evening.
Beginning of total eclipse	8h 28m
Middle of the eclipse	9h 16m
End of total eclipse	10h 0m
End of the eclipse	11h 3m

Duration of total eclipse 1h. 37m. Duration of eclipse 3h. 33m. Magnitude of the eclipse (the Moon's diameter being 1,) 1.7 on the Southern Limb.

III. A partial eclipse of the Sun, February 21st, invisible in Vermont; ☿ at 6h. 31m. in the morning.— This eclipse will be visible from Iceland and the Northern parts of the Atlantic Ocean.

IV. A partial eclipse of the Sun, July 18th, invisible in Vermont. ☿ at 9h. 23m. in the morning. This eclipse will be seen from the northern parts of Europe and the North Atlantic Ocean.

V. A total eclipse of the Moon, August 2d, partly visible at Montpelier, as follows :

Beginning of the eclipse	3h 13m	} Mean Time Morning.
Beginning of total eclipse	4h 19m
-Moon set totally eclipsed	4h 53m
Middle of the eclipse	5h 11m
End of total eclipse	6h 3m
End of the eclipse	7h 8m

Duration of total eclipse 1h. 44m. Duration of the eclipse 3h. 55m. Total eclipse visible 34m. Eclipse visible 1h. 40m. Magnitude of the eclipse (the Moon's diameter being 1,) 1.66 on the northern Limb.

VI. A partial eclipse of the Sun, August 16th, invisible in Vermont. \odot at 4h 43m in the evening. This eclipse will be seen only from a small part of the Southern and South Pacific Ocean.

VISIBLE ECLIPSES OF JUPITER'S SATELLITES.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

The stream of time flows swiftly along—
 A stream unceasing and so strong
 That nought its power with-stands;
 It bears along in its career
 The days and months and varied year,
 And works of human hands.

Fellow-Citizens:—I know very well that it is one thing to preach, and another thing to practice—that it is one thing to teach by precept, and quite another thing to teach by example; or, in other words, it is much easier to give good advice than to follow it. But the difficulty of following good advice is not a sufficient reason for neglecting to give it; I shall therefore continue to advise, and if the good people see fit to follow my advice—well—if not, I shall clear my own skirts, and they must bear the consequences upon their own shoulders. Advice, in order to be effectual, must be pungent, and in order to be pungent, it must be directed to particular cases, and these cases must be brought home to individuals. General advice is directed to every body, and what is every body's business is no body's, and therefore no body regards it. If I tell Corporal Sloven that he is a slovenly man, because he suffers his cattle and sheep to lie together on the barn floor and eat out of the hay-mow and waste twice as much hay as they eat, Corporal Sloven knows whom I mean, and although he may be offended at me for exposing him, he will profit by the exposition, because he knows all eyes are now turned upon him, and Corporal S. is not wholly destitute of pride.

We do not know what is really good or bad fortune.—Rosseau. Our condition in this world is mixed. We all, in every state, have our sufferings, but of none is the condition so abject, that he may not find grounds of consolation, and discern the merciful finger of Omnipotence, pointing out to him a place of rest, of happiness unmixed, of everlasting peace.

Ah! why, unfeeling Winter! why
Still flags thy torpid wing?
Fly, melancholy season, fly,
And leave the year to Spring.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Time bids the snows descend and spread
 A carpet o'er the mountain's head,
 And in the vale below ;
 Time bids the winds arise and bear
 On pinions of the moving air
 The dancing flakes of snow.

In looking round upon the motley crew, which make up the world of mankind, what a vast multitude are recognized by the sir-name Idler. Among the most prominent and best known of this name, is Tipling Idler. This man's conduct demonstrates that rum is the supreme object of his regard,—that he loves it better than his friends, or his wife, or his children, and that he is ready to abandon all these, and even make them wretched, to obtain it,—yea, better than his own life, for we see him lay down his life for rum. But several respectable families have formed a resolution that they will henceforth have no farther intercourse with this family of idlers, but would use their influence to banish them from all good society.

This is a short month and a blustering one into the bargain, yet notwithstanding this, you have something to do. All things require care, and besides this, your minds require culture, and you little think how fast time slips away. This little month may vanish before you are aware of it.

Tho' Boreas may bluster and heap up the snows,
 And Jack Frost pinch your ears, your fingers and toes,
 Yet time trudges on as he trudged on of old,
 Nor heeds our complaints, nor the north wind nor cold.

Then rouse up ; and if your hand findeth nought to do, the mind hath labor to perform, and what that findeth to do let it do with all its might.

We seldom find persons whom we acknowledge to be possessed of good sense, except those who agree with us in opinion.—Roche't. When such occasions do occur, our self-love always induces a decision in favor of their judgment.

Spring, the young cherubim of love,
An exile in disgrace,
Flits o'er the scene like Noah's dove,
Nor finds a resting place.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Time bids the sun return and bring
His genial aid to ope the spring,
And burst the icy bands ;
The mountain snows dissolve and flow
Along the deluged vales below,
And fertilize the lands.

See that your cattle and horses are not permitted to range upon your pasture and mowing lands while they are soft and miry. This practice is a sure indication of an unthrifty, slovenly farmer. And these are not the only signs indicative of a poor farmer, which manifest themselves. He neglects to remove the earth and dung from the sils of his buildings, till the sils become rotten, and then it costs him twenty dollars for repairs which one dollar's worth of work would have saved, if it had been performed in leisure time ten years before. He sows and plants his lands till they are exhausted before he thinks of manuring. He keeps more stock than he can keep well, and consequently his cattle and sheep are carried off by murrain and other distempers, and those which survive the winter are weak and inactive, and do not thrive during the summer. But the good farmer is the reverse of all this. He keeps pace with his business, and sees that every thing is done in season,—yea, more than this—he is continually providing for the future. At this season when the weather is unsuitable for the making of sugar, he is employed in putting his tools in order for the performance of his spring's work. His carts, harrows, hoes and shovels, are all carefully examined, and those which need it, thoroughly repaired ; and he even now looks forward to the season of hay-making, and is not unmindful of the condition of his scythes, rakes and pitch-forks.

Even the hope of reward in another world, based on conscientious rectitude of conduct and religious feeling, is in itself a reward beyond all estimation. It is an anchor in the storms of adversity.

Ah! Winter, calm thy cruel rage,
 Re'ease the strug ling year;
 Thy power is past, decript sage,
 Arise and disappear.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Time bids the sun increase his fire—
 Time bids the swoll'n streams retire
 Within their wonted bounds ;
 Time bids the earth put on her green,
 And then enlivens all the scene
 With sweet and cheerful sounds.

Now, farmer, shall I exhort you to quicken your activity? Shall I tell you to stir your stumps—to be up and doing? All creation is addressing this exhortation to you. The sky over your head—the ground under your feet—the fields and gardens on every hand, say unto you, now is the accepted time! and as you now sow, so shall you hereafter also reap. If you sow sparingly, you shall reap sparingly. If you cast the seed upon the ground without putting the ground in a proper condition to receive it, you sow to the wind, and in the time of harvest you shall reap chaff. But cast good seed in suitable quantities, upon good ground which is well prepared, and it shall spring up and grow, and bring forth fifty, yea, perhaps a hundred fold; and then at the harvest shall ye gather in the ear and the full corn in the ear, and ye shall then be filled with food and gladness.

Neglect not the making and planting of your gardens. A very small piece of ground, which is well husbanded, will do very much towards supporting a family. And if you cannot bring yourself to do as the old saying would have you, and work in the garden when it rains so hard that you cannot work out doors, still there will be many half hours in every week which may be profitably spent in the garden without interfering with other business, and which would otherwise probably be spent to no purpose. A word—a hint will effect more upon the man of understanding than a kick upon a fool.

The conquerer is regarded with awe; the wise man commands our esteem; but it is the benevolent man who wins our affections—he alone is beloved.—Fr.

The stars that graced thy splendid night
 Are lost in warmer rays;
 The sun rejoicing in his might
 Unrolls celestial days.

FARMER'S CALENDAR.

Time calls a new creation forth—
 See all things bursting into birth,
 Or rising from the dead ;
 First he sends down the gentle showers ;
 Then scatters round the lovely flowers
 Upon the verdant mead.

"Gather up the fragments that nothing may be lost," was a family order, given after a plentiful meal, by one who could instantly command a supply of bread. The power of Providence is exercised with the same wise economy as the power of miracles. Neither of them is prostituted to the gratification of luxury, or the encouragement of negligence and laziness. In the divine works there is no profuseness, and there ought to be none in ours. Providence is bountiful, but not wasteful ; its blessings are bestowed freely, but not lavishly. We are to receive them thankfully, and use them frugally ; not lose them by carelessness, nor squander them away by extravagance. The man who gathers up what heaven gives, and who suffers nothing to be lost, will always have a supply. He who receives not what is offered, or preserves not what is cast into his hands, will always be in want. But, my friend, think not that aught will be bestowed upon you without your own endeavors. You must ask in order to receive—you must seek in order to find—you must sow in order to reap. And remember, too, that as ye sow, so shall ye also reap. It costs nearly as much to raise a poor crop as a good one—the same tax—the same fencing—the same quantity of seed—nearly the same quantity of tillage—the same labor in threshing—then why not manure your lands, add a little to the tillage, and have great crops ?

The happiness of the human race, in this world, does not consist in our being devoid of passions, but in our learning to command them.—Fr. Prov.

Men of limited capacities generally condemn every thing that is above the level of their understandings.

The surly Winter now has fled;
 And smiling Spring supplies his stead;
 The sky dissolves in gentle showers,
 And lovely May unfolds her flowers.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Time bids the songsters cheer the grove,
 With notes of melody and love—
 And when their mates they've chose
 He bids them lay aside their song,
 To hatch their brood and rear their young,
 And watch their soft repose.

I have already given you a few of the signs of a poor farmer. It may not be amiss to increase the list, since there is abundance of materials. A slovenly farmer may be known by his inattention to small things as well as great. The shoes of his children are spoiled for the want of strings to tie them, or a little tallow to grease them. His gate hinge comes off for the want of a nail, and the gate is destroyed for the want of a hinge, and his garden is destroyed for the want of a gate; and all this loss is occasioned by not timely driving and clinching a single nail. Nothing is in order. He has a place for nothing, and nothing is in its place. If he wants a gimlet, a chissel, or a hammer, he hunts up chamber, runs out to the barn, then to the corn house, searches the cupboards, and lastly, when he has spent more time in the search than it would have taken to do the job, he finds it down cellar. He keeps no stock of small things—if a button or a bail to a pail gives way, or a key to a yoke, or a pin to a sled, or a helve to an axe, or even a tooth to a rake, he has none to replace them. These are a few more of the signs of a poor farmer. See, then, dear friend, that they are not applicable to yourself. Despise not the day of small things. Remember that large streams flow from little fountains, and that the neglect of small things will bring great affairs to ruin.

A Sentiment of Franklin.—"I think agriculture the most honorable of all employments, being the most independent. The farmer has no need of popular favor, nor of the favor of the great: the success of his crops depending only on the blessing of God upon his honest industry."

The lambs are leaping o'er the green,
No hear frost in the dawn is seen;
But every heart and every grove
Thrills with the ecstasies of love.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Time in his course moves all things on,
 Bids days approach and bids them gone,
 Nor heeds what mortals say ;
 But on his current swift and strong
 He bears the days and months along,
 And wafts us all away.

Well, now neighbor Haymaker, if you have kept pace with your business, every thing is in complete readiness to commence your haying. But I have two cautions to give--Beware of cold water and hot rum. The one may kill by excessive friendship, and the other by its implacable enmity. Would you, friend, if the outside of your dwellings were exposed, or actually on fire, endeavor to extinguish them and preserve your buildings by scattering flames within? That course would imply no greater folly than to pour down our throats ardent spirits, that liquid fire, to counteract the fervor produced in our frame by that flood of solar fire which is now descending upon us. If your hay is not perfectly well made before it goes into your barn, be not sparing of salt. Scatter it upon your hay freely and it will not be lost, nor your hay spoiled, nor will you have the trouble of salting your cattle while feeding upon it. When it so rains that you cannot work out-a-door, you, who neglect to do it at other times, may take care of your gardens. What needs doing better be done at a bad time than not to be done at all. But remember that there is a time and season for all things, and that as far as possible every thing should be done in its season. Leave till to-morrow that which should be done to-day, and the business of the morrow will crowd upon next day, and so on ad infinitum. Remember that your garden wants looking to now and then. How much better it is to save our own garden seeds than to pay a dollar or two every year to the Quakers for sowing them for us!

He who is ambitious to be rich, wishes his desire to be accomplished as soon as possible.—Juvenal.

Summer! we meet again and range
 High mountain verge, low winding vale;
 Each varying prospect toiling change,
 In reach of health's delicious gale.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Late winter reigned on every hand ;
 Then spring unlock'd his icy band,
 And bade the earth rejoice ;
 The earth revived, and then at length
 The summer came in all its strength—
 Now lifts his sultry voice.

When I see, as is not unfrequently the case, a stout hearty man begging from house to house, a scanty pittance for a family of tattered starving children, thinks I to myself, man, you have a hard row to hoe. You had much better ask alms of mother earth. She will listen to the voice of thy supplications, and she, if she does not fully reward your attentions, will not load you with curses, nor break your bones with kicks. And he must be a being, sui generis, who does not find it easier, as well as more profitable, to labor than to beg.

Drive your harvesting and not let your grain return again into the earth. Neither let it sprout in the field nor heat in the stock, nor be destroyed by vermin. I have told you before, and the wise king Solomon has told you, that he who is slothful in his business is brother to him who is a great waster. But what signifies admonitions and exhortations, if they pass by those for whom they are intended like the idle winds, wholly unregarded. But we are encouraged by such promises as this—Be ye not weary in well doing, for in due time ye shall reap if ye faint not—i. e. ye shall, sooner or later, see your admonitions heeded, and your efforts crowned with success.

Nature is said to be a mother to some people, and a step-dame to others; but the real truth is, that providence is kind to all alike, and it is industry only that makes a difference between nations and individuals; for those who contemplate her gifts, and study how to make use of them, very rarely fail of finding their pains rewarded, even beyond their expectations.—Dr. Campbell.

Methinks I see thee, Summer! spread
Thy rosy arms in wanton flight,
Changing thy vest, whenever led
By Nature through the fields of light.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

But time ! invidious time moves on !
The sultry summer now is gone,
And Autumn shows his front ;
But every season brings along
Its joys and sorrows, sigh and song,
Its plenty and its want.

Fellow citizens, whether you are aware of it or not, I can say unto you in verity, that three desperadoes are at this very moment traversing the land you live in, and making the most shocking havoc of the property and lives of old and young. They have already murdered more of the inhabitants than were slain in all the battles and perished in prison ships during the war of the revolution ; and, at the same time, they have wasted more substance than would support the national government and pay off the national debt.— Their strength is invincible. Their method of attack is to strike the people on the head, then instantly to trip their heels, pick their pockets, and continue the blows on the head until they have quite beat out their brains. Though they infest public houses chiefly, they are also found lurking in the closets of private houses, in the workshops of mechanics, and in the fields of farmers. In some instances whole families have fallen victims to these murderers ! nay, whole towns have been ravaged and ruined by them. One poor man hereabouts, that had formerly been an industrious striving mechanic, has very lately been murdered by them in a manner too shocking to relate, and there are now several persons in this vicinity who are daily attacked by them, robbed of their money, smitten on the brain-pan, knocked down, and in all respects so violently handled that an alarming stupor has succeeded, and they are already brought to death's door. In a word, the country is in imminent danger from these outlandish miscreants, who mock at reason, and trample upon the precious rights of men. The names of these ruffians are "Rum, Gin, and Brandy." Beware !

Where last we met our robe was like
 The blush that tints the maiden rose,
 But here the crimson glories strike
 As rays with which the ruby glows.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

And now the autumn months are here,
 Which bear along the changing year;—
 October yields his treasures up,
 And plenty with a liberal hand
 Spreads joy and gladness o'er the land,
 And fills the foaming cup.

“I'll tell you how 'tis, Bill,” said my uncle Jo, “I like to see a fellow that's bunkem for doing business. I don't like these fear-of-men chaps, who will lose all their earnings rather than dun a clever fellow right sharp. I say, Bill, if I know any thing, I know one thing—it's of no kind of use to trust a man forever because he is a clever fellow. Some fools say we may as well be out of the world as out of fashion. But I say, the fellow who follows the fashion by trusting out ten times his capital, and waiting forever for his pay, as the fashion is, will be likely to get out of the world into the stone-jug. I am heartily sick of hearing so much about hard times—difficult times—no money—and from those too, who if they had any pluck, (as your aunt Suzy calls courage) could make those who owe for rum and tobacco and ribbons pay up. It is all-rageous strange the people can't see so plain a cause of hard times. Now, Bill, you have just begun business, and if you would not have occasion to complain of hard times, take a word of advice from your old Uncle. Open your shop early, Bill—make short meals—no lounging calls—do your own business so far as you possibly can—sell all you can for cash, or ready pay, and if you trust, be sure and settle with all your customers every year, and let them know that prompt payment is expected. If any are dissatisfied with this course, they are customers not worth retaining.” I heartily thanked my uncle Jo for his good counsels—have carefully noted them down in my private memorandum, and have resolved that I will hereafter observe them as the rules of my conduct.

Nothing flies so swiftly as calumny.—Cicero.

But Autumn! why advance so fast;
 Why come with sullen brow?
 O let this charming season last
 In a perpetual row.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

How changed the scene! with brown and red
 The forest's dress is interspread ;
 And rustling in the gale,
 The leaves up borne upon the breeze
 To distant moorings sail.

As this is a trifling age, trifles are become the most valued commodities. The ancient and modern classics are laid aside, and people now read none but trifling authors, and pursue none but trifling amusements, and contend for none but trifling fashions and opinions. A trifling fellow is preferred to the man of real worth, and a trifling woman is more admired than she who can think. And as if there were not real trifles enough in the world, the people now make trifles of the most serious and valuable things, for they trifle away their time, their health, their money, and their reputation. Honesty has become a trifle, honor a trifle, sincerity a trifle, conscience a trifle, and religion the greatest trifle of all. And I can but fear, although I regret to say it, that my own weighty admonitions and sage instructions are regarded as trifles. But it is some consolation to know, that such treatment is, in these trifling times, the most conclusive proof of their intrinsic excellence and importance. Look ye, friend to the windward! It will not be a trifling thing to have winter come upon you, while you are unprepared. Tattered shoes and stockings—thin and ragged clothing—a shattered and open house—a poor fire and scanty bed clothes, are not the veriest trifles in the world in cold winter weather.

A word to the wise
 Gives sight to his eyes,
 But the fool will despise,
 And his trifles still prize:

For lineage, ancestry, and all other things which we have not ourselves acquired, can scarcely be called our own.—Ovid. Every man should feel more pride in acquisitions obtained by his own merit, than in honorary distinctions earned by his ancestors.

But no: the leaves from fading trees,
With rustling noise complain,
While from the North the Borean breeze
Drives fiercely o'er the plain.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

And now December, cold and drear,
 Comes on to close the changing year,
 And bid it hence retire :
 Then, friend, thy house in order set,
 Collect your due, pay every debt—
 And then enjoy your fire.

But the car of time is bringing us to the verge of another year, and what now remains to be said must be shortly said, and what remains to be done must be quickly done. And to you, friends, whose labors during the year have been crowned with abundance, lift your hearts in gratitude to the Disposer of events, and with a tribute of thanksgiving and praise bow down before the Lord, thy Maker ; and with that beneficence with which he has regarded you, look round upon the poor and destitute, and double thy own blessings by giving a portion of what thou hast so freely received—yea, by so doing thy blessings will be more than doubled, in as much as it is more blessed to give than to receive. See that your schools are furnished with good teachers, with good and comfortable school rooms, and with the necessary apparatus and all the convenience for facilitating the communication and acquisition of knowledge. Better far to leave thy children poor and well educated, than to leave them rich, in worldly stores, and poor in intellectual treasures. Which is the nobler part of our persons, body or mind ? But courteous reader, we are now arrived at the brink of the year, and standing upon it, and wishing you much profit from the past, and much happiness in the time to come—wishing you abundant success in all your laudable pursuits, and an exemption from all the avoidable ills of this present life, and immortal bliss in the life which is to come—I bid you an affectionate—Farewell.

There are many men who appear struggling against adversity, and yet are happy ; but yet more, who, although abounding in wealth, are yet miserable.

And Winter comes, and nature dies,
But dies to live again;
For Spring will come—the flowers will rise
Upon the snow-clad plain.

THE SCHOOL FUND.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR, SEPT. 30, 1840, To the Governor.

It appears by my report made to your Excellency, on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1839, that said Fund on that day consisted of various sums annually received as applicable thereto and loaned to the State from the year 1834, inclusive to that time, not including interest, amounting to $76,513 81
Also of loans to individuals secured by note, 43,134 40

Making the whole 119,648 21

The amount received from all sources during the past year is as follows, viz :

From Bank Dividends	4,305 56
“ Pedlars' Licenses	702 00
“ Principal paid on School Fund notes	891 59
“ Interest paid in on do.	1,987 71
	7,886 86

Which being added to the fund of last year makes 127,535 07

From this should be deducted 891 59

Being the amount paid in of the principal of individual's notes, leaving the present actual amount of the School Fund, exclusive of interest due from the State and individuals to be $126,643 48

A C A R D .

We take this opportunity to tender our thanks to the people of the State, who have for twenty-four years sustained "Walton's Vermont Register." As well in gratitude for past favors, as to merit a continuance of the liberal patronage of the public, we have this year incurred unusual expenses and bestowed unusual care, for the purpose of making a great improvement in the style, and a very large addition to the matter of the Register. The result is before you, and we trust will prove acceptable.

THE PUBLISHERS.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in a year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the left hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 22d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 7 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 7 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 53m in the morning, and 5h 53m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon as his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 53m, leaving 5h 49m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 53m, which gives 5h 57m for the time of his setting on the 22d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked sun south is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked sun's declination, sun's semi-diameter, and equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 7 will be found a list of such occultations of planets and stars by the moon as may be suitable for observation for determining longitude, and may be visible in Vermont. And this is preceded by a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for the same purpose.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

In the year 1842 there will be three Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, January 11th; invisible in Vermont, conjunction 11h 25m morning. This Eclipse will be visible only in very high south latitudes.

II. A partial Eclipse of the Moon, Jan. 26th; invisible in Vermont. 8 11.0m eve. This eclipse will be visible from the whole of the eastern continent. Mag. (the Moon's diam.=1) 0,8 on the northern limb.

III. A total Eclipse of the Sun, July 8th; invisible in Vermont. Conjunction 2h 11m morning. This eclipse will be visible from every part of Europe, from nearly the whole of Asia, from the northern part of Africa, and from the extreme northern part of North America.—The path of the central and total eclipse will first touch the earth on the western coast of Portugal, and taking an easterly course, will traverse the southern parts of Europe, the whole continent of Asia, and terminate in the Pacific Ocean in Long. 148° E. from Greenwich.

IV. A partial Eclipse of the Moon, July 22d; invisible in Vermont. 8 6h 7m morning. This eclipse will be visible from the western parts of North America and from the eastern parts of the Eastern Continent and the Pacific Ocean. Magnitude (Moon's diameter=1) 0,3 on the Moon's southern limb.

V. An Annular Eclipse of the sun, December 31st; invisible in Vermont. Conjunction 2h 12m evening. This eclipse will be visible from the whole of South America, from the West Indies, and the Pacific Ocean, but will be seen from no part of the United States. The path of the central and annular eclipse first touches the earth in the Pacific Ocean in Long. 175° 34' W. from Greenwich, and Lat. 18° 17' S.; takes first a southeasterly and then a northeasterly direction, and reaches the Continent of America in the southern part of Peru.—Thence it pursues a northeasterly course across the continent and terminates near the mouth of the river Amazon.

Visible Eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites.

Mean time at Montpelier—Long. 72° 36'—4h 50m 24s w. from Greenwich.

Maxims and precepts for young farmers.

Regard all persons whose time and labor are at your command, as beings for whose health, comfort, and good conduct in this life, you will be held most fearfully responsible in the life to come.

Never forget that both moral and bodily health depend upon the same thing; i. e. temperance in food, drink, and all sensual indulgences.

I talked to my flattering heart,
 And chid its wild, wandering ways ;
 I charged it from folly to part,
 And to husband the rest of its days.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Once more, fellow-citizens, are we permitted to greet you ; and, by the help of your long and liberally bestowed patronage, to appear in a new dress, and bearing large additions to our usual store of what are, with all humility we hope, good things. Expect not with the new garb a new spirit. As, with good conscience we can say, that to bring forth true things has been our constant aim, so shall it be, now and hereafter. Expect, then, line upon line—precept upon precept—here a little and there a little.

We have been spared to enter upon another year, and let the occasion bring home to the heart a plain question,—have we entered upon it with a fixed determination to do more than ever for our God, our country, and ourselves—to be better Christians, better citizens, and better and more successful in our individual callings? Few great or good things will be accomplished by us, if we have not ; yea, if we have not thus determined, we shall, in all probability, do less than we ever have done, and become worse than we are. There is no middle ground—no resting place for man. By the influences from within and from without, he is either borne upward and onward, or hurried down, in the scale of character. It is for him to give direction to these influences ; and if he would do it well, he must not only determine to do it, but seek the best means of accomplishing his purpose. Begin with the right purposes—persevere in the right means—and success is yours.

I consider every man who makes some new agricultural improvement—every man who is instrumental in promoting the cause of agriculture—as the most deserving of approbation. The farmer's enjoyment from the improved culture of the ground, is greater than what arises to men employed in other business ; and this might be much increased, if they would expend a portion of labor and expense in beautifying and adorning the lands which the Almighty has blessed with fruitfulness under their hands.—Dr. Channing.

In securing a competency, and in the accumulation of wealth, more is ordinarily dependent on economy than on earning. And in this business, much, very much, depends upon the ladies. It is impossible for those men to get ahead, whose wives have the faculty to shovel out of the window faster than their husbands can bring into the door. According to "Poor Richard," that man is sure to grow rich whose daily earnings exceed his daily expenditures. A different order of things is sure to result in poverty. "The way to wealth is as plain as the way to market."

Cultivate a little land well, and it will be more profitable in proportion to the labor expended, than the cultivation of much land carelessly. The doing of any thing unfaithfully, is bad policy. This skimming over a large surface, building long fences, paying high taxes, and travelling over much land to secure what might be secured on half the same land, with half the ploughing, half the hoeing, half the fencing, half the taxes, and half the travelling, is the way for farmers to complain, with reason, that their business will hardly support them.

Ever bear in mind, that useful knowledge and a proper application of it, are to the health of the soul what wholesome food and appropriate exercise are to the health of the body.

Leave show to spendthrifts and fools, while you and your families consult only tasteful simplicity, comfort, and usefulness, in all your arrangements and expenses.

I had it no longer admire
 The meteors which fancy had dress'd ;
 I whisper'd 't was time to retire,
 And seek for a mansion of rest.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

'T is the shortest month of the twelve : let us be admonished, that for man time is short ; and hence is deduced the exhortation—"Take Time by the forelock." Every day brings its own duties, and leaves no room to do that which should have been done yesterday. To-day, then, what thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might.

It is to be presumed that, like prudent farmers, you have long since taken care that your household, your cattle, and your sheep, are all well prepared against the rigors of this season. Alas ! for you and yours, if it be not so. You shall reap the just penalty of neglect, in an unhappy and unhealthy household—miserable and unprofitable stock—and a large crop of doctors' bills and hard times. But with all things snug and comfortable at home, you have now an opportunity to look abroad and ahead ;—to the roads, and see that these are clear of drifts ;—to the schoolhouse, the schoolmaster, and the children, that all these may be right ;—to the wood-yard, for that must be supplied for another season, and there is nothing like having it supplied plentifully and seasonably, so as to be sure to have dry wood, and enough of it ;—to the tapping-irons, the kettles, and the sap-buckets—for sugar-making will soon demand your time ; and then there are the long evenings—the richest and most blessed seasons to the farmer who knows how to improve them ; the season of reading, of innocent pastimes, of social conversation, of mental and moral improvement. Suffer a word of advice : let your family be supplied with choice books, and at least one good newspaper. Of all men in this country, the farmers ought to be intelligent—for they are, by their overpowering numbers, and ever must be, the arbiters of the nation's destiny. Let us insist, then, for the sake of the common weal, that the farmers shall give free course to all the means of acquiring knowledge. One newspaper is indispensable ; three or four, which would cost from eight to ten dollars a year—say one devoted to moral and religious matters, one to agriculture, and one political paper, [one of each prominent party would be an improvement,]—would be highly advantageous. Such an investment would bless you, and your children, and the community in which you live.

Three Great Physicians. The bedside of the celebrated Dumoulin, a few hours before he breathed his last, was surrounded by the most eminent physicians of Paris, who affected to think that his death would be an irreparable loss to the profession. "Gentlemen," said Dumoulin, "you are in error ; I shall leave behind me three distinguished physicians." Being pressed to name them, as each expected to be included in the trio, he answered, "Water, Exercise, and Diet."

Origin of Disease. I tell you honestly what I think is the cause of the complicated maladies of the human frame ; it is their gormandizing, and stuffing, and stimulating the digestive organs to excess ; thereby producing nervous disorder and irritation. The state of their minds is another great cause ; the fidgeting and discontenting yourself about that which cannot be helped ; passions of all kinds—malignant passions and worldly cares pressing upon the mind—disturb the cerebral action, and do a great deal of harm.—Abcrnethy.

Trust not others to do for you, what you can readily and as well do for yourselves.

The farmer who is ashamed of manual labor, will very soon find cause to be much more ashamed of himself.

If you ever make a business of your pleasures, they will most assuredly soon make an end of your business.

A charmer was list'ning the while,
 Who caught up the tone of my lay ;
 " Oh come, then," she cried, with a smile,
 " And I 'll shew you the place and the way."

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

There is yet a little time intervening before you will be called to the sugar orchard, and it cannot be better spent than in examining your tools. Of course these have been well housed and protected from the weather—shame on you, if they have not ; but perhaps there is a tooth gone from the harrow, or some repairs needed for the cart, the wagon, the ploughs, the hoes, the sickles, and the scythes. These should have been attended to in the fall ; but if you neglected them then, now is the best time to do this work : you have leisure yourself personally to see to the business, and the blacksmith will not be so hurried as to put you off.

This is the month for electing town officers, and it becomes every good citizen to be watchful of the interests of his town. All have a common interest here—and all should take heed, and be as faithful to the common weal as to their own private interests.

We shall not undertake to teach you in the matter of sugar-making : experience is the best teacher, if wisely followed. One thing only shall we insist upon, and that is scrupulous cleanliness. Clean sugar costs no more than filthy, while you may eat it with a better appetite, or sell it for a better price.

We are warned that the evenings are becoming shorter and shorter, but we must not part with them without the remembrance that these are among the happiest seasons of the young farmers' courtships. And now let us introduce to you, young gentlemen and ladies, old father Penn, with a word of good advice. " Never marry," said Wm. Penn, " but for love ; but see that thou lovest what is lovely. If love be not thy chief motive, thou wilt soon grow weary of a marriage state, and stray from thy promise, to search out pleasure in forbidden places. It is the difference between love and passion, that this is fixed, that is volatile. They that marry for money cannot have the true satisfaction of marriage, the requisite means being wanting. O how sordid is man grown ! man, the noblest creature in the world ! As a god on earth, and the image of Him who made us, thus to mistake earth for Heaven, and worship gold for God."

Entailed Estate.—Every man who desires to entail a valuable and enduring inheritance on his children, which cannot be docted, of which rogues cannot defraud them, and on which the sheriff can't levy execution, and which they can't alienate by a general assignment,—may accomplish his wishes by bringing them up in habits of persevering industry in any useful calling ; by instilling into them habits of sound economy ; and, above all, by imbuing their minds with correct and practical views of moral and religious obligations.

Wealth.—Wealth, in this country, may be traced back to industry and frugality : the paths which lead to it are open to all ; and such is the joint operation of the law, and the customs of society, that the wheel of fortune is in constant revolution, and the poor in one generation furnishes the rich of the next. The rich man, who treats poverty with arrogance and contempt, tramples upon the ashes of his father or his grandfather ; the poor man, who nourishes feelings of unkindness and bitterness against wealth, makes war with the prospects of his children, and the order of things in which he lives.—Edward Everett.

True economy consists not so much in saving money, as in spending it when made, solely and judiciously for purposes really useful. This annually increases your profits, instead of diminishing or keeping them stationary.

In all your farming operations, never forget that time, like money, if once lost or misspent, is forever past recovery.

I followed the witch to her home,
 And vow'd to be always her guest ;
 "Never more," I exclaim'd, "will I roam
 In search of the mansion of rest."

FARMERS' CALENDAR

The month of Nature's smiles and tears : and as it is improved, so will it be to the farmer the presage of a good harvest or of a sad one. If April brings you warm and gladsome days, and these are suffered to pass away without thoroughly preparing your land for the seed, you must expect the reward of your folly, in being hard driven through all the spring work, and in gathering thin crops at the harvest. "Take Time by the forelock"—here is precept upon precept—plough early ; you cannot do it too early, if you are turning in the sod. And, now, how are the fences ? Are the cattle kept from the mowing land ? Is the garden all prepared, and have you taken measures to have an early supply of lettuce, radishes, potatoes, corn, &c., for the table ?

In ploughing, particularly for root crops, plough deep and stir up thoroughly, that the long tap roots may penetrate readily to such a depth as to be unaffected by any ordinary drouth.

The largest and the safest bank in the world is Mother Earth—and the best shares plough-shares, kept bright by use. This bank pays a handsome profit and a sure one ; it is as unfailling as is the promise of the Holy One "of seed-time and harvest."

Imprisonment for Debt.—During the visit of an Indian chief to one of our cities, he asked, on seeing the jail, "What is that building for ?" The interpreter, who accompanied him, in order to render himself intelligible, observed, "that if a white man owed skins and could not pay them, they put him in that building." The chief, after a little reflection, replied dryly, "Hugh ! white man no catch skins there !"

Knowledge.—Pleasure is a shadow ; wealth is vanity ; and power a pageant ; but knowledge is exstatic in enjoyment, perennial in fame, unlimited in space, and infinite in duration. * * * * In the performance of its sacred offices, it fears no danger, spares no expense, omits no exertion. It scales the mountain, looks in the volcano, dives into the ocean, perforates the earth, wings its flight into the skies, encircles the globe, explores sea and land, contemplates the distant, examines the minute, comprehends the great, ascends to the sublime ; no place too remote for its grasp, no heavens too exalted for its reach.

—De Witt Clinton.

Tattlers.—Tattlers and tale-bearers of every description are the most despicable wretches with which the world is cursed. Show us a man that cannot or will not keep a secret, and you show us a villain unworthy the friendship of a dog. There is more mischief done in the world by these bleating, wide-mouthed retailers of other men's concerns, than by all the robbers and pickpockets in the universe. Spies and informers are worthy of no commiseration, however miserable and degraded they may become. "There is no worse devil," said Jeremy Taylor, "than a devilish tongue."

Reading.—Give a man this taste, and the means of gratifying it, and you can hardly fail of making him a happy man. You place him in contact with the best society in every period of history. You make him a denizen of all nations—a contemporary of all ages.

Avoid debt as you would a pestilence, for it humbles, degrades and debases a man in his own eyes; subjects him to insults and persecutions from others; but still worse, it is a perpetual temptation, however anxiously resisted, to fraud, falsehood, and theft.

Provide a place for every thing, and misplace nothing. No time will ever then be lost in searching for what you want.

But the sweetest of moments will fly ;
 Not long was my fancy beguiled ;
 For too soon I confess'd, with a sigh,
 That the siren deceived while she smiled.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Of all the cheats in the world, those who attempt to cheat Nature get the most thorough and certain punishment. Behold the unhappy man who attempts to cheat his soil in manure and culture: he pays for his land as high as his neighbors, and the annual tax upon it,—labors as long, though perhaps a little more lazily,—pays as much for his seed,—works just about as severely in haying, harvesting, and threshing,—suffers vastly more in his anticipations for the future,—is constantly vexed by the jeers and jokes of his neighbors,—and at last it turns out that he has secured less than half an average crop. So much for the want of a few loads of manure, and a few days of labor. What a—poor calculator. The man cheats himself; erects a monument to his own folly in a poor farm; and then, in all probability, loses his farm into the bargain, and throws himself and family on the charities of the public. O! man, sow liberally, manure freely, cultivate thoroughly, and thou shalt reap most bountifully. The blessing of Heaven falls upon the faithful laborer; his garners shall be full, and his name shall have honor and praise among wise men.

Now is the time, in “the merry month of May,” to fill the earth with the seed. Do it as early as experience shows to be best; but at whatever time, do it well. That is the main point. And now for the highways: and in working out your taxes, remember this thing—the roads of a district are the witnesses of your character which the traveller is sure most to scrutinize. If you are public spirited, energetic, and valuable citizens, you will be sure to have the best roads which the nature of the case will admit. In nine cases out of ten, a dangerous bridge or a deep hole opposite a farm-house, (we care not how respectable is the house,) leads the stranger to judge that a very negligent, or a very niggardly man dwells there.

Early rising, to the farmer, is conducive alike to health, to pleasure, and to profit;—to health, because it gives exercise when the atmosphere is most cool, pure, and bracing;—to pleasure, because Nature is then in her most lovely garb, and the birds most full of song;—to profit, because the two morning hours effect more in labor, and avert more mischief, than four hours at mid-day. Early rising, and exercise in the open air, are the best stimuli for our meals, the best anodyne for sound sleep, the best solace for care, and the best evidence of thrift. “Come, boys,” is the best reveille upon the farm. The farmer who rises late is generally behind his work; while he who rises early keeps before it.—Albany Cultivator.

Lying is communicative: one generates another, and that another still, in an infinite series—a geometric progression of falsehood. A falsehood is like a stone in an arch—each one requires many others to support it.

Leather Water-Proof.—Mix together a quarter of a pound of mutton tallow, three ounces of common turpentine, one ounce of shellac, and an ounce of beeswax. Make the leather perfectly dry and warm, and rub in this mixture as warm as possible, and repeat the operation every other day for three or four times successively.

Economy, not less than humanity, requires you to keep all your farming stock in thriving condition; for a working animal in good order will do much more work and eat less than a poor one; while the rest of your stock, well kept, will yield more of every thing, than double their number, if half starved, as such animals often are.

Deep, deep did she stab the repose
 Of my trusting and unwary breast,
 And the door of each avenue close
 That led to the Mansion of Rest.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Is your grass light, or does your corn promise badly—now is the time to remedy the misfortune, in a great measure, at least, by sowing such root crops as are suitable for late planting. Carrots, turnips, parsnips, and potatoes, will go a great way in keeping your stock through the winter, and most or all of them will do very well if planted late. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

It is high time, we think, to turn from the "lords of creation," and pay our respects to those whom these "lords" (if they are good for any thing,) do love: we mean the wives and daughters. The dairies are neat and clean, and the work of making sweet butter and rich cheese (never make any other,) goes bravely on. So we presume: Vermont affords, undoubtedly, the best means, all things considered, for the best of butter and cheese; and why should Vermont dairy women lack any of the things essential to entire success? No—it must not be; for the credit of the ladies this must not be. But good butter and good cheese—yea, and entire success in all the departments of a good Vermont farm, will not alone do. A wasteful wife (or husband, mind that,) and extravagant children, may keep the owner of the best of farms constantly embarrassed. As a continual dropping of water weareth out stones, so will the continual waste or neglect of very small things wear out the patience and the patrimony of a man. To neatness and industry, then, add prudence and frugality, (not stinginess,) and for the rest we commend to you the advice of King James of England to his daughter, written in a book printed in 1614. It is old and homely, but excellent withal.

"A good wife is to God zelus, to her husband chaste, to the poore
 Pitefull—to neighbors gentell, to her cheledren example,
 all which God grant you my
 Good daughter, for his sonue
 Cristes sake."

The Mother.—Heaven has imprinted on the mother's face something which claims kindred with the skies. The waking, watchful eye, which keeps its tireless vigils over the slumbering child—the tender look and the angelic smile, are objects which neither the pencil nor chisel can reach, and which poetry fails in attempting to portray. Upon the eulogies of the most eloquent tongue we should find Tekel written. It is in the sympathies of the heart alone, where lives the lovely picture, and the eye may look abroad in vain for its counterpart in the works of art.

Watery Potatoes.—We every day hear complaints about watery potatoes. Put into the pot a piece of lime as large as a hen's egg; and how watery soever the potatoes may have been, when the water is poured off, the potatoes will be perfectly dry and mealy.

Candles.—Those who make candles will find it a great improvement to stick the wicks in lime-water and saltpetre, and dry them. The flame is clearer, and the tallow will not "run."

Never expect your lands to give you much, if you give them little, nor to make you rich, if you make them poor. Therefore, always manure them to the full extent of your means, and they will ever make you ample returns in rapidly increasing productions.

If you would excel in your profession, the diligent culture of your mind is as indispensable as that of your fields.

Then Friendship enticed me to stray
 Through the long, magic wilds of Romance ;
 But I found that she meant to betray,
 And shrank from the sorcerer's glance ;

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Hot weather and haying are the order of the day. It is the very time when an unusual degree of hard labor is required; and the time, too, when, from the languor occasioned by excessive heat, one is inclined to be indolent. Let us, then, give a short sermon on laziness, and as the very best for the occasion, we quote from the patent sermonizer, known as "Dow, Jr."

"When I pass by a country farm-house, and find old hats, coats, and breeches, stuffed in at the windows, I know that the god of indolence is lounging there, in the midst of want, wo, and poverty—that the lank children of necessity are there running up to seed in the shade of neglect, unmoistened by the dews of moral instruction. I also know that idleness is pampered by the pap of excessive wealth, and that where riches doth abundantly abound, the tares of sloth are yielding an abundant harvest. Lazy fogs surround the head of him whom lucre has lulled to drowsiness, and he knows not how to shake off the lethargic incubus which sits upon his breast, and sticks faster than a blood-sucker to a dead cat-fish. Why, my friends, I have known men of wealth and respectability, whose physical faculties had become so paralyzed with indolence, that it would require extra high pressure fever and ague to bring their muscles into active service. Yes, my dear hearers, I say I have seen such men; and one good chimney sweep is worth mote in a well regulated and industrious community, than as many such as could be packed between the eastern cape of Africa and the outskirts of eternity.

"O! my friends, I regret to say that idleness has of late become a fashionable accomplishment with too large a portion of our young population. Employment is getting to be thought vulgar, and a toil-hardened hand not fit to be offered for the acceptance of the fair sex.—Give me a hard hand, a hard head, and a soft heart; but instead of which, soft hands, soft heads, and hard hearts, are now all the go in what the dispeptic imps of etiquette call the beau monde. The caterpillars of sloth are making great havoc in our neglected juvenile nurseries. They are stripping the young shrubs of promise of their greenest foliage, and blighting the buds of enterprise as fast as they appear. If matters go on in this way much longer, the rising generation will soon become fit for nothing but to be hung up as scare-crows in the moral grain fields to frighten young men into habits of industry. Those who subsist, like wood-cocks, by suction, and wet their brazen brows with artificial sweat, are too numerous to mention. They are thicker than toads after a shower: they infest our public bar-rooms, and block-up the avenues to prosperity. It requires a more powerful galvanic battery than I possess, to reanimate their dying carcasses, and set their dormant faculties in a healthy operation.

"Arouse ye! arouse ye! ye sin-soaked sons of sloth, and with your hands lay the corner stones of your respective fortunes. Sow the seeds of industry in the days of your youth, and you will have the satisfaction of reaping a glorious harvest of plenty in the autumn of life."

There is no man, however affluent, but by extravagance and immorality, may fall from his high estate, and close his days in penury and wo.

To "save at the spigot, and let out at the bung," will soon empty the biggest hogshead; so will economy in small matters, and waste in large ones, speedily squander the largest estate.

Constantly arrange, beforehand, the daily work of your farms.— Then none of your laborers need ever be idle in waiting to be told what he has to do.

For experience has taught me to know
That the soul that reclined on his breast
Might toss on the billows of woe,
And ne'er find the Mansion of Rest.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Weight of Cattle.—In a country like ours, where great numbers of cattle are annually bought and sold, under circumstances that forbid the ascertaining their weight with positive accuracy, it must be desirable that some general rules, approximating to exactness, should be known, in order to prevent all ground of mistake or collusion on the part of the interested individuals. In England, two or three tables have been constructed by different individuals, founded on the length and girth of the animal at certain points, and based on a vast number of experiments, most carefully made. To illustrate this matter, we have copied from an English work the following tables:—

Girth.	Length.	Renton's Table.	Cary's Gauge.
ft. in.	ft. in.	stone. lb.	stone. lb.
5 0	3 6	21 0	21 0
5 0	4 0	24 0	24 0
5 6	3 9	27 1	27 0
5 6	4 0	34 4	34 7
6 0	4 6	38 8	38 11
6 0	5 0	43 1	43 0
6 6	4 6	45 9	45 7
6 6	4 9	48 0	48 0
7 0	5 6	64 6	64 7
7 0	6 0	70 5	70 3
8 0	6 6	99 8	99 12
8 0	7 0	107 5	107 6

In taking the girth and length of an animal, the manner is as follows:—
“The girth is taken by passing a line just behind the shoulder-blade, and under the fore-legs; this gives the circumference of the animal. The length is taken along the back from the foremost corner of the blade-bone of the shoulder in a straight line to the hindmost point of the rump, or to that bone of the tail that plumbs the line with the hinder part of the buttock.”

These lines are then measured by the foot rule, and the weight can readily be calculated from the tables. Some slight difference in the weight may be traced from the tables, but the agreement is sufficiently close to show that no material error can exist. The tables, according to the English mode of reckoning, are calculated upon the stone of 14 lbs. avoirdupois. Thus, if the girth is 6 feet and the length 5 feet, the weight will be 43 stone 1 lb. or 603 lbs. Mr. Renton, in his “Grazier’s Ready Reckoner,” states, that for a half-fattened ox, one stone in every twenty must be deducted; and when they are very fat, one twentieth may be added. No tables can, however, be at all times implicitly relied upon, as there are many circumstances connected with the build of the animal, the mode of fattening, &c., that will influence the measurement, and consequently the weight. As a general guide, such tables must be useful to the farmer or grazier, for whose use they are of course principally intended.—Genesee Farmer.

Beautiful Idea.—The wild man of Oronoke said to a priest, “Thou keepest thy God in a church, as though he were sick and needed thy care. Our God is on the mountain top, directing the storm, and guarding us in the still watches of the night.”

Never resort to what are called "make shifts," when it is possible to avoid it; for they encourage carelessness and sloth, of which they are almost always sure signs.

The very reverse of the lawyer's maxim, "de minimis non curat Lex"—the law regards not the smallest matters—must be the farmer's guide, or his largest concerns can never prosper as they might.

Pleasure's path I determined to try ;
 But Prudence I met in the way ;
 Conviction flash'd light from her eye,
 And appeared to illumine my day.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Election ! election !—do n't forget that you are freemen. "A hint to the wise," &c. Autumn comes on apace, and will soon greet us, in her attire of golden hues, and crown the labors of the faithful husbandman with an abundant reward. Be ye ready for her gifts, and gather them with thankful hearts. Now is the time to secure your seeds for another season ; and in this matter it is recommended, on good authority, to secure the first seeds which come to maturity, of all sorts. The reason assigned is, that "like hegets like," not only in kind, but in time also ; so if you would have early peas, lettuce, beans, &c. &c. next year, you have now only to select those for seed which have this year ripened the earliest. There is another kindred topic, which ought to have received earlier attention, viz. the gathering of medicinal herbs—a point which no prudent housewife will permit to be neglected. These should be gathered while in the flower, as at this time all their good qualities are fully developed, and the longer you delay after this time, the less valuable will be your herbs. After gathering, let them be well dried, and carefully put up in papers or tied in bunches ready for use. These are small matters in your estimation, perhaps : but, then, it may be well for you to remember that the world itself is nothing but a combination of small matters—the material universe is made up of the smallest and most insignificant atoms. For the twentieth time, or thereabout, we exhort you to remember that "Many a little makes a muckle."

Happiness.—True happiness is of a retired nature, and an enemy to pomp and noise ; it arises, in the first place, from an enjoyment of one's self ; and in the next, from the friendship and conversation of a few select companions : it loves shade and solitude, and naturally haunts groves and fountains, fields and meadows ; in short, it feels every thing it wants within itself, and receives no addition from multitudes of witnesses and spectators. On the contrary, false happiness loves to be in a crowd, and draw the eyes of the world upon her. She does not receive any satisfaction from the applause which she gives herself, but from the admiration which she raises in others. She flourishes in courts and palaces, theatres and assemblies, and feels the realities of existence but when she is looked upon.—Addison.

Preserved Pumpkin.—Stew your pumpkin as usual for pies, spread it thinly upon large, open tins or platters, and place them under or over your stove ; where, if kept four or five days, it will be dry enough to keep in bags or boxes throughout the year. Pumpkin, preserved in this way, is far superior to that preserved in the old method of drying, making much richer and better flavored pies, besides requiring much less labor.

Minding one's Business.—A New England farmer said, that last year he had made $1500 by minding his own business, and $500 by letting the business of others alone ; in all, $2,000. Query. What would this amount to, reckoning it an annuity of $2,000 at six per cent., compound interest, for thirty years ? Answer, $158,116 37.

To keep good gates and fences saves much time and labor in preventing trespasses; much loss of crops from depredations; and best of all, it saves much wrangling and ill will among neighbors, about mischievous stock.

Never commit the self-hurtful folly of looking upon any of the honest trades, professions, and callings, as inimical to your own.

She cried, as she showed me a grave,
 With nettles and wild-flowers dressed,
 O'er which the dark cypress did wave,
 "Behold there the Mansion of Rest."

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Busy as bees, in the corn-field, potato-field, and the orchard; on every hand the gathering of the fruits of the season demands your attention; and hovering about you is a mischief-loving rogue, warning to make all haste: it is Jack Frost. He is a thievish rogue, and needs close watching;—here he nips a pumpkin, and there an apple, and not unfrequently repays the negligence of the lazy farmer by freezing up a whole field of potatoes. Nor are your fruits always safe under cover: through crack and crevice the sly fellow creeps as easily as through an open door. The only safety is in having all things, which are liable to be frostbitten, well housed and protected. It is not a bad plan to have your barns, granaries, and cellars, under the guardianship of a lock and key: there are rogues out of the Frost family; and never are they more likely to exercise their vocation than in the autumn, when all your store-houses are full of the good things of this life.—Locks and keys are full as much to be depended upon as dogs; and it is not unworthy of remark, that the former eat no provender, and never have been known to be troubled with the hydrophobia.

Behold the withering, fading, falling leaves of the forest: the flowers, the beauty of spring, and the glory of summer—all are gone!—How true a type of man: "As for man, his days are as grass; as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more."

Bread.—"The grand secret and mystery of having the bread come out of the oven delicious, inviting, and nutritive," says an instructive writer, "is the exact point of time of putting it in. While in the state of dough, it will readily run into various stages of fermentation. The first of these is the saccharine, or that which produces sugar; the next is the vinous; the third, the acetous, or that producing vinegar, &c. If the dough be formed into loaves, and placed in the oven before the first fermentation has taken place, the bread will turn out heavy; and whoever eats it may rest assured of the nightmare, and various other 'ills that flesh is heir to.' If it be kept from the oven till the second fermentation, it will prove light enough, but tasteless, and little better than the same quantity of saw-dust. If it be delayed until the acetous fermentation has occurred, it comes out sour, and altogether uneatable. It is then, during the first or saccharine fermentation, that it should be cast into the oven; and it will then, if sufficiently baked, be found a sweet and wholesome food.

"That bread should be without sweetness, when allowed to run into the vinous fermentation, is very easily explained; the saccharine matter produced by the first fermentation being converted into a vinous spirit, which is driven off by evaporation during the process of baking. This kind of bread may be easily distinguished without tasting, by its loose, open appearance,—the pores or cells being very large;—whereas, really good bread is marked by fine pores, and a sort of network of a uniform appearance."

Plants derive their nutriment from the soil, and every crop removed takes away part of its productive power, which an honest farmer will take pleasure and derive profit from restoring as soon as possible.

Never flatter yourselves, as some silly people do, that you know all which can be known, even of the most simple branch of your profession, or you will soon know less than thousands of your modest, less assuming brethren. But always act under the firm belief that there is no ascertainable limit to our acquisitions in any art or science whatever; nor any difficulties which diligent study cannot overcome.

She spoke, and half vanished in air,
 For she saw mild Religion appear
 With a smile that would banish despair,
 And dry up the penitent tear.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

The time of "the sear and yellow leaf" is passing away; speedily will the snowy winding-sheet cover hill and valley; and Winter, which may aptly be called the grave of Nature, will assert its stern sway. Are you ready—all ready, for winter? Bethink you whether the house, first of all, is thoroughly prepared against the rough and searching blasts of Boreas; the windows and doors tight; the stoves, stove-pipe, and chimneys, in good trim; and a fire-proof ash-hole, or ash-house, built, and, for double security, placed at a safe distance from every thing combustible. Yes—think of all these; and turn to your policy of insurance—that has not expired, has it? Then there are your stables and sheds; and we remind you of these now, that you may have no excuse for permitting your cattle and sheep to suffer.—And there is one building more to be attended to: let us insist strongly that this shall not go uncared for: it is, good friend—it is—your district school-house. Oh! the untold miseries, the suffering, the diseases, the untimely deaths of children, which are justly to be charged to ill-constructed, badly warmed, and badly ventilated school-houses. We fear that many of the children and school-masters of Vermont are every winter treated worse than the felons in the county jails and the state prison—we mean they are worse housed, and less comfortably provided for; and yet you expect your children to be happy and healthy and good scholars, and your teachers to shew the very perfection of affability and contentment, and to be withal successful teachers! It is really wonderful that our district schools have done as much good as they have confessedly done, when such obstacles have so long passed uncared for, except by the victimized scholar, and the at least semi-martyr, the teacher. Let there be a reform in your district: have a comfortable, pleasant, and inviting school-house to begin with, and then—we impart it as a mighty secret—you will find no trouble in getting first rate teachers at a fair price.

Effeminacy.—Most of the diseases of men arise from effeminate life, or too great an indulgence of the passions. Nature created our bodies hardy and robust, and capable of resisting the common influences of cold, and the fatigue necessary in the ordinary duties of life. We enervate and render ourselves inadequate for those duties, and for resisting these even healthy influences, by a soft, luxurious, inactive mode of life. The agriculturist, the huntsman, the manual laborer remain, till late in life, full of energy and ardor. The man surrounded by plenty or superfluity, and by all the delights of existence, falls, in the midst of them, into passive being. The manner of life of most of us is open to objection. Too close rooms by day and by night; too much nightly clothing; too many drinks calculated to debilitate the stomach; too much moral and mental excitement; too little bodily exercise, and that little most frequently in the streets of cities, not in rustic air; the too sedentary lives of many of our females, who engage, while seated the greater part of the day, in works which occupy the fingers only; late hours, night and morning, instead of the reverse; unseasonable hours of our repasts, and too great intervals between them;—these are the sources of much corporeal listlessness, and thence disease.—Dick on Diet and Regimen.

Encourage, both by precept and example, the true spirit of husbandry; for it promotes harmony, good will, and social intercourse among all with whom you deal; it tends to elevate your own class to its proper rank; and above all, it advances the welfare of your country, by promoting the most important of all her great interests.

Doubts and fears from my bosom were driven,
 And, pressing the cross to her breast,
 And pointing serenely to heaven,
 She showed the true Mansion of Rest.—Charles J. Fox.

FARMERS' CALENDAR.

Winter is at hand—gloomy and cheerless, say you? Say not—think not—thus. Rather adopt the language of the poet :

“But welcome, cold! welcome, ye snowy nights!
 Heaven midst your rage shall mingle pure delights!
 The confidence of hope the soul sustains,
 Whilst devastation sweeps along the plains.”

Like Death, whose type it is, Winter is most gloomy, and cheerless, and abhorrent, to those who are least and worst prepared for it. But whatever you think, or however you feel about it, Winter will come—death will come; the same omnipotent will hath determined both, and His purposes shall not fail. The swift-winged hours, and days, and months, have borne you on, till another year of your allotted time is at its end. Let the close of the year remind you of your duties: if possible, close your accounts with whomsoever you have dealt; and then remember another account—it is between thee and thy Maker. How great the debt of gratitude to Him for life preserved, and for blessings bestowed, during the past year. For His great mercy and His innumerable benefits withhold not thy thanks. It becomes you rather to adopt the language of the Psalmist: “Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Zion; and unto thee shall the vow be performed.” “Thou visitest the earth and waterest it; thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water; thou preparest them corn, when thou hast so provided for it. Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly; thou settlest the furrows thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.—Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness.”

But we are bid to close our admonitions: let it be with the expression of our hope that we have not failed of adding something to your means of becoming wiser and better, and therefore happier, for the future.

Value of Time.—In our dealings with each other there is nothing which we so miscalculate as the ever-varying value of time; and, indeed, it is but too natural to look upon it as it seems to us, and not as it seems to others. The slow idler, on whose hands it hangs heavily, holds the man of business by the button, and remorselessly robs him on the king's highway of a thing ten times more valuable than the purse, which would hang him if he took it. The man of action and of business, whose days seem like moments, forgets in his dealings with the long-expecting applicant and the weary petitioner, that to them each moment is far longer than his day.—James' Henry of Guise.

Education.—Education is a companion which no misfortune can depress, no climate destroy, no enemy alienate, no despotism enslave;—at home a friend, abroad an introduction; in solitude a solace, in society an ornament. It lessens vice; it guides virtue; it gives at once grace and government to the genius. Without it, what is man? A splendid slave! a reasoning savage! vacillating between the dignity derived from God, and the degradation of brutal passion.

A Table for foretelling the Weather through all the Lunations of each Year forever.

BY DR. ADAM CLARKE.

This table and the following remarks are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth; and will, by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the entrance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

	Time of change.	In Summer.	In Winter.
If the new moon, the first quarter happens full moon, or the last quarter happens	Between midnight and two in the morning,	Fair.	Hard frost unless the wind be S. or W.

	— eight and ten P. M.	Ditto.	Ditto.
— ten and midnight,	Fair.	Fair and frosty.

Observations. 1. The nearest the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full and Last Quarter, are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the seven days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to Mid day or Noon, the phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change,—First Quarter,—Full,—and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependant on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed. With this precaution he will scarcely ever be deceived in depending on the table.

The militia of this State is divided into three Divisions, nine Brigades, twenty-eight Regiments, including a Rifle Regiment, and two hundred and ninety-one companies.

The whole militia force of the State, as returned in 1840, is twenty-six thousand three hundred and four, including commissioned and non-commissioned officers, musicians, and privates. The return for 1841 does not give the true amount, (about twenty-four thousand,) one Regiment not having made any return.

Academies and High Schools.

But five returns having been made to the publishers, of Academies, the following table, prepared from the census of Vermont for 1840, is substituted. It is evidently erroneous, however, as to the number of students; in some instances the number for a term being given, and in others for the whole year:

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS BY
ZADOCK THOMPSON, A. M.

MONTPELIER:

PUBLISHED AND PRINTED BY E. P. WALTON & SONS.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations, all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in a year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of Nov., and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also three or four minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 22d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 7 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 7 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 53m in the morning, and 5h 53m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon as his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 53m, leaving 5h 49m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 53m, which gives 5h 57m for the time of his setting on the 22d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked sun south is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian ; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the first day of January, it should be four minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked sun's declination, sun's semi-diameter, and equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 5 will be found a list of such occultations of planets and stars by the moon as may be suitable for observation for determining longitude, and may be visible in Vermont. And this is preceded by a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for the same purpose.

April, 1842.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

In the year 1843 there will be two Eclipses of the Sun, and one Eclipse of the Moon.

I. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, June 27th, invisible in Vermont. Conjunction 2h 34m evening. This eclipse will be visible from Mexico, from nearly the whole of South America, and a large portion of the Pacific Ocean. The line of the annular eclipse crosses the equator twice, and terminates near the centre of South America.

II. A Partial Eclipse of the Moon, December 6th, visible at Montpelier, as follows: Beginning of the Eclipse, 6h 28m; middle of the Eclipse, 7h 21m; end of the Eclipse, 8h 14m. Mean Time Evening. Duration, 1h 46m. Magnitude of the Eclipse, (Moon's diameter = 1) 0.2, on the Southern Limb.

III. A Total Eclipse of the Sun, December 21st; invisible in Vermont. Conjunction 0h 19m morning. This Eclipse will be visible from the north-eastern part of Africa, and from all the southern parts of Asia. The line of the total eclipse first touches the earth in Arabia, passes along the southern coast of Asia, crossing Hindostan and Malaya, and terminates in the Pacific Ocean to the eastward of Japan.

Visible Eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites.

Mean time, Montpelier—Long. 72° 36' = 4h 50m 24s w. from Greenwich.

Another year! with promised blessings rise!
 Eternal Power! from whom those blessings flow,
 Teach me still more to wonder, more to know!
 Sæd-time and harvest let me see again;
 Wander the leaf-strewn wood, the frozen plain;
 Let the first flower, corn-waving field, plain, tree,
 Here round my home, still lift my soul to Thee;
 And let me ever, midst thy bounties, raise
 A humble note of thankfulness and praise!

Farmer's Calendar.

BEGIN RIGHT! These two words are the text, and will be found written upon the heart of every prudent man. Let us consider them briefly in their order. I. Begin. It is demonstrable by the rules of logic, that until there has been a beginning there can be no end; and hence the inference inevitable, that he who never begins is a nonentity—both a do-nothing and a know-nothing. Such eat, and drink, and breathe, by instinct; and placed in the sunlight, they will cast a shadow like other men, for they have the farm and all the nice machinery of humanity, except brains. They cheat God of the honor due Him for the wonderful workmanship displayed in creating man, as by their abominable laziness and stupidity their souls are smothered, and nothing is exhibited but pitiful caricatures of the human race. We can imagine no possible use for such things to themselves. Like tools, they may be used by others; and we suggest whether the farmer may not improve them by way of machines to consume surplus produce, and scare-crows to be stationed in the cornfields. But II: we learn how to begin. It must not be at hap-hazard. Mistakes are often made in this respect; and generally those, who are so unfortunate, find great troubles—they tug and strive in vain—their hopes are constantly thwarted by unforeseen obstacles—and at last, disappointed and sore of heart, they are apt to conclude that the world would have been all the better if they had had the making of it. Like a bad watch, these men usually go on tick, and though never so often wound up, [by the sheriff,] they never agree with other folks. Begin right, then. That is the injunction—it is the foundation of easy and sure success in all enterprises. The traveller on the highways of life differs not from him who journeys on the railroads from country to country. If the first start be right, he enters on the proper road, and he may go on fearless and assured of ultimately arriving at the right place, even though the way be one which he has never travelled. To all we say, finally, begin your business, your habits, your conduct—begin all right; and thus will the new year 1843 itself be rightly commenced, and promise a happy end.

ANCIENT FARMS.—The farm of the celebrated Bocan, Cincinnatus, consisted of only four acres, the other three having been lost by his becoming security for a friend. Curius, who was celebrated for his frugality, who was three times chosen consul, and thrice honored with a triumph, on returning from a successful campaign, refused from the people a grant of fifty acres, declaring that he was a bid citizen who could not be contented with the old allowance of seven.

CANDLES.—Prepare your wicks about half the usual size, and wet them thoroughly with spirits of turpentine; put them in the sun until dry, and then mould or dip your candles. Candles thus made, last longer, and give a much clearer light. In fact they are nearly or quite equal to sperm.

Things not to be done.

Sowing spring wheat without soaking in brine, and rolling in lime, is a thing not to be done. According to C. W. Johnson, salt acts an important part in germination and promoting the growth of plants; and lime, every one is aware, seems to be necessary in some form to the perfection of plants and their seeds.

He starts, and ever thoughtful of his team,
 Along the glittering snow a feeble gleam
 Shoots from his lantern, as he yawning goes
 To add fresh comforts to their night's repose ;
 Diffusing fragrance as their food he moves,
 And pats the jolly sides of those he loves.
 Thus full replenished, perfect ease possess'd,
 From night till morn alternate food and rest.

Farmers' Calendar.

It has been said, that, for a particular reason, ladies talk less in this month than in any other ; a supposed fact which may prove utterly inexplicable to the most ingenious theorists. We have not indulged in very deep speculations, either as to the truth of this charge, or as to the particular reason for it ; but we seriously suspect that this, like other things more strange, may be satisfactorily accounted for by facts, which will elicit no special wonder when discovered. The only reason which we have seen stated is, that the month is altogether the shortest of the twelve. On the supposition (a false one, we will be gallant enough to say,) that the ladies' tongues are always wagging, the shortness of the time will fully account for the alledged phenomenon ; but we deny both that mere words are the measure of talk, and time employed in them the measure of the value of things. One intelligent, sensible and witty woman, who reads and thinks much, and observes closely, will give more instruction and pleasure in the few words which fall from her lips, than can be found in the full stream which pours with mill-race speed from the mouth—perhaps a very pretty one, with ruby lips and ivory teeth to boot—of the constant chatterer. And as to the other point : Genius, skill, and industry, add wings and power to labor, so that hours will produce what years, with stolidity and ignorance and indolence, could not accomplish. Life should be measured, not by its fleeting moments, months and years—those faithful monitors to warn us of the swift approach of the end of all things—but by its results, for good or for evil. Have you, during these long winter evenings, grown in that knowledge which will fit you better for the duties of life—then so much the better will be the results of all your future labors. Have you reflected and improved upon past experience—then the fewer errors will you commit in the days to come. Have you entered upon the duties of this year with increased zeal, and pursued them with increased industry—then will it be to you even as a longer and a better year than its predecessor, for in it you will reap richer fruits.

WASHING.—The following receipt is very valuable ; it saves much labor in washing white cottons, or linens ; but it will not answer for woollens, or for colored clothes.

Take one pound of bar soap, sliced, mix it with one pound of sal soda, and boil the whole in five quarts of water for two hours. Be careful that the clothes you intend to wash are soaked over night, in pure water. In the morning fill your kettle, or boiler ; and to every pailful of water you put in, add one pint of the above composition. When it boils, wring your clothes from the tub, and put them in wet. When they have boiled one hour, take them out and give them two thorough rinsings in plenty of pure water. No further washing is needed. If the clothes have any spots particularly dirty, it is well to rub them with soap, before you put them in the kettle.

If the above proportions are observed, there is not the slightest danger of injuring the cloth in any way.

Attempting to keep cattle, sheep, and horses, on straw or even hay, without roots, is a thing not to be done. Every good farmer will therefore make his arrangements so as to secure a plentiful supply of turnips, potatoes, or carrots, for winter and spring use. These fed with the hay, will improve the stock, promote health, and bring the animals through the most trying season of the year with safety and profit.

When now, unsparing as the scourge of war,
 Blasts follow blasts, and groves dismantled roar,
 Around their home the storm-pinched cattle lows,
 No nourishment in frozen pastures grows;
 Ne'er shall the child of poverty despair,
 But Less the Power that rules the changing year,
 Assured—though horrors round his cottage reign—
 That Spring will come, and Nature smile again.

The sugar season is at hand, and it will be well to have all things in readiness for the first run. Vermont can produce more than a million dollars worth of sugar annually from her forests; and is it not worth while? Oh, no, says the sharper; there is danger of over-production, and a consequent diminution of price. There is something in this objection, if it be taken for granted that more is produced than the markets, at home and in other States, will bear. This should not be too readily conceded. By improving the quality of our sugar, as the makers of it may do if they choose, there is very little reason to doubt that a ready market and remunerating prices can always be obtained. Foreign sugar will be burdened by duties, so as to give advantage to the domestic producer, leaving the competition between the maple of the North and the sugar cane of the South. In such a competition the maple has nothing to fear, if well made. It is at least certain that enough should be made for our own consumption, so as to preclude the necessity of going abroad for the article. This may be done, even to the exclusion of the finest foreign or Southern sugars. The maple sugar, when refined, is the very best. We are inclined to believe, indeed, that the maple can be afforded at less price than the Southern, and then prove a source of wealth to the farmer. It should be borne in mind that the actual expense of the manufacture is trifling, as it is done at a time when little or nothing else can be done. On this subject, however, we have not that practical knowledge which is the only safe guide. Let the farmers take this matter in hand and see what can be made of it. The addition of one million, or half that number of dollars, to the annual productions of the State, is not a matter to be slighted, especially so long as we are obliged to go to our neighbors for some of the necessaries of life. Think of it.

HOW TO SAVE OIL AND CANDLES.—Use sun-light two hours in the morning, and dispense with candles and lamps two hours after 9 P. M. The morning sun-light is much cheaper, and better than evening lamp-light.

MILDEW UPON GOOSEBERRIES.—Advice from one competent to give it. Say to the growers of gooseberries, if they wish to keep off mildew, train your bushes so as to admit a free circulation of air through them; manure about the roots; and forget not to sprinkle them with soap suds on washing-days, three or four weeks in succession before blossoming; and they cannot miss having fine, fair, large berries. I know this by several years' experience. Let them try and see.—Genesee Farmer.

If the floors of stables be strewed from time to time with a little sulphate of lime, (gypsum,) they will lose all their offensive smell, and none of the ammonia which forms can be lost, but retained in a condition servicable as manure. In close stables the horses' health would be better preserved, and they would not be so liable to get blind as now. 13-4 lbs. of sulphate of lime will fix as much ammonia as is produced by 100 lbs. of horses' urine.

Making a yard of the highway, and allowing your cattle and sheep to be fod, and to drop their dung where it is lost to the farm, is not to be done. This practice, though a common, is a wretched one, and should be reformed altogether. Feed your animals in stalls, if you can; if not, in yards. To do otherwise is wasteful in the extreme.

The humble shepherd here with joy beholds
 Th' approved economy of crowded folds,
 And, in his small, contracted round of cares,
 Adjusts the practice of each hint he hears :
 For boys with emulation learn to glow,
 And boast their pastures and their healthful show
 Of well-grown lambs, the glory of the Spring ;
 And field to field in competition bring.

Farmers' Calendar.

The duties of preparing the soil for the different crops, and planting and sowing, will soon be yours. Suffer a few random hints, gathered from various sources.

TOOLS.—Care should be taken to procure all necessary new tools, and repair all old ones, in good season. The delay of a day or two in the spring weather, from want of due care in this respect, may seem unimportant ; but remember that it may make you one day too late for Jack Frost's autumnal visit. Have you a spare point for each cast iron plough-share ? Collars, traces, chains, yokes, bows, carts, harrows, hoes, shovels, manure forks, and numerous other articles, should be looked up and put in order for use.

ROLLERS.—This is an instrument more used in Vermont than formerly, though very many doubt its value, supposing the only effect of it to be to consolidate and harden the soil. Others alledge that it pulverizes the soil, when lumpy. Let the roller precede the harrow, and then the land harrows up very mellow. It is well, also, to let it follow the harrow and slightly compress the surface of light lands where grain is sown ; and it is serviceable to grass lands to roll them early in the spring. Thus you replace the earth around the grass roots which the frost has thrown away. You press down the bunches and small stones which would obstruct the scythe.

HARROWING.—The New England Farmer recommends the harrowing of sward-lands lengthwise of the furrow first, and then crosswise.

MAKE THOROUGH WORK.—A man's success in farming depends much upon the manner in which he does his work. Thorough tillage is the most profitable. But this cannot well be accomplished without good tools. The benefits of a good plough are not confined exclusively to the ease of the draft, but they extend to the crop. Where the earth to the depth of six or eight inches, is all well taken up and turned over, the roots of a plant will work better than where a fourth, a sixth, or an eighth of the soil is left unmoved by the plough.

SEED.—Always select the best, and if possible exclude all inferior seeds. With many, perhaps all plants, there is such a thing as crossing breeds, as well as in animals. A mixture of different qualities of seeds, though the same in kind, will produce degenerate plants.

TO PREVENT SMUT.—Oliver Crosby, of Atkinson, Me., makes the following statement : I have for sixteen years last past, with complete success, practised the following method : Washed the seed wheat, and drained off the imbibed water through a common basket. In this moist condition put it into a tight tub, long box, or trough, and for every bushel so prepared dissolved two ounces of blue vitriol in warm water, turned it into the wheat, and with a shovel stirred it so that the liquid shall penetrate the whole mass. This may be ascertained by the color. The wheat will assume a greenish cast where the liquor has come in contact with it.

SOAK YOUR SEEDS.—Beet and other seeds which have thick coverings will germinate much sooner if thoroughly soaked in water before planting.

Allowing your work to drive you, is a thing not to be done. The man who is half an hour behind his work, finds labor forever an uphill business. There is here a serious mistake committed by many farmers. They lay out more work than they can do well, or in season, and the consequence is, nothing is done at the time, or as it should be. What you do, do in season, and be sure to do well.

Neglected now the early daisy lies:
 Nor thou, pale primrose, bloom'st the only prize!
 Advancing Spring profusely spreads abroad
 Flowers of all hues, with sweetest fragrance stored;
 Where'er he treads, Love gladdens every plain.
 Delight on tip-toe bears her bride train;
 Sweet Hope, with conscious brow before her flies,
 Anticipating wealth from summer skies.

Farmers' Calendar.

TO PREVENT WEEVIL IN WHEAT.—Oliver Chamberlain of Me., under date of April 1842, says:—Great loss has been sustained in this section of the State for several years by the weevil. A remedy has been found—first suggested, I believe, by our curious and useful friend Dr. Leach of Sangerville. The remedy is no less than this. Sow spring rye with the wheat. I sowed a square lot of six acres to wheat last spring, and then to test this preventive, I sowed the borders of the field, two rods in width, with twelve quarts of rye. The result was, the weevils were deposited in the rye in such numbers as to produce a famine in nearly every head. There were no weevils in the wheat, and I think there was not a quart of rye grown in a hundred bushels of the wheat. My neighbors were apprized of my design of sowing the rye, but they were wanting in the faith, and their grain, sown at the same time, suffered very materially.

POTATOES.—The opinion has been recently advanced in this country, as it was formerly by an eminent English horticulturist, that potatoes bearing balls degenerate soonest. Another suggestion is also worth thinking about, which is, that all potatoes deteriorate when different kinds are planted either together, or in fields near each other. May not this be true, for the reason that the pollen of the different kinds will be mingled, the poor with the good, and thus produce hybrids? If so, the same thing will happen to other things.

SOWING SPRING GRAIN.—Let the land be as well pulverized as possible—work the seed well in, whether by plow, harrow, or cultivator, and if the soil be not too rocky nor too moist, roll down the land. Some one has recommended sowing a mixture of oats, barley, rye and wheat, saying that such has been his practice, and that usually one of them will do well. Is the hint worth regarding? If you sow grass seed with grain, sow thick. Your land may be plowed after the grain crop is off, and seeded down in August.—N. E. Farmer.

RAISE EVERY THING.—Every farmer should make it a rule to purchase nothing which he can raise and make on his farm. There can be no higher evidence of an unthrifty farmer, than to see him purchasing his pork, his beef, his horses, his corn, or his flour. He should be ashamed to have it said that he is a purchaser of any of those articles. If he thinks it is cheaper to purchase than to raise, it is only additional evidence of his folly. If we look through the country for our best farmers, we shall find them selling instead of purchasing those articles.—American Farmer.

SOOT AS A MANURE.—A writer in the Farmer's Journal says he has applied soot upon asparagus, peas, and a variety of other vegetables, with as much effect as if he had used solid dung; but to plants in pots, particularly peonys, he found it admirably adapted; when watered with it, they assume a deep healthy green and grow strong and luxuriant.

HOW TO SAVE TIME.—Have a place for every thing, and when you have done using it, return it to its place. This will save much time in hunting after articles which are thrown carelessly aside.

Having your pig sty in such a place that your pigs shall not work for a living, is a thing not to be done. They should have a yard into which weeds, swamp muck, straw, &c., should be thrown, to be converted into manure; and if they seem at any time reluctant to begin the task of mixing such materials, a few handfuls of corn scattered over the surface will set them to work most industriously.

Oh how unlike to April's closing days!
 High climbs the sun, and darts his powerful rays,
 O'er heaven's bright azure, hence with joyful eyes,
 The farmer sees dark clouds assembling rise;
 Borne o'er his fields a heavy torrent falls,
 And strikes the earth in hasty driving squalls.
 "Right welcome down, ye hasty drops," he cries,
 But soon, too soon, the partial blessing flies.

Farmers' Calendar.

Vermont should yield to nobody in the excellence of her dairying; yet how much room is there for improvement? Of the butter sent to market in the great cities, it is said that more than one half is not fit to eat before an Esquimaux. This ought not to be so: it gives our dairy-women a bad name, makes bad prices, and is the most miserable economy. Availing ourselves of the collected wisdom of a convention of New England farmers, we give the following for the dairy-men and dairy-women.

Sour vessels, buttermilk left in, bad salt, bad firkins, and artificial coloring, are the usual causes of bad butter. Working the butter by the hands is bad; this makes it soft and greasy. Washing the butter with water is a matter about which dairy-men disagree. Many insist that it is the only way of excluding the buttermilk perfectly, and that it does well when the water is thoroughly worked out. Rock salt is best, and dry it before mixing; the salt will then help to imbibe the moisture of the butter. Use stone-ware.

Milking should be done quickly and gently; if not taken away quickly when it begins to flow freely, it seems to be drawn back again.

FOOD FOR MILCH-COWS.—Of hay, the second crop and fine clover are best. Potatoes produce a large quantity but poor quality of milk; sugar-beets produce much and good; carrots make rich milk; ruta baga increases the milk, but gives an unpleasant flavor, to remedy which add half a pint of boiling water to each gallon of milk. Corn-stalks are not only the best, but the cheapest fodder in the dry season in August. Of the Chinese or tree-corn, 30 or 40 tons can be raised to the acre.

Make good butter: let this be done, and don't let the other remain undone, viz: the making of good cheese. We warn the farmer,—

Don't let the "dairy wives run mad for cream,
 And leave their milk with nothing but its name;
 Its name derision and reproach pursue,
 And strangers tell of 'three times skimm'd sky-blue.'
 To cheese converted, what can be its boast;
 What, but the common virtues of a post!
 If drought o'ertake it faster than the knife,
 Most fair it bids for stubborn length of life,
 And like the oaken shelf whereon 'tis laid,
 Mocks the weak efforts of the bending blade;
 Or in the hog-trough rests in perfect spite,
 Too big to swallow, and too hard to bite."

HOW TO SAVE EXPENSES IN TRAVELLING.—Cultivate the bump of inhabitiveness; and if you want to go a mile or two, walk, rather than hire an establishment at the livery stable. This will be for the health of your body, as well as a security of your purse from languishment.

Vice stings us even in our pleasures, but virtue consoles us even in our pains.—Lacon.

Allowing your cattle in the spring of the year to go roaming about, poaching your meadows and pastures with their feet, is a thing not to be done. The amount of food they can get in this way is a poor compensation for the damage they do, and besides it destroys their relish for hay, without offering any substitute.

Oh! pity the drunkard! 'tis meet you should feel
 For woes, that your brother oppress;
 And thus, while you feel for your fellow's best weal,
 In blessing, yourself you will bless;—
 Then pity his lot; aid the fallen to rise;
 Bid the captive, unfetter'd, go free;
 'Tis an act that will prove you akin to the skies,
 And 'tis there your reward you will see.

Farmers' Calendar.

It cannot be deemed amiss to remind the farmer that in these glorious temperance times he has a work to do. And there is no better time to commence than at the very outset of the haying season. The time has been—thank heaven it is passed, never to return—when a large supply of rum was considered quite as essential to haying as the scythe or the rake. No man now can defend the use of alcoholic stimulants for the hay-makers. Experience, that wisest of school-masters, has abundantly proved that strictly temperance labor is the best and costs the least. Try it now, friend, if you never have done it before. Substitute cold water, in moderate quantities—if you choose, add a little molasses and ginger—or try milk. If you have laborers, accustomed to using stimulus, invite them once to try without. It will be to them a deed of charity—to yourself, charity which impoverisheth not.

HAY.—In Russia it is usual to preserve the natural verdure of hay. As soon as the grass is cut, it is, without having been spread, formed into a rick, in the centre of which has been previously placed a kind of chimney, made of four rough planks. It seems that the heat of the fermentation evaporates by this chimney; and that the hay thus retains all its leaves, its color, and its primitive flavor.

PRUNING.—If the branches of a young tree, issuing at and above the requisite height, be made, by pruning, to diverge from the trunk in every direction above horizontal, and the interior of these be carefully kept from any interference with each other, for a few years, little pruning will ever afterwards be necessary. Heavy pruning is seldom necessary or advisable; but when, as in the case of grafting, or of heading down for a new growth, it becomes unavoidable, it should always be performed in that interval between the time the frost is coming out of the ground in the spring, and the opening of the leaf. A complete heading, for any purpose, should never be performed in early summer, or while the tree is in the most active stage of its growth. It causes a sudden stagnation of the juices, and induces a sort of paralysis. And if the tree does not die outright, it grows no more, or but feebly, during the remainder of the season. Yet for that moderate pruning, which alone is generally needful, June and July, and during the longest days of summer, is the very best time; for wounds of all kinds heal admirably at this period, the wood remaining sound and bright; and even a tree debarked at this season recovers a new bark immediately. The lower side limbs in the nursery should be gradually shortened, but not suddenly close-pruned; they are essential for a time to strengthen the trunk, and to the upright and perfect formation of the tree.—Kenrick's New American Orchardist.

Mr. Heron, a minister, had a large family of children. When dying, his wife said, "Alas! what will become of these children?" He pleasantly replied, "Never fear; He that feeds the young ravens won't starve the young Herons."

Suffering animals to perish for want of attention, at any season of the year, is a thing not to be done. But if any do die accidentally, they should be converted to use by being covered with earth, to absorb the gasses of oxygen and ammonia that are the inevitable results of animal putrefaction, and which are indispensable to the growth of plants.

Its dark green hue, its sicklier tints all fail,
 And ripening harvest nestles in the gle.
 A glorious sight, if glory dwells below,
 Where heaven's munificence makes all the show,
 O'er every field and golden prospect foun'd,
 That glads the ploughman in his morning's round,
 When on some eminence he takes his stand,
 To judge the smiling produce of the land.

Farmers' Calendar.

The season of harvesting is at hand, and of course every prudent man has all things in readiness. Early harvesting of wheat has been practiced and recommended by intelligent farmers, almost time out of mind, especially in England. It should be cut in the green state,—that is, just before it becomes dead ripe: and when properly managed, it will be found that the wheat will be brighter and better, and none will be lost, as is usual when the grain is suffered to stand too long. In early harvesting, however, three things must be carefully attended to: first, do not leave the wheat lying in the swarth, by which the sap in the stalk will be too suddenly dried up, and the grain become lean and shrivelled; second, do not form large sheaves, as they will heat and mould; third, form small sheaves, and bind them loosely as soon as cut, so that the air may take effect, placing the sheaves upright. In this manner the sap will dry gradually, ascending to the heads and perfectly filling out the grain.

TO RAISE GOOD RADISHES.—Take pure sand, some depth from the surface; or pure earth, below where it has been tilled or moved; or sea sand, washed by the waves; make a bed in the garden, six or eight inches deep, and as big as you please; in this sow your radish seed, and they will grow well without manure, and be free from worms; we have tried it frequently, and never failed. Radishes that are grown very early in the season are of slow growth, and inferior to those grown after the weather is warm enough to hasten them; as the faster they grow, the more tender, and the finer flavor.—Yankee Farmer.

SOAP SUDS.—Instead of suffering your washerwoman to throw out the soap suds about the kitchen floor, make her pour them, as made, into a barrel in your garden, and water your plants of all kinds with them.

HYPOCRISY.—It is the greatest madness in the world to be a hypocrite in religious profession. Men hate thee because thou art a Christian even in appearance; and God approves thee not because thou art, only in appearance: and so thou hast no comfort in either. If thou wilt not be good as thou seemest, better seem ill, as thou art.

SPEAK THE TRUE WORD, LIVE THE TRUE LIFE.—One watch set right will do to try many by; and on the other hand, one that goes wrong may be the means of misleading a whole neighborhood.

HOW TO SAVE EXPENSE IN CLOTHING.—Purchase that which is at once decent and the most durable; and wear your garment, despite the frequent changes of fashion, till it becomes too defaced to appear decent; then turn it and wear it henceforth as long as it protects the body. A blue coat is as warm after fashion requires a green one, as it ever was. A red shawl in fashion to-day, is as comfortable as a black one which fashion requires to-morrow. A few years hence your fame will not depend upon the style, color or quality of the broadcloth you wore in 1843.

Nearly every farm has some pond, marsh, or bog, which receives a large portion of the wash of the cultivated land; and to allow this to remain without being returned to the soil, is a thing not to be done. There are some such places that may be considered as inexhaustable deposits of fertilizing matter, yet have never been drawn upon for a single load. Let those who have such deposits look to them.

Change wide, and deep, and silently perform'd,
 This land shall witness; and as days roll on,
 Earth's universal frame shall feel th' effect,
 E'en till the smallest habitable rock,
 Beaten by lonely billows, hear the songs
 Of humanized society; and bloom
 With civil arts, that send their fragrance forth,
 A grateful tribute to all-ruling Heaven.

Farmer's Calendar.

These three—Liberty, Knowledge, Virtue—are the pillars of society. If but one fail, the whole fabric falls. Cherish them all, then; sustain the Schools, the Press, and the Pulpit, with constant liberality. These are the fountains of knowledge and virtue, and from these must the people drink, if they would wisely use the Freedom which has been happily secured to them.

THE IGNORANT VOTER.—Look at the ignorant man! Strong in muscle, furious in purpose—he is a Samson without eyes; the slave of appetite; the dupe of the quack; the thrall of the fanatic; the creature of impulses and impressions; the passive instrument in the hands of the political agitator. An ignorant man voting! Holding in his hands a ballot he cannot read; carrying it towards the omnipotent ballot-box, to drop it into the nation's sovereignty!! Do you see your relation to that man? “He is a partner in this political firm; you cannot withdraw from it, or throw him out;” his lot is your lot—his end, your end. An ignorant man voting is like a blind physician who goes up to the sick bed with a great club—he strikes—he may hit the disease, he may hit the patient.—[Applause and laughter.]—And how many blows do you dodge, annually, through the ballot-box? How long can we continue to dodge these? If we do not educate this tremendous power of suffrage, like the strength of Samson, so far from being our protection, it will but serve to bring upon our heads, this temple of our ancestors.—[Loud applause.]—We may “go ahead” with this great mass of ignorance, but look out that we break not down, midway in our career.—J. O. Taylor.

THE MANLY COURSE.—Be and continue poor, young man, while others grow rich by fraud and disloyalty; be without place or power, while others beg their way upward; bear the pain of disappointed hopes, while others gain the accomplishment of theirs by flattery; forego the gracious pressure of the hand, for which others cringe and crawl. Wrap yourself in your own virtue, and seek a friend and your daily bread. If you have, in such a course, grown grey with unbleached honor, bless God, and die.—Henzelmena.

SERVING THE PUBLIC.—A Dutch member of the Pennsylvania Assembly, having returned home from a session, was asked by a neighbor “what had been done by the Legislature?” “I don't know what others have done,” replied he, “but I have cleared one hundred dollars for mine self.”

A SENSIBLE CHOICE.—“If you don't accept my challenge,” said one gentleman of honor to another, “I will gazette you—so take your choice.” “Go ahead,” said the other, “I had rather fill six gazettes than one coffin.”

CAMOMILE.—In the Irish Gardener's Magazine, it is stated, not only that decoctions of the leaves of the common camomile will destroy insects, but that nothing contributes so much to the health of a garden, as a number of camomile plants dispersed through it.

Permitting the chips, pieces of bark, sawdust, &c., of your wood yard to accumulate for years, is a thing not to be done. Remember that all, which has once formed part of a plant can be converted into a plant again, and place all such matters where their decomposition will be most useful, and sooner effected.

Beyond bleak Winter's rage, beyond the Spring,
That rolling earth's unvarying course will bring,
Who tills the ground looks on with mental eye,
And sees next Summer's sheaves and cloudless sky,
And even now, while nature's beauty dies,
Deposits seed, and bids new harvests rise ;
Seed well prepared, and warm'd with glowing lime,
'Gainst earth-bred grubs, and cold, and lapse of time.

Farmers' Calendar.

Winter wheat should have been sowed weeks ago, especially if your soil contains much clay, in order to have the roots extended deep enough to resist the winter-frost. In case of late sowing, agricultural writers recommend the selection of the best seed and a larger quantity than for earlier. The cleansing of the seed by water, and thoroughly mixing it with lime, is recommended by others, as well as the poet (Bloomfield) above quoted ; it being alledged that the lime will destroy the eggs of insects deposited in the grain. This may be true ; but whether true or not, there is no doubt that the lime will prove a most valuable manure. A large portion of the wheat is in fact composed of lime, and hence where that is wanting in the soil the crop must be light.

ROOT CROPS COMPARED WITH HAY AND CORN.—An acre of hay yields one ton and a half of vegetable food. An acre of carrots or Swedish turnips will yield from ten to twenty tons ; say fifteen tons, which is by no means an exaggerated estimate. It has been ascertained by experiment that three working horses, fifteen and a half hands high, consume at the rate of two hundred and twenty-four pounds of hay per week, or about five tons and a half of hay per year, besides twelve gallons of oats each per week, or seventy-eight bushels by the year. An unworked horse consumed at the rate of four and one-quarter tons of hay in the year. The produce, therefore, of nearly six acres of land is necessary to support a working horse by the year ; but half an acre of carrots at six hundred bushels to the acre, with the addition of chopped straw, while the season for their use lasts, will do it as well, if not better. These things do not admit of a doubt. They have been subjects of exact trial. It is believed that the value of a bushel of Indian corn in straw and meal, will keep a healthy horse in good condition for a week. An acre of Indian corn which yields sixty bushels will be ample for the support of a horse through the year. Let the farmer then, consider whether it be better to maintain his horse upon the produce of half an acre of carrots, which can be cultivated at an expense of half an acre of potatoes, or upon half an acre of ruta baga, which can be raised at a less expense than potatoes, or upon the grain produce of an acre of Indian corn ; or on the other hand, upon the produce of six acres of his best land in hay and grain ; for six acres will hardly do more than to yield six tons of hay and nearly eighty bushels of grain.

NEW MODE OF PROPAGATING FRUIT-TREES.—The New Hampshire Whig says—"Two of the best farmers within our knowledge secure their fruit trees thus : They dig at some distance from the body of a favorite tree until they find a root, which they cut off. The part disjointed from the tree is turned up so as to appear above ground. This sends forth shoots the first season, and bears in a few years fruit precisely like the parent tree. Let those whose trees are decaying, and who wish to increase good varieties, try the experiment."

Beauty cannot really exist without virtue.

Being content to allow a single year to pass without correcting some error, or making some improvement in husbandry, is a thing not to be done. To put the knowledge we acquire from our own or other's experience to use, should be the aim of every one, and would soon do away the reproach that farmers are a stationary race of men.

Shorn of their flowers which shed th' untreasured seed,
 The withering pasture and the fading mead,
 Less tempting grown, diminish more and more
 The dairy's pride, sweet summer's flowing store.
 O thou, who didst the vernal juices rise!
 Thou, on whose blasts autumnal foliage flies!
 Let peace ne'er leave me, nor my heart grow cold,
 Whilst life and sanity are mine to hold.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE LAW OF LOVE.—“I had,” said the late Wm. Ladd, “a fine field of grain, growing upon an out-farm at some distance from the homestead. Whenever I rode by I saw my neighbor Pulsifer's sheep in the lot, destroying my hopes of a harvest. I complained to neighbor Pulsifer about them, sent him frequent messages, but all without avail. Perhaps they would be kept out for a day or two; but the legs of his sheep were long, and my grain rather more tempting than the adjoining pasture. I rode by again—the sheep were still there; I became angry, and told my men to set the dogs on them, and if that would not do, I would pay them if they would shoot the sheep. I rode away much agitated; but all at once a light flashed in upon me. I asked myself, ‘Would it not be well for you to try in your own conduct the peace principle you are preaching to others?’ I thought it all over, and settled down my mind as to the best course to be pursued. The next day I rode over to see neighbor Pulsifer. I found him chopping wood at his door. ‘Good morning, neighbor.’ No answer. ‘Good morning,’ I repeated. He gave a kind of a grunt, like a hog, without looking up. ‘I came,’ said I, ‘to see about the sheep.’ At this, he threw down his axe, and exclaimed, in a most angry manner, ‘Now, are n't you a pretty neighbor, to tell your men to kill my sheep? I heard of it—a rich man like you to shoot a poor man's sheep!’ ‘I was wrong, neighbor,’ said I; ‘but it won't do to let your sheep eat up all that grain; so I came over to say that I would take your sheep to my homestead pasture, and put them in with mine, and in the fall you may take them back; and if any one is missing, you may take your pick out of my whole flock.’ Pulsifer looked confounded—he did not know how to take me. At last he stammered out, ‘Now Squire, are you in earnest?’ ‘Certainly I am,’ I answered; ‘it is better for me to feed your sheep in my pasture on grass, than to feed them here on grain; and I see the fence can't keep them out.’ After a moment's silence—‘The sheep shan't trouble you any more,’ exclaimed Pulsifer. ‘I will fetter them all.’ But I'll let you know that when any man talks of shooting, I can shoot too; and when they are kind and neighborly, I can be kind too.’ The sheep never again trespassed on my lot.”

HOW TO SAVE IN LITTLE MATTERS.—Procure a book and keep an exact account of all your expenditures. At the expiration of three months, review the account and see how much you have expended in four penny and nine penny items which you could have done without as well as not. Then see to it that each ensuing quarter shall be minus just those things. In many cases the aggregate will be found more considerable than you would be aware of, unless you keep such an account.

Idleness is the dead sea that swallows up all virtues, and the self-made sepulchre of a living man.

NOBLE REPLY.—Aristotle, when censured for giving alms to a bad man, replied, “I did not give it to the man—I gave it to humanity.”

MAN'S DOUBLE DUTY.—"As I am a compound of soul and body, I consider myself as obliged to a double scheme of duties; and think I have not fulfilled the business of the day, when I do not thus employ the one in labor and exercise, as well as the other in study and contemplation."—Addison.

Yet Plenty reigns, and from her boundless hand,
 Though not one jelly trembles on the board,
 Supplies the feast with all that sense can crave ;
 With all that made our great forefathers brave,
 Ere the cloy'd palate countless flavors tried,
 And cooks had nature's judgment set aside ;—
 With thanks to Heaven, and tales of rustic lore,
 The mansion echoes when the banquet's o'er.

Farmers' Calendar.

In thankfulness rejoice at the bountiful blessings of Heaven, and let your gratitude go up to the Giver of all good. It is He, who has blessed you "in your basket and your store," with all the rich fruits of the seasons—for without His overruling providence there would be neither seed time nor harvest :

"the silver stream that flows,
 The air we breathe, the ground we tread, the trees,
 The flowers, the fruit, the grass, the wind that blows,
 All speak of God. Throughout one voice agrees,
 And eloquent, His dread existence shows ;
 Blind to thyself, ah ! seek Him, man, in these."

And in the gladness which surrounds your own family circle, while plenty reigns, forget not the poor and needy. Charity is the golden coin to pay the debt of love which thou owest to thy neighbor. Pay it, pay it, to the full : how canst thou hope for blessing from just heaven, if thou forgettest the children of want, at your own doors ? Yea, pay all thy debts : cancel the obligations imposed by human laws, and leave not the other duty undone.

HOME AFFECTIONS.—How sweet are the affections of social kindness—how balmy the influence of that regard which dwells around our own fireside ! Distrust and doubt darken not the brightness of its purity—the harpings of interest and jealousy mar not the harmony of that scene. Parental kindness and filial affection blossom there in all the freshness of eternal spring. It matters not if the world is cold—if the selfishness and injustice of mankind return our warm sympathies barren, if we can turn to our own dear circle, and ask and receive all that our heart claims. The exchange of kindly affections in confidence and trust, is the purest enjoyment of our nature.

GOOD COUNSEL.—No young man can hope to rise in society, or act worthily his part in life, without a fair moral character. The basis of such character is virtuous, fixed sense of moral obligation, sustained and invigorated by the fear and love of God. The youth who possesses such a character can be trusted. Integrity, truth, benevolence, justice, are not with him words without meaning ; he knows and feels their sacred import, and aims in the tenor of his life to exemplify the virtues they express. Such a man has decision of character : he knows what is right and is firm in doing it. Such a man has independence of character ; he thinks and acts for himself, and is not to be made a tool of to serve the purposes of party. Such a man has true worth of character ; and his life is a blessing to himself, to his family, to society, and to the world.—Haves.

BOIL YOUR MOLASSES.—When molasses is used in cooking, it is a very great improvement to boil and skim it before you use it. It takes out the unpleasant raw taste, and makes it almost as good as sugar. Where molasses is used much for cooking, it is well to prepare one or two gallons in this way at a time.

EXAMPLE.—The influence of the good man ceases not at death: he, as the visible agent, is removed, but the light and influence of his example still remains; and the moral elements of this world will long show the traces of their vigor and purity,—just as the western sky, after the sun has set, still displays the glowing traces of the departed orb,

A Table for foretelling the Weather through all the Lunations of each Year forever.

BY DR. ADAM CLARKE.

This table and the following remarks are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon, in their several positions respecting the earth; and will, by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of weather will most probably follow the entrance of the moon into any of its quarters, and that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

	TIME OF CHANGE.	IN SUMMER.	IN WINTER.
If the new moon, the first quarter, the full moon, or the last quarter happens	Between midnight and 2 A. M.	Fair.	Hard frost unless the wind be S. or W.
	— 2 and 4 A. M.	Cold, with showers.	Snow and stormy.
	— 4 and 6 A. M.	Rain.	Rain.
	— 6 and 8 A. M.	Wind and rain.	Stormy.
	— 8 and 10 A. M.	Changeable.	Cold rain if wind W., snow if east.
	— 10 A. M. and 12 M.	Frequent showers.	Cold and high wind.
	— 12 M. and 2 P. M.	Very rainy.	Snow or rain.
	— 2 and 4 P. M.	Changeable.	Fair and mild.
	— 4 and 6 P. M.	Fair.	Fair.
	— 6 and 8 P. M.	Fair if wind N. } W., rainy if S. } or S. W. }	Fair & frosty if wind N or N. W., rain or snow if S. or S. W.
	— 8 and 10 P. M.	Ditto.	Ditto.
	— 10 and midnight.	Fair.	Fair and frosty.

OBSERVATIONS.—1. The nearest the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full and Last Quarter, are to midnight, the fairer will the weather be during the seven days following.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to midday or noon the phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet weather may be expected during the next seven days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon to two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to the Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly in the same ratio.

5. The Moon's change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i. e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the wind, as is noted in the table.

6. Though the weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet, in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

7. To prognosticate correctly, especially in those cases where the wind is concerned, the observer should be within sight of a good vane, where the four cardinal points of the heavens are correctly placed.—With this precaution, he will scarcely ever be deceived in depending on the table.

The People elect Governor in all the States save New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina, in which the Legislatures elect. In Louisiana the People vote, and the Legislature elect from the two highest candidates.

*Under the old charter. Under a new constitution Th. W. Dorr was elected, and with a new legislature claimed to be the rightful government.

† Governors of Territories appointed by the President and Senate.

‡ There are four sessions of the Legislature of Rhode Island, viz: on the 1st Wednesday of May and June, and on the last Wednesday in October and January.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations, all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of Nov., and amounts to a little more than 14 1/4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpellier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also three or four minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 22d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 7 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 7 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 53m in the morning, and 5h 53m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon as his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 53m, leaving 5h 49m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 53m, which gives 5h 57m for the time of his setting on the 22d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked sun south is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct

time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked sun's declination, sun's semi-diameter, and equation of time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 4 will be found a list of such occultations of planets and stars by the moon as may be suitable for observation for determining longitude, and may be visible in Vermont. And this is succeeded by a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for the same purpose.

Jupiter ♃ will be evening star till the 4th of March, thence morning star till the 20th of September, and thence evening star.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

In the year 1844 there will be three Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. A Total Eclipse of the Moon, May 31st, invisible in Vermont: ☾ at 5h 57m in the evening. This Eclipse will be visible throughout the Eastern hemisphere.

II. A Partial Eclipse of the Sun, June 15th, invisible in Vermont: ☉ at 7h 36m in the evening. This Eclipse will be visible in the South Pacific and Great Southern Oceans.

III. A Partial Eclipse of the Sun, November 10th, invisible in Vermont: ☉ at 4h 46m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible only in a small portion of the Great Southern Ocean.

IV. A Total Eclipse of the Moon, November 24th, visible in Vermont as follows:

Orchards.—Would you leave an inheritance to your children?—plant an Orchard. Would you make home pleasant—the abode of the social virtues?—plant an Orchard. Would you remove from your children the strongest temptation to steal?—plant an Orchard. Would you cultivate a constant feeling of thankfulness towards the great Giver of all good?—plant an Orchard. Would you have your children love their home?—plant an Orchard. In short, if you wish to avail yourself of the blessings of a bountiful Providence, which are within your reach, you must plant an Orchard. And when you do it, see that you plant good fruit. Do n't plant crab apple trees, nor wild plums, nor Indian peaches. The best are the cheapest.

I saw a child whose youthful cheek
Glow'd with health's golden bloom,
And light did from his young eyes break,
And his sweet face illumine:

Farmers' Calendar.

THANKS that we are permitted once again to address our friends and patrons;—thanks to those thousands, whose liberality has long encouraged and sustained us, in labors which we trust have not been entirely valueless. We have now reached another mile stone in the journey of life. It marks a year fled, with all its cares and its burden of responsibilities, and claims from each a retrospective view of his own course;—it marks a year begun, and admonishes each to gather wisdom from the past to guide him through the future. “The wisdom of the prudent is TO UNDERSTAND HIS WAY.” What have you done, and how—right or wrong? Where have you succeeded and where failed? What have been your errors or miscalculations? All these inquiries may be made with reference to the past year and the past life; and a thorough and honest inquiry into these particulars—both as to your business and your relations with God and man—will prepare you for a more happy and successful course in all coming time. “Experience is the best school-master.”

A Lesson for Pride.—Alexander the Great seeing Diogenes looking attentively at a large collection of human bones piled one above another, asked the philosopher what he was looking for. “I am searching,” said Diogenes, “for the bones of your father, but I cannot distinguish them from those of his slaves.”

It is a great privilege of poverty to be healthy without physic, secure without a guard, and to obtain from the bounty of nature what the wealthy are compelled to procure by the help of art.

Philosophy of Law—Law is like fire; and those who meddle with it may chance to burn their fingers. Law is like a pocket with a hole in it; and those who risk their money therein are very likely to lose it. Law is like a lancet; dangerous in the hands of the ignorant, and doubtful in the hands of an adept. Law is like a sieve; you may see through it, but you will have to be considerably reduced before you can get through it.

To take Grease out of Silk.—Apply a little powdered magnesia on the wrong side, as soon as the spot is discovered.

For Grafting Wax.—Take 5 oz. pitch, 1 oz. resin, 2 oz. beeswax, and 1 oz. lard, and melt them well together.

A pleasant, cheerful wife, is as a rainbow set in the sky, when her husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests; but a scowling and fretful wife in the hour of trouble is like one of those fiends who delight to torture lost spirits.

What a Farmer should be.—A farmer should be well instructed in chemistry generally, more particularly applied to agriculture; he should be well versed in mineralogy, geology, botany, and in the physiology of seeds, plants and trees, and animals, including the species of hiana; he should learn geometry, mensuration, &c.; he should study political economy so far as to have a clear conception of the source of wealth and prosperity. In our republican government he should be taught to vindicate them by a condensed elocution. It will be a happy event for our country when our farmers, so educated, shall have the ascendancy in our halls of legislation, and thereby put a stop to the fallacious special pleadings of demagogues, who have already reduced our country, possessing all the means of prosperity in a pre-eminent degree, to a most pitiable condition, by their miserable legislation.

Hints to Young Farmers.

On the first of January reckon with yourself, and reckon honestly—bring into view all debts and credits—notes and accounts. Ascertain to what amount your expenses were the last year, and the loss and gain—make out a fair statement and enter the whole in a book for the purpose.

The song he sang was "Dance! prepare
To tread a measure light!"
And his hand held a mirror, where
The sun was imaged bright:

Farmers' Calendar.

BLESSINGS upon Winter! What! on its biting frost and driving snow? Yea, verily: even the frost has a most important agency in mellowing the soil, and "snow is the poor man's manure." Have you never noticed that where the snow happened to lay longest, because of a drift or less exposure to the sun, that there, in that very spot, the grass sprang up the most luxuriantly and turned out better than in other parts of the same field? Such is believed to be the fact: and there is a sound reason for it. Ammonia is one of the most powerful fertilizers yet discovered in the whole range of agricultural chemistry, and that is contained as well in the snow as in the rain, and for this reason snow is perhaps quite as powerful in enriching the soil as rain itself. Even the severities of Winter are not without their blessings to the farmer; and when the pleasures of Winter, the intellectual and social pleasures of the long evenings, are taken into the account, who will not cry "blessings on his frosty pow?" We will take it for granted that you have a Winter's evening before you—that the good woman has completed the daily round of household duties, and is well planted in the big rocking-chair, knitting-work in hand,—the boys and girls, too, have all come home from school and finished up the chores: now, dear sir, do you preside over the cheerful circle and introduce a topic for conversation or discussion. Let it be book-farming, if you please; and with your leave we will suggest a few questions which may furnish food for reflection and conversation. Is there not a vast deal of prejudice among farmers against book-farming? Has not this grown out of unsuccessful experiments in book-farming? Have not these been unsuccessful, usually, because the particular qualities of soil, or manures, or seed, have not been duly regarded by the experimenter? If these questions are decided affirmatively, we expect you to reject all prejudices, and to perceive a strong argument in favor of scientific book-farming; for it is that which treats of soils, and manures, and seeds, and philosophically deduces the principles of agriculture from the known laws of nature and from actual experiments. And why should there not be a Science of Agriculture, as capable of being taught and understood, as is the science of chemistry, or botany, or geology? Indeed, do not these three sciences comprise a part of the science of Agriculture, and thus render it worthy of a very exalted rank in the range of human sciences?

Happiness and virtue usually re-act upon each other. The best are not only the happiest—but the happiest are usually the best.

Modesty.—Beauty is never so lovely and attractive as when it is accompanied by retiring modesty. The most beautiful flower of the garden, that most attracts and charms the senses, never appears so lovely as when it is beheld sweetly peeping from the midst of its curtain of green leaves, which serves partially to protect it from the sun and the elements, and which renders its charms doubly interesting and beautiful.

Educate a community in the idea that to work with their hands is degrading and dishonorable, and you educate them for vice and misery.

Cough in Horses.—The boughs of cedar have been used with complete success. They should be cut fine and mixed with the grain.

Consider your calling the most elevated and the most important, but never be above it, nor be afraid of the frock and the apron.

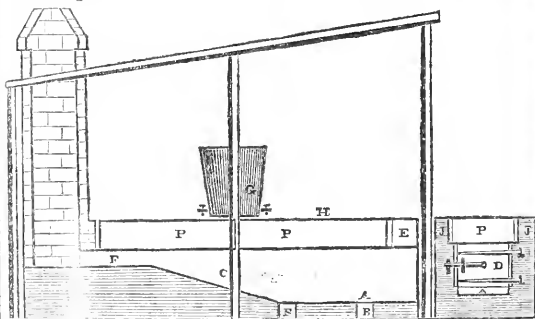

Put off no business for to-morrow that can be done to day.

Never carry your notes in your pocket-book, for the desk or trunk is a more appropriate place. Keep them on file and in order, ready to be found when wanted.

On wings as swift as love's he flew,
Blushing like morning's prime ;
And flowers across his path he threw,
And that child's name was Time.

Farmers' Calendar.

HURRAH for the Sugar-Orchard! Let the sunny South boast her sugar-cane, and the West her beet or corn-stalk sugar ; but we Green Mountain Boys will stand by the rock-maple—no unfit emblem for our hardy mountaineers and the sweetest mountain nymphs to be found the whole world over. Stick to the maple ; and so long as the maple forests stand, suffer not your cup to be sweetened by the blood of slaves. A practical farmer has furnished us a plan of sugar works, which is so easy of construction and so well adapted for the business, that we give a sketch of it.

A—The place or arch. B—Air flues clear through under the wood to admit air and char the fire. C—Space to burn out extra coals and for long wood. D—Door to defend the pans from a cold current of air. E—Mantle. F—Flue. G—Cistern to feed the pans as fast as they boil down. H—Sheet iron covers, or board may be used to advantage. J—Walls to support the pans and protect the sides from cold air. A similar form of arch will answer as well for kettles as for pans, and probably save nearly one half of the wood, besides the convenience, neatness, comfort and despatch of making sugar. It may be done with stone principally, if suitable stone can be had, otherwise brick. The whole to be enclosed in a shed. Scale about one-sixth of an inch to a foot. In a very large establishment add another pan and air flue, or increase the width of the pans.

Some men live to eat ; others live to drink ; some live to dance ; others to make fools of themselves ; but, varied as are these phases, there is one particular in which they all agree—they live to die.

Threshing.—Experience shows that the farmer who gets out and sells his grain in autumn, admitting the prices are the same, realizes from a crop at least 10 per cent. more than he who does not dispose of his crop till the next spring.

Perfection.—Aim at perfection in every thing, though in most things it is unattainable ; however, they who aim at it, and persevere, will come much nearer to it than those whose laziness and despondency make them give it up as unattainable.

When interest or a debt becomes due, pay it at the time, whether your creditor wants it or not. Never ask him to 'wait till next week,' but pay it. Never insult him by saying, 'you do not want it.'—Punctuality is a key to every man's chest.

As soon as the spring opens and the frost is out of the ground, put your fences in order.

I saw a man, whose ample brow
 Was furrowed deep with care ;
 And now despair, and rapture now,
 By turns were pictured there :

Farmers' Calendar.

No matter if you sow your spring wheat before the frost is out of the ground: in fact, some farmers do this, leaving the settling of the ground, by thawing and rain, to cover the seed, and thus save the labor of harrowing. This has been done with great success on ground which was plowed in the fall. It is also recommended to look over your fields of winter wheat in the spring, and where the crop does not promise well, to sow spring wheat.

This month is too often a severe one for cattle, when the winter's stock of hay grows short, and the farmer fears a backward spring.—This necessity would happen less frequent, if the cattle and horses were always well and warmly housed through the winter. A Kentuckian, who is a philosophical as well as a practical farmer, urges this point, from the fact that all animal heat is furnished by the food which is consumed: if, then, your cattle are left exposed to the severities of winter, they must eat plentifully, or die. He says—"when animals are kept warm, clean, and quiet, about one-half the nutritious matter (if it be diffused through a bulk sufficient for proper distention of the organs of nutrition,) that is necessary to a wretched shivering existence, exposed to the inclemencies of the weather, will keep them in fine condition." The remark in parentheses is an important one: ruminating animals have stomachs so constituted as to require bulk of food as well as nutrition, and when vegetables are used, they should always be mixed with hay or straw or cornstalks.

The Housewife.—A good housewife is one of the first blessings in the economy of life. What we mean by good is, that she possesses those qualifications, and exercises them, which are essential to the good order and economy of a family, the tidy appearance, good manners and respectability of the children, and the comfort and enjoyment of the domestic circle. She should understand, particularly, every branch of household duty, so as to be able to perform it on any emergency—and these emergencies are liable to occur to all—and at all times be able to superintend and direct. Depend upon it, men put a great value upon the housewife qualifications of their partners after marriage, however little they may weigh with them before; and there is nothing which tends more to mar the felicities of married life, than a recklessness or want of knowledge in the new housekeeper, of the duties which belong to her station. We admire beauty, and order, and system, in every thing, and we admire good fare. If these are found in their dwellings, and are seasoned with good nature and good sense, men will seek for their chief enjoyments at home; they will love their home and their partners, and try to reciprocate the kind offices of duty and affection. Mothers that study the welfare of their daughters, will not fail to instruct them in the qualifications of married life: and daughters that appreciate the value of these qualifications, will not fail to acquire them.

A good temper, a good library, good health, and a good wife, are four choice blessings.

To Preserve Eggs.—Reaumur tried varnishing eggs to preserve them, but he found the cheapest and most effectual method was to apply oil or grease, with which they were rubbed, or into which they were dipped. All sorts of fat, grease, or oil, were found well adapted to preserve eggs; they were preserved nine months, as fresh as the day on which they were laid.

Plant no more ground than you can well manure and cultivate to advantage.

Never hire a man to do a piece of work which you can do yourself.

Every day has its appropriate duties, attend to them in succession.

Keep no more stock than you can keep in good order, and that of the best kind.

The song he sang was "Heap and hoard,
And scale ambition's height,"
And his hand grasp'd a keen-edged sword
Of majesty and might.

Farmers' Calendar.

MAY is a busy month: fences and gates to be repaired.—fruit trees to be grafted.—all farming utensils to be fixed in apple-pie order, if not left so in the fall,—the fields to be broken up, and the seed to be put into the ground; but do all your work well. That is the main point, on which, next to Providence, all the hopes of a happy season and fruitful harvests must depend.

Let it be an invariable practice to sow and plant as much ground as you can manure and cultivate well, and no more. Don't be afraid of raising too much produce of any kind, and cultivate such plants and fruits as are best adapted to your soil and the climate, but remember that the greatest quantity of any article is not raised from the greatest amount of land and seed, but from the best land and the best seed, that are the best cultivated. Don't manure your potatoes designed for table use, with fresh manure. It will make them strong as rancid butter. A virgin soil is best for potatoes; but if that is not at hand, take recently broken up pasture, or mowing land. Early potatoes should be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Don't forget to sow your onion seed, your lettuce, early cabbages, peas, &c. early. Don't let your manure heat in the yard, or in heaps in the fields. It spoils it. Cart it into the fields, and scatter it in small heaps, till you are ready to use it.

In the preparation of clover seed, soaking for a day or two in warm water, in which a small quantity of common salt had been dissolved, has usually been productive of the best results. But even this precaution will be of little use unless the seed be fairly covered. On the contrary, seed that has been soaked, if it be not covered immediately, and at a sufficient depth, after sowing, will be much more liable to fail than that sowed in its natural state.

Soap Suds.—There is no better manure than dirty soap suds.

Scours in Calves.—We have never, says the Southern Planter, found any remedy for the scours preferable to boiled skim milk. This should be given warm.

Advantage of Tight Lacing.—A very influential physician in a populous town in Massachusetts, was once appealed to by a gentleman to use his influence in bringing into disuse the practice of tight lacing, which was carried to a great extent by the ladies of the town. The doctor heard the appeal very quietly, and then returned for answer, that he could not conscientiously engage in any undertaking of the nature, for, said he, "I think this practice a great public benefit." "A great public benefit!" exclaimed the astonished philanthropist, "why, how can that be; do you not see that a great many of our young ladies are ruining their health, and losing their lives by it?" "Yes, yes," returned the doctor, "but my dear fellow do you not see that it kills off only the fools, and we shall all be wise ones by and by."

Too many people confound charity with donation; they are satisfied with having given the most ready vent to the generous impulse; they have gratified a high and a low feeling—the kindness, and we fear also, the ostentation. That is not charity which goes about with a white pocket-handkerchief in the hand, and is followed by a flourish of trumpets! No; charity is a calm, severe duty; it must be intellectual to be advantageous. It is a strange mistake that it should ever be considered a merit; its fulfilment is only what we owe to each other, and is a debt never paid to its full extent.

Never "run into debt" without a reasonable probability of solving it at the time agreed.

Keep a memorandum book—enter all notes, whether received or given—all moneys received or paid out—all expenses—and all circumstances of importance.

Around him throng'd a numerous train,
Wealth, Fame, and Power sublime;
While his breast swell'd with fancies vain,
And his name too was Time.

Farmers' Calendar.

Of course every Vermont dairy-maid must have learned by this time how to make good butter—yet they do not always do it, even though every body knows that it is just as cheap to make good butter as poor, and far more pleasant and profitable. We gather up a few hints. Cows should have frequent change of pasture, be constantly supplied with salt, gently driven and always kindly treated, and milked at regular periods, and if possible this should be done by the same person, for cows are creatures of habit and don't like strangers. All utensils for butter making must be perfectly sweet and clean: wash them first, then thoroughly scald them, and see finally that they are perfectly dried. If you build a dairy-house, let it be of brick or stone for coolness and sweetness, and so built that it may be thoroughly ventilated. Never suffer meat to be kept in it, nor mouldy or decaying wood of any kind. In hot weather don't delay skimming a moment after the milk is curdled, unless you wish a thin watery fluid to form and spoil your cream. Skim twice a day, and at regular periods. Cream should be kept in stone ware, immersed to the brim in cold water. Don't delay churning beyond the third day in summer. Work out every drop of buttermilk, and don't delay it too long. Salt at the commencement of the first working, and use the finest ground article. New York salt won't do.

Liquid Manure.—At an agricultural meeting in England, Mr. Kimmons made the following remarks: "It is nearly twenty years since I first commenced using liquid manure on grass lands. I have a large tank, 30 feet by 10, and 3 feet in depth, which the urine from the cattle sheds &c. runs into. I have a large barrel with which I carry it out to the fields. Attached to the cart is a small trough, full of holes, such as is used for watering the streets. It may also be used to advantage by being mixed with compost. I have found it useful in top-dressing, and good for the turnip crop. The urine of six cows, fed on turnips in winter, will enrich a quantity of earth sufficient to top-dress an English acre of grass land. It would require about £5 worth of manure to perform the same operation. The advantage of irrigating grass land with urine, I have proved on a small piece of ground, sown with Italian grass, convenient to the cistern, which I cut four times in one season, each cutting averaging four feet. I would recommend farmers to make a trial of it. The expense of making the cisterns convenient to the cow-sheds is but trifling; it should be situated, also, where the slops from the house would run into it. They will be more benefited by pursuing this plan, than by allowing such a quantity of valuable manure to be lost."

It is a melancholy spectacle to see a man eating, drinking, and gambling away his property; and yet when poverty, and its constant companion, misery, overtake this man, and make him wince beneath their clutch, he will upbraid Providence for allowing him to suffer the mere consequences of his own imprudence. Such conduct is just as reasonable, as for a man to sleep in a ditch, and then complain of the access of fever thereby occasioned.

To fix Ammonia in your Manure Heaps.—Sprinkle them liberally with gypsum—or common salt dissolved in water—or with old bones crushed or pounded. Ashes may also be of advantage, or even loam, if enough is used to cover the heap.

Whitewash.—Do n't fail to apply this liberally about your premises.

Instead of spending a rainy day at the dram shop, as some do to their ruin, repair whatever wants mending, or post your accounts.

By driving your business before you, and not permitting your business to drive you, you will have opportunities to indulge in innocent diversions.

Take some good family newspaper, and pay for it in advance.

I saw an aged, shrivell'd form,
 With hollow eyes and blind;
 He crouch'd beneath the pelting storm,
 And shook with every wind.

Farmers' Calendar.

INDEPENDENCE! Talismanic word! How stirreth it the Yankee to patriotic reflections, especially when uttered on or about the 4th day of July. How does it electrify the memory, and bring up before the eye all the scenes from Lexington's bloody day to the crowning victory of the Revolution, and marshal in long array the patriot heroes and statesmen who sustained the fearful contest and founded a mighty nation. Well, national independence is a blessed thing; it has blessed us, and the world, indeed; and right it is for us to cherish the remembrance of its cost, and consider the vast consequences which have flowed from it. Thus shall we perceive the inestimable value of the legacy which our fathers left us, and be inspired to keep it unimpaired for our children. But this word independence: verily it hath different applications, and some of them are doubtless interesting to you. As a farmer, you are placed in a condition to be more independent than is any other class of society; all the means of a comfortable, yea, enviable existence, are within your immediate reach. Your dependence is not merely upon the breath of princes—not upon the accidents, the crimes, or even the necessities of society, which give employment to professional men and mechanics: it is upon God, whose promises fail not and whose goodness is over all. To be sure you may render yourself quite as dependent upon your neighbors as are other men. If you practice no self-denial and shut out providence from your counsels, you may find yourself a slave—to debt. Cruel bondage that. The debtor is strictly not his own; nay, all that he hath is another's. Up and escape from the bonds of debt; not to Canada, not to the West, not to Texas—leg-bail is no discharge in the court of conscience. Escape by the straight and narrow path—full and honest payment—payment to the last farthing; and take a receipt in full. Put all your energies to the work, backed up by self-denial and prudence, and the thing will be done. And then take this lesson for your reward: to be free and independent, pay down—always pay down.

Salt for Grub Worms.—A correspondent of the New Genesee Farmer says, that after finding the grub worm was cutting off his corn and cabbages at a sad rate, he first applied ashes, then soot, and Scotch snuff to the hill, hoping to destroy or drive away the worm, but it was all to no purpose. Afterwards, seeing it stated that salt was very disagreeable to the grub, he applied about two table spoonfuls to each hill of corn or cabbage, placing it so as not to touch the plant. The worms left them immediately. Another says, that by putting about 'a pinch' of salt to each plant, two or three times, the worm ceased his depredations. He also mentions a neighbor who watered his cabbages daily with water from a salt pork barrel, and was not troubled; but as soon as he discontinued the practice, his plants were attacked equally with his neighbors.

Vermin on Vines.—Charcoal dust is always offensive to insects and grubs, and though it may not kill them, it will drive them away. A little may be sifted over the plants every day or two, and we incline to think that charcoal will prove to be as good an article as any that has been recommended for garden plants.

Working Cattle.—These faithful creatures must receive increased attention and care, be well fed, regularly cleansed, and bedded at night.

By constant temperance, habitual moderate exercise, and unaffected honesty, you will avoid the fees of the lawyer and the sheriff, gain a good report, and probably add to your present existence, at least ten years of active life.

Remember that economy and industry are the two great pillars of the farmer's prosperity.

His song was "Life's fair tree is fell'd,
It yields before the blast ;"
And his lean hand an hour-glass held,
Whose sands were ebbing fast.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE labors of the harvest are at hand : hire Temperance and Gratitude for your assistants ; they are cheerful fellows, lighten every man's burden, and cost nothing. The economy of temperance is worth the attention of every body in these times, to say nothing of the loss of character, of happiness and of health, which rigid temperance will prevent,—and if you have never tried the experiment of a temperance harvest, try it now. Our word for it, those big-bellied jugs are awkward and unprofitable fellows any where.

How to keep Eggs.—Take a keg, with the bottom larger than the top, put a layer of coarse salt, if you can get it—it is the purest, generally—half an inch thick upon the bottom ; set up your eggs on the small end, close together, and cover them half an inch thick ; thus filling your cask alternately with salt and eggs, till near the top. Put over the top a thick, close-made cloth, and pour melted lard over it ; then set your eggs away, where they will not freeze, and they will keep for any length of time you desire.

To increase the Quantity of Cream.—While the milking of your cows is going on, let your pans be placed in a kettle of boiling water. Strain the milk into the pans taken hot from the kettle, and cover the same with another of the hot pans. Proceed, in like manner, with the whole mess of milk, and you will find that you will have double the quantity of good, rich cream, and get double the quantity of good sweet butter.

Lime.—If any one doubts the paramount benefits of this article in any soil or situation, let him try half an acre, lime it well, and we think that in four or five years he will extend the application. One well-done is forever done with this great fertilizer. Who ever saw the ruins of a house where the plastering and mortar is found, but has seen the rich strong grass, at all seasons, wet and dry ? What produces this ? The fertility that gathers to the residence of man cannot thus last. Can it be any other than the lime in the mortar ? Lime acts more decisively upon some soils than upon others, but limestone land is ever fertile, wherever found, and where it is deficient, if we add it, it will remain. It seems to act in the manures as a kind of condiment, preparing them for the appetites of the plants. A small portion of lime or alkaline matter is found in all vegetables, grasses and trees ; lime supplies this, and hence the vigorous growth wherever it is found. It is much more advantageous to double the produce of one acre, than to work two acres for the same return. Let us try this article. If we see no marked advantage the first year, and but little the second, doubt not : for it requires time to get this material fairly under way. But when it does act, its operation is steady and durable, and annually returns the cost of the application.

A writer in the Farmer's Cabinet says, "there is every reason to conclude, that by manuring corn with corstalks and constantly tilling by the plow, corn may be grown with success for any number of years on the same soil. Will not some one of your readers devote an acre of land to the purpose, and deserve the thanks of the agricultural community ?"

If apple trees have been girdled near the ground, the drawing up of earth around them so as to cover the wounds, may save them. Bark may be taken from other trees, and if well fitted in, may be made to heal the wounds.

Remember that Time is precious—a commodity so precious, that God, who gives every thing else liberally, imparts this with a sparing hand.

There is only one moment in the world at once, and that is taken away before the next is bestowed. Defer not the business of this moment to the next,—this is yours—the next may not be yours.

Across his path dark phantoms roved,
Of Age, and Want, and Crime,
His wings seemed clipt, yet swift he moved,
And still his name was TIME.

Farmers' Calendar.

REMEMBER YOUR ways. The law for the repairs of highways and bridges is to be attended to about these days. The regular wear and tear of time makes these periodical labors necessary in order to render the ways of the world passable—and is it not just exactly so, morally speaking, with the character and habits of us all, not excluding even the best of us? Let us keep a close eye to that, too. By the way, speaking of roads renders the following morceau of Michigan poetry quite apt. We hang it up as a sort of scare-crow to highway surveyors. It was appended to a notice for a meeting to take into consideration the propriety of repairing a certain piece of corduroy road:

“For now it is not passable,
Not even jackassable;
And those who would travel it
Should turn out and gravel it.”

Many an unwise parent labors hard and lives sparingly all his life for the purpose of leaving enough to give his children a start in the world, as it is called. Setting a young man afloat with money left him by his relatives, is like tying bladders under the arms of one who cannot swim; ten chances to one he will lose his bladders and go to the bottom. Teach him to swim and he will never need the bladders. Give your child a sound education, and you have done enough for him. See to it that his morals are pure, his mind cultivated, and his whole nature made subservient to the laws which govern man, and you have given what will be of more value than the wealth of the Indies. You have given him a start which no misfortune can deprive him of. The earlier you teach him to depend upon his own resources the better.

Worms in Trees.—The following receipt, as an antidote to worms in fruit or shade trees, is from the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette. It has been frequently published and tested, and found effectual. “In reply to your communication on shade trees, I have tried an experiment on a plum tree fifteen years ago, since which I have never seen any kind of insects upon the tree, to affect it or the fruit, which tree was every year affected, together with the fruit, previous to my experiment, which is to bore a hole into the heart of the tree and insert a roll of brimstone about three inches in length, and carefully plug the same up. The above will be a certain preventative of all kinds of insects, and the expense trifling.”

Strawberries.—Many cultivators suffer their beds to run wild, and still obtain tolerable crops; but a still better way is to plant in drills or hills, and keep them so. Hoeing or cultivation benefits them as much as it does corn. By pursuing this course, the writer obtained nearly a pint of large, fat, plump strawberries from some single plants the last season. Lime had been applied two years before to the strawberry bed, at the rate of about half a bushel to the square rod.

Agar said, “Give me neither poverty nor riches”—and this will ever be the prayer of the wise. Our incomes should be like our shoes: if too small, they will gall and pinch us, but if too large, they will cause us to stumble and to trip. Wealth, after all, is a relative thing, since he that has little, and wants less, is richer than he that has much, but wants more.

Onions.—If onions be planted in the same hill with vines, it is said they will protect the latter from the depredations of the striped bug.

Always have a plan of your business suited to the season; if every hour has its appropriate duty, the hour will remind you of that duty. Undertake no more than you can perform.

Do one thing at a time.

If hindrances occur, waste no time in fruitless regrets, but improve the passing circumstances.

Oh! how Time changes! and man, too,
Doth with the Wizzard change;
Borrow his every form and hue,
And in his footsteps range;

Why is not more attention paid in Vermont to the raising of good fruit? In Grand Isle County, in other vicinities of Lake Champlain, and along the Connecticut River, we are aware that good fruit is now produced; and indeed, in some instances within our knowledge, the orchard is the most profitable part of the farm. In these cases, the fruit is principally sold in our villages, instead of being used for cider or sauce. But more good fruit can be raised, and ought to be—yea, and will be raised, when the owners of orchards learn the truth, that good fruit can be produced as well as bad. The horticultural societies of Massachusetts have effected wonders by way of introducing new and excellent fruit, and of improving the mode of fruit culture. We trust this spirit of improvement will soon be felt in Vermont.

Fruit moth may be got rid of with a little care. They alight upon the young fruit in the months of June and July, and lay their eggs on the outside, at the blossom end of the fruit. In a few days the eggs are hatched, and the young worm at once burrows into the apples and feeds upon them. These apples mainly fall to the ground before the sound ones, and are what are usually called wind-fallen apples. Now for the remedy: it is simply to gather up all the wind fallen apples and make such use of them as to be sure and kill the worms; perhaps boil them and feed to the hogs. In addition to this, hang an old cloth in the crotches of the trees. It is said that when the worms begin to leave the apples, they will conceal themselves in the cloth, and may be easily destroyed.

Industry.—Every young man should remember that the world always has and always will honor industry—at least that part of the world whose respect is worth gaining. The useless idler, or he who seeks exercise in amusements that produce no useful end, may look with scorn upon the smutty laborer engaged in his toil: but his scorn is praise; his contempt is an honor. Honest industry will secure the respect of the wise and good among men, and give the priceless bliss of an easy conscience, peace of mind and health of body. Toil on, then, young men. Make your business an amusement: look upon labor as a blessing, not as a curse, and you will have no cause to envy the pampered sons of wealth.

To Make Yeast.—Take two middling sized boiled potatoes, mash, and add a pint of boiling water and two table spoonfuls of brown sugar. One pint of hot water should be applied to every half pint of the compound. Cold water is better in warm weather. This yeast being made without flour, will keep longer, and is said to be much better than any other.

Watery Potatoes.—Watery potatoes, or those in which carbon does not abound, are always deficient in nutritive qualities, which depend on the presence of carbon. The latter cannot exist in its just proportion independently of proper light and heat. Hence potatoes grown in an orchard are never good; the light and oxygen which should act upon them, is intercepted by the leaves of the various fruit trees; the deleterious portion of the carbon which the light and oxygen would have carried off, mixes with the watery particles of the vegetable, and it becomes not only deficient in nutriment, but absolutely unwholesome.

Never promise what you have not the means and the intention to perform.

Carefully gather up the fragments of time, and improve them for useful purposes. "As goldsmiths and refiners preserve the very sweepings of their shop, to save the filings of gold and silver, so a christian ought to be very careful of those small portions of time which are more precious than metals." This is an excellent rule for all, though all are not, what they should be—true Christians.

And now his mirror, now his sword,
 And now his hour-glass seize ;
 Thon fool! why is thy mind still stored
 With trifles such as these?

Silk Dress.—Silk being a non-conductor of electricity, is an excellent material for dress. One of the primary causes for the languor which is felt in damp weather is said to be the damp atmosphere, robbing us of our electricity—which a medical writer calls the buoyant cordial of the body. Those, therefore, who are apt to be spiritless in damp weather are recommended to wear silk waistcoats, drawers and stockings. Silk should be used in every possible manner by the weak—in the lining of sleeves, cloaks, coats, coverlits, &c.”

“There, that’s all very fine; but mercy on us! how are we ever to get silk so plenty as all this implies?” This is what we presume will be the reflection of a majority of the readers of the above extract. Yet it is as easy to supply so much silk as it would be to produce so much linen; indeed, we think, after the business is once understood, that it will be easier. Incredible as it may seem, it is nevertheless true, that silk can be raised in Vermont without difficulty. Sufficiently has the experience of a few proved this fact.—American silk is now manufactured to a considerable extent, and it is every way a superior article. Why not raise it in Vermont for our own use? France once thought she could not raise silk. Henry IV. and his great minister, Sully, believed this was an error, and offered a bounty so as to ensure those against loss who attempted the silk culture. They succeeded—the exports of silk now bring France $25,000,000 a year! And France is said not to be so good for silk culture as Massachusetts, and certainly no better than Vermont. Our wives (don’t laugh—there are three of us, each with a wife,) use Vermont silk and twist, manufactured by one of them, and pronounce it better, in all its qualities, than any foreign silk usually to be found; we, therefore, don’t preach for domestic silk without excellent authority—in our opinion. Go into the silk business, then, we pray you: not as a speculation; do not hazardously expend much money with the expectation of immediate and enormous profits; do not make that so much your business as to neglect any profitable part of your present operations on the farm. But we advise every farmer to try the experiment for himself in a small way, to begin with—even if he do nothing but satisfy himself that the mulberry will adapt itself to his soil. That effected, he may go on as he pleases. If he has children, especially daughters, and will furnish them with the means and the necessary instruction about feeding, we will warrant him success in raising his own sewing-silk. When this is generally done, the fact is established beyond controversy that silk may be raised, and capitalists will not be wanting to purchase the annual fleeces of the silk worm, to be manufactured.

Implements and Tools.—When not in use, see that these, of every kind, are kept under cover: once a week examine every thing of the kind you have, and have whatever may need it, repaired.

Education is a better safeguard for liberty than a standing army.—If we retrench the pay of the schoolmaster, we must raise the wages of the recruiting sergeant.

A man who gives his children a habit of industry, provides for them better than by giving them a stock of money.

Consider well the end of every thing you do—the end—not the immediate results—the momentary gratification—but the end of a course of conduct.

Aim at strict punctuality in engagements. A man who wants punctuality, not only wastes his own time, but often intrudes upon that of others, which may be still more valuable.

We must guard against a spirit of procrastination; also be watchful over ourselves, lest a habit of unprofitable anxiety, as to the future, rob us of our time.

Spurn this world for a better home,
 Where his wings cannot soar;
 Where chance and change shall never come,
 And time shall be no more.

Reading.—If I were to pray, says Sir J. Herschel, for a taste which should stand me in stead under every variety of circumstances, and be a source of happiness and cheerfulness to me through life, and a shield against all its ill, however things might go amiss, and the world frown upon me, it would be a taste for reading. I speak of it, of course, only as a worldly advantage, and not in the slightest degree superceding or derogating from the higher office, and surer and stronger panoply of religious principles—but as a taste, an instrument and a mode of pleasurable gratification. Give a man this taste and the means of gratifying it, and you can hardly fail of making a happy man—unless, indeed, you put into his hands a most perverse selection of books. You place him in contact with the best society in every period of history—with the wisest, wittiest—the bravest and the purest characters who have adorned humanity. You make him a denizen of all nations—a contemporary of all ages. The world has been created for him. It is hardly possible but the world should take a higher and better tone from the constant habit of associating in thought with a class of thinkers, to say the least of it, above the average of humanity. It is morally impossible but that the manners should imbibe a tinge of good breeding and civilization, from having constantly before their eyes the way in which the best informed men have talked and conducted themselves in their intercourse with each other.

He is a rich man, who lives within his income, be it ever so small; he is a poor man, who exceeds it, be it ever so large.

Trees.—It is a custom in Turkey, says Dr. Walsh, to plant a platanus orientalis (buttonwood tree) on the birth of a son, and a cypress on the death of one. Were this custom adopted in the United States, it would give us, at the end of forty years, about twenty millions of trees more than we now have—a consideration of no mean importance to posterity. And were the trees planted by the roadside, most of our public highways would, at that period, be converted into delightful avenues. The road from Strasburg to Munich, a distance of 250 miles, is an avenue of fruit trees.

Cultivators.—Every farmer should have a Cultivator. It is a real labor saving machine, whereby an old horse and a boy can do more hoeing in a day than can be done in any other way by the same amount of power.

Warm Bread.—Dr. Bell, in his excellent work on regimen and longevity, states that bread yet warm, or even recently from the oven, is unwholesome, especially to those whose exercise in the open air is limited. It is prejudicial to the dyspeptic, and to those who, without suffering themselves to be on this list, suffer frequently from pain and spasm in the stomach. Of the same injurious nature is hot buttered toast.

To destroy your authority over your children.—When you are in good humor, give them sugar-plums, when in ill humor, blows and reproach.

To embitter domestic life.—Maintain your opinion on small matters at the point of the bayonet.

Our life begins like the church service, with music, and afterwards come teaching and repentance.

Prudence and love are not made for each other; in proportion as love increases, prudence diminishes.

Taking a hint sometimes saves taking a kick.

Recall the transactions of the year, and endeavor to make a practical comment on the past.

Make these inquiries,—

Has it brought an increase of knowledge and virtue?

Has it been devoted to the service of God and man?

Or, has it been spent in sloth, sensuality, and selfishness?

Coldest day, January 13—11° below zero. Warmest day, August 26—93° above zero. Mean temperature of 1842, °45.6. Water in rain and snow, 33.68 inches.

Notes on the Winter of 1842.

First good Sleighing at Burlington, December 2d and 3d—from the 3d to the 9th sleighing poor. From December 9th to January 9th sleighing excellent. From January 9th to February 15th no good sleighing. Sleights run a part of the time, but during the greater part the ground was bare. From February 15th to April 4th sleighing good. Sleights ran during the winter 95 days. Good sleighing 73 days, or 10 weeks and 3 days. Lake Champlain froze over at Burlington February 16, and opened April 23. Steam Boats (Line) went into winter quarters November 29, and commenced running again April 27.

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS BY
ZADOCK THOMPSON, A. M.

MONTPELIER:

PUBLISHED AND PRINTED BY E. P. WALTON & SONS.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of Time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 4 will be found a list of such occultations of planets and stars by the moon as may be suitable for observation for determining longitude, and may be visible in Vermont. And this is preceded by a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for the same purpose.

 The year 1261 of the Mahomedan Era begins January 10, 1845.
 Ramadan (Turkish Abstinence Month) begins September 3, 1845.

Morning and Evening Stars.

Venus ♀ will be Morning Star till the 15th of May, and from that time Evening Star till the end of the year.

Jupiter ♃ will be Evening Star till the 6th of April—thence Morning Star till the 29th of October, and thence Evening Star till the end of the year.

Eclipses of the Sun and Moon.

There will be, in the year 1845, two Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

I. The first will be an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on the 6th of May, in the morning, and partly visible at Montpelier as follows:

Beginning of General Eclipse, 2h 55m	} Mean Time.
Sun rises 6 1-3 digits Eclipsed, 4h 46m
Eclipse ends at Montpelier, 5h 18 1-3m

Duration of visibility at Montpelier 32 1-3 minutes. This Eclipse passes off with great rapidity and will end 108° from the Sun's vertex towards the left hand. This Eclipse will be central and annular to only a very small portion of the earth's surface in the neighborhood of Melville Island.

II. The second will be a Total Eclipse of the Moon, on the 21st of May, invisible at Montpellier.

III. The third will be an Annular Eclipse of the Sun on the 30th of October, invisible at Montpellier; ☿ at 6h 52m in the evening.— This Eclipse will be visible at New Holland, New Zealand, and a large part of the Southern Ocean, but will be central and annular only in the neighborhood of the South pole.

IV. The fourth will be a Partial Eclipse of the Moon, on the 13th of November, in the evening, visible at Montpellier as follows :

First contact of the Penumbra, 5h 7m	} Mean Time at Montpellier.
Beginning of the Eclipse, 6h 20m
Middle of the Eclipse, 7h 59m
End of the Eclipse, 9h 38m
Last contact of the Penumbra, 10h 51m

Mag. of the Eclipse 11 digits on the Moon's Northern Limb. From first to last contact of Penumbra 5h 44m. Duration of Eclipse 3h 18m.

Transit of Mercury.

Note.
This figure represents the Sun at the time of the Transit, and the dotted curve the apparent path of Mercury across the disc.

The figures along the dotted line denote the situation of Mercury at the successive hours during the transit with reference to V the Sun's vertex.

Besides the Solar and Lunar Eclipses there will be this year, on the 8th of May, a Transit of Mercury across the Sun's disc, visible at Montpellier as follows :

First contact of limbs, 11h 29m 5s morn.	} Mean Time at Montpellier.
First internal contact, 11h 32m 40s morn.
Nearest distance of centres 9' 6'', 2h 44m 30s eve.
Last internal contact, 5h 54m 52s eve.
Last contact of limbs, 5h 58m 27s eve.
Duration of the Transit, 6h 29m 22s

In earlier days, in happier hours,
 I watched and wandered with the sun:
 I saw him when the East was red;
 I saw him when the day was dead—
 All his earthly journey done!
 Looks of love were in the West;
 But he passed—and took no rest!

Farmers' Calendar.

WELL, good friends—all's well. In spite of the erroneous, though doubtless honest, faith of the unfortunate last-day prophets, 1845 is here. Old Earth stands, as vigorous and strong as in the day when, beholding it fresh from His hand, "GOD saw that it was good." The same heavens are above us—the same elements continue to fructify and beautify the earth—the beneficent Author of all things still reigns, "GOD over all and blessed forever." We shall not place ourselves among the prophets by any prediction: let us be faithful to God and ourselves, doing our own good work in our own day. Whether our time be long or short, the fact will then be of little importance. Friends and patrons, if this is not already your rule, now is the time to adopt it. Begin the year right.

SAUSAGES, quite rich enough for an epicure. Thirty lbs. of chopped meat, eight ozs. of fine salt, two and a half ozs. of pepper, two tea cups of sage, and one and a half cups of sweet marjoram passed thro' a fine sieve. For the latter, thyme and summer savory can be substituted if preferred.

TO PREVENT THE SMOKING OF A LAMP.—Soak the wick in strong vinegar, and dry it well before you use it; it will then burn both sweet and pleasant, and give much satisfaction for the trifling trouble in preparing it.

THE BEST PREVENTIVE OF COLDS is to wash your children every day thoroughly in cold water, if they are strong enough to bear it; if not, add a little warm water, and rub the skin dry. This keeps the pores open. If they do take cold, give them a warm bath as soon as possible; if that is not convenient, bathe the feet and hands and wash the body all over with warm water, then give a cup of warm tea, and cover the patient in bed.

FOR BURNS.—Apply cotton wool dipped in oil as soon as possible, and keep it on till the fire is entirely out, which will usually take from two days to a week.

HENS.—If you expect hens to lay during winter, they must have a warm room, and plenty of suitable food. A stone, brick, or what is better than either, a clay house, impervious to wind and cold, with a supply of oats, shrunk wheat, barley, and even corn, with some animal food added, in addition to a supply of gravel and old mortar or lime, and water, will give you a constant supply of fresh eggs all winter.—American Agriculturist.

CANDLES.—Very hard and durable candles are made in the following manner: Melt together ten ounces of mutton tallow, a quarter of an ounce of camphor, four ounces of beeswax, and two ounces of alum. Candles made of these materials burn with a very clear light.

TO MAKE BLACKING.—Three ounces of ivory black, two ounces of treacle, half an ounce of vitriol, half an ounce of sweet oil, quarter of a pint of vinegar, and three-quarters of a pint of water. Mix the oil, treacle, and ivory black, gradually to a paste; then add the vitriol, and by degrees, the vinegar and water. It will produce a beautiful polish.

ICY STEPS.—Salt strewed upon the door-steps in winter, will cause the ice to crack, so that it can be easily removed.

Farmers' Calendar.

In introducing the following remarks, on wintering sheep, from the American Agriculturist, we would remind the farmer that all animals will keep well on less food when sheltered than when running at large.

"It is a prevalent notion among many of our farmers that sheep need no protection in winter, and will not do well if confined to yards. The contrary is the fact; and although it is better, perhaps, to give sheep more exercise than other stock, especially the Merino and South-Down breeds, yet they do very well in small yards, and require, at least, the protection of roofed sheds, such as can be closed all around. The sleet and rains of a northern climate, during the months of March and April, are worse for sheep than the snows of winter. Snow they easily shake off, and leave their fleeces dry; not so with rain. This penetrates to the skin of all but the Merino breeds, and superadded to the drenching overhead, when not protected, they are obliged to stand or lie down on cold, wet ground, than which, nothing can be more pernicious for sheep.

"To prove that sheep will do well in much closer yards than they are usually accustomed to be kept in, when we were in Orange county, Mr. Pelton of Montgomery, showed us his sheep barn, 20 feet by 48, the under story of which he devoted for shelter to a flock of 70 sheep. On the south side of this is a yard, also 20 feet by 48, boarded up so close and high as to make it dog-proof. Here Mr. Pelton has kept his sheep for two winters, allowing them to go out twice a day to drink at a spring a short distance from the yard. He takes care to salt them regularly, and feed them well; and says, with this treatment, his flock has wintered better than he ever knew it to do before. We saw the sheep, and their appearance corroborated all that Mr. P. said of them. It has been proved by repeated experiments, that sheep, when sheltered, keep on much less food than when suffered to run at large; and when we consider the saving of fodder, their superior health and condition, and above all, their security from destruction by dogs, no humane man or good farmer will grudge a trifling outlay to properly shelter his flocks.

REPROOF.—"Who hath redness of eyes?" This scripture interrogatory is well illustrated by an anecdote related with most effective dryness by a friend of ours. An elderly gentleman, accustomed to indulge in frequent potations of Cogniac, entered the bar-room of an inn, in the pleasant city of H—, on the Hudson, where sat a grave Quaker, toasting his toes by the fire. Lifting a pair of green spectacles upon his forehead, rubbing his inflamed eyes, and calling for a hot brandy toddy, he seated himself by the fire, and remarked to the old Quaker that "his eyes were getting weaker, and that even spectacles didn't seem to do 'em any good." "I'll tell thee, friend," replied the Quaker, "what I think. I think if thee was to wear thy spectacles over thy mouth for a few months, thy eyes would get sound again."

CURRYING Cows.—Cows should be curried as often as horses, particularly when they are shedding their hairs. Independent of other consequences, it tends to prevent them from licking themselves, by which they too often swallow the hair and receive injury.

 How deeply then did I adore
 The bright unwearied sleepless sun,
 And wish, just then, my course to run —
 From sea to sea, from shore to shore,
 My deeds thus good, thus known, thus bright,
 Thus undisturbed by rest or night.

Farmers' Calendar.

KEEP one eye out upon the weather, and the other upon the saps, kettles, and other paraphernalia of the sugar-orchard. The last two seasons have been unusually bad for sugar-making; but perhaps for that very reason we may be encouraged to hope for a good one now. Be ready for the first run, at any rate.

For a description of a boiling apparatus, used with success by a Vermont farmer, see last year's Register.

THE difference in the yield of sugar from a given quantity of sap, is owing to its possessing more or less acid, which lessens the quantity of sugar and injures the quality. This acid is corrected by putting into the sap when used, one ounce of lime water to every gallon, when it will uniformly produce half a pound of sugar to the gallon, of better quality than it would without the lime water.

CARE OF CATTLE.—Cows that calve in March, will need better hay in February than they required in the two last months. If you have any prudence or compassion, suffer not your cows to be bowed by the neck when they are nigh calving. The first drink that you give the cow after she has dropped her calf, should be as warm as her milk.— If she has been taught to drink swill, she will drink her own milk, should you offer it as soon as you have drawn it from her udder. If she refuses it, let her have a pailful of water with a shovel-full of hot embers thrown into it. She will be very thirsty, but you must not let her drink more than one pailful at a time during the twenty-four hours. Milk away all you can get before the calf knows what you are about — he will then nestle the udder and drain it clean, and prevent the soreness and swelling.

DURABLE INK FOR MARKING LINEN.—Dissolve a couple of drachms of lunar caustic, and half an ounce of gum arabic, in a gill of rain water. Dip whatever is to be marked in strong pearl-ash water.— When perfectly dry, iron it very smooth; the pearl-ash water turns it a dark color, but washing will efface it. After marking the linen, put it near a fire, or in the sun to dry. Red ink, for marking linen, is made by mixing and reducing to a fine powder half an ounce of vermilion, a drachm of the salt of steel, and linseed oil to render it of the consistency of black durable ink.

The Annapolis Herald publishes the following recipe for respectability: "Cheat your brothers and sisters out of all their patrimony — eat your bread without butter, and refuse your parents a tomb-stone! Then wear an old coat, carry a long face, turn your nose at tavern keepers, and drink freely in the kitchen, and you will become a respectable man in less than six months."

Young thriving trees will actually resist flame, and are the best protection a tenement can have against the assaults of fire.

BAD SALT FOR BUTTER.—A great deal of good butter is spoiled by the salt; and many a good butter-maker has been blamed for the quality of the article when it was no fault of hers. Use only the finest and purest salt.

A good hook and a good woman are excellent things to those who know how to justly appreciate their value; but there are many who judge of both only by their covering.

Sensible men and women never sneer at mechanics and others who earn their living by their labor. But self-styled gentlemen and ladies not unfrequently do. We have heard of a "lady" who once left a ball-room because a mechanic entered. She married a basket-maker, and died a wash-woman.

But now — since I have heard and seen
 The weary cares that trouble life,
 The evil that requiteth good,
 The benefits not understood,
 Unfilial, unfraternal strife,
 The hate, the lie, the bitter jest —
 I feel how sweet are night and rest!

Farmers' Calendar.

MORE than eighteen hundred years ago spring wheat was held in very high repute among the Romans. It was called the trimestrian, "which," said Columella, "husbandmen are mighty glad to make use of; for when, by reason of great rains or any other cause, the early sowing has been omitted, they have recourse to this for relief." Pliny said that "in the stalk it is less in danger than any other corn, for it holds its ear always upright, and does not contain the dews which occasion blasting and mildew." In 1804 and 1805, the first attempt to raise spring wheat, on a large scale, was made in England; and in cases where the red wheat had been injured by worms, the spring wheat was sown, even as late as May, by dibbling or raking it into the naked spots left by the worm. This trial was perfectly successful, the spring wheat ripening as soon as the winter wheat. In this country, many farmers pursue a similar course, sowing the spring wheat where the winter wheat has failed from any cause to flourish. The produce of wheat thus mixed should not be used for seed.

TO ROAST POTATOES.—I saw a mode of roasting potatoes a few days since, that was new to me. I do not know but it is practiced by every lady where I am not present to see it. Take an old cracked iron kettle, hang it over the fire, put in embers, then the potatoes, and then more ashes and embers, and you will soon have them well roasted by the heat above and below. Any body may do it if they only could think of it.

A NOBLE ANSWER.—A peasant was observed by a "nobleman" to be very punctual in his attendance upon the services in a neighboring chapel. When he was returning home on one occasion, the nobleman accosted him, and said, "Well, Tom, you have been at church, and I suppose it is all done now." "No," replied the peasant, "it is all said, and I am going home to pray that it may all be done."

ADVICE GRATIS.—Shut your eyes to the faults of your neighbors — open them very wide to your own. Stop your ears while gossips and slanderers are speaking of others — take your fingers away to listen to the voice of friendly admonition. Open your mouth seldom, and never hnt to the point and purpose — shut it close when misjudging friendship holds the glass to your lips.

A philosopher has said that he never knew a farmer to become rich who rose late in the morning.

DRIED STRAWBERRIES.—Last summer, by way of experiment, when strawberries were plenty, I attached threads to several stalks and hung up a few which were over-ripe to dry. I placed them inside a window facing the south, where they remained from June last until the present time, (March 28.) They have been tasted, and the result is most satisfactory. That agreeable acid peculiar to the strawberry, is in full perfection; the flavor of the fruit without any watery taste, is delicious; it dissolves in the mouth as slowly as a lezenge, and is infinitely superior to the raisin. The experiment may be tried when the fruit is so ripe as to be scarcely worth gathering, without any further expense or trouble than being hung up.

By Mr. Ellsworth's report it appears there were 315,965 lbs. of silk raised in the country in 1843.

HERBS.—Herbs should be cut when the flowers are fully matured, and dried in the shade, and when thoroughly cured, placed in tight paper bags, so as to preserve the pure aromatic principle. Many plants, by this neglect, lose their efficacy and fragrance before they are used.

A rook was recently killed in England, which had in its crop nineteen grub-worms and seventeen wire-worms.

And, oh! what morning ever look'd
 So lovely as the quiet eve,
 When low and fragrant winds arise,
 And draw the curtains of the skies,
 And gentle songs of summer weave—
 Such as between the alders creep,
Now, and soothe my soul to sleep!

Farmers' Calendar.

TAKE CARE of the garden. With very little trouble you might have early cucumbers, melons, lettuce, cabbages, tomatoes, &c., &c., well started in boxes sheltered from frost, so as to be ready for transplanting as soon as the season will warrant. Peas may be sown at almost any time. We know of a farmer, near one of our largest villages, who ploughed in his peas last spring as well as he could while the frost was in the ground. He had a crop of excellent peas for the table in June, and made a handsome profit on them.

The Farmer's Mine of Wealth gives a new method of making manure which is worth trying. It is this: 1. Form your barn-yard, so that all the water or juice may flow to one side. 2. Then sink a vat large enough to contain the juice of the yard. 3. To every barrel of liquid add 4 lbs. of stone lime just slacked, 4 lbs. wood ashes or an equivalent of leached ashes or 1-4 lb. potash, 1-4 lb. salt or its equivalent of old brine, 2 oz. saltpetre, 20 lbs. plaster or mud or muck—mix thoroughly and stir every day for a few days. 4. On the upper side of the vat place rails about two feet apart, with their ends at the vat, and above these a tier of rails crosswise. 5. On the rails put a layer one foot thick of straw, weeds or stalks, and then stir up the vat and thoroughly wet this layer—place another layer of the same thickness and wet it like the first, and so on until you have as large a heap as you wish, stirring up the contents of the vat at every wetting and always wetting thoroughly. 6. If the heap consists of straw and weeds, wet thoroughly every fourth day; if you use much peat, muck or earth with the straw, wet once a week. At every watering, make holes in the heap with an iron bar, from 8 to twelve inches apart, extending about to the middle. Incline the rails or ground under them, so that the liquid from the heap will return to the vat. Straw, wet three times, will be fit for use in fifteen days; and in thirty days if muck or earth has been added. Water may be used in place of the juice of the barn-yard, by increasing the quantity of the articles to be mixed with it.

VALUE OF HENS IN A GARDEN.—At a meeting of the New-York Farmers' Club, Mr. Smyth, the projector of the Atlantic Steam Navigation Company, said that he had in England trained two hens to destroy the insects in his garden, with great success. He would let the hens into the garden early in the morning, and as soon as they finished their work, call them off to feed them, and then keep them away until the next morning, when they would feel hungry. He was now engaged in training a regiment of hens to destroy the insects in a field of corn belonging to his nephew.

VANITY.—The vanity of young men in valuing themselves by their fine clothes and fashionable dress, is one of the most childish pieces of folly that can be, and the occasion of great and often lasting injury to them. Avoid singularity and too much expensiveness in your apparel: be plain, decent, cleanly, not curious nor costly in your dress: it is the sign of a weak head-piece to be desirous of adopting every new fashion, or to think yourself the better in it, or the worse without it.

“Do not rob yourself,” as the farmer said to the lawyer who called him hard names.

WHITE CARROTS.—The cultivation of this root is attracting considerable attention among farmers in England at present, as well as in this country. It is stated in some instances to yield 30 tons to the acre. Lord Ducie regularly obtains an average of 24 tons to the acre; and Mr. Harris estimates the tops to be equal to a second crop of clover. It has been common in Flanders and Germany for two centuries.

Look at this brook, so blithe, so free!
 Thus hath it been, fair boy, forever—
 A shining, dancing, babbling river;
 And thus 't will ever be,
 'T will run, from mountain to the main,
 With just the same sweet babbling voice
 That now sings out, "Rejoice—rejoice!"

Farmers' Calendar.

As wool is the article upon which many of the Vermont farmers mainly rely, every care should be taken to make the most out of it—honestly, of course, for it will be forever true, that "honesty is the best policy." Lord Leicester is one of the most celebrated of the British wool-growers, and he has found that the time of year for sheep-shearing most favorable to the quality of the wool, and the comfort of the animal, is towards the end of June and beginning of July. In Spain, the sheep are sheared about the 1st of May—corresponding nearly to the last of June in Vermont. On the night previous to being sheared, they are forced into a long narrow hut as close as they can be packed, and there undergo a great perspiration, the effect of which is to soften the hardened nectious matter which has been collected in the fleece. Ure, in his Dictionary of Arts, says that the yolk (very abundant in the Merino breed) will injure the fibre of the wool by fermentation, causing it to be brittle, if suffered to remain; he therefore urges that the fleece should be carefully and thoroughly washed after shearing in water nearly lukewarm, and then well pressed and carefully dried. By this process it will undoubtedly lose in weight, but the cleanness of the wool and the flexibility of the fibre will far outweigh that loss in the estimation of the manufacturer, and the wool-grower will unquestionably increase his profit by the means. The male modifies the fleece of the offspring far more than the female; when coupling, therefore, always select the rams of the finest fleece. In this mode, the flock will be constantly improving.

DISEASES OF SHEEP.—Blackwater. Keep the bowels open with Epsom salts; and give a tea-spoonful of elixir of vitriol, or sulphuric acid, diluted with 7 parts of water, in an infusion of oak bark.

Blackmuzzle. Mix an ounce of verdigris (acetate of copper,) 4 ounces of honey, half a pint of vinegar; simmer them together over a fire for ten minutes in an earthen pipkin. Apply to the mouth on a piece of rag.

Cough, or Cold. Bleed; give a solution of Epsom salts.

Fly. Fly powder: Two pounds of black sulphur, half a pound of hellebore; mix them together, and sprinkle the sheep from the head to the tail with a dredging-box.

Foot Rot. One drachm of verdigris (acetate of copper,) 1 drachm of blue vitriol (sulphate of copper,) 1 drachm of white vitriol (sulphate of zinc,) 2 ounces of water, 2 drachms of nitric acid, 2 drachms of butter of antimony; pare away the horn, and apply the lotion upon a feather to the part affected.

Scab, or Schab. Apply a lotion formed of 1 ounce of corrosive sublimate, 4 ounces of sal ammoniac, dissolved in 4 quarts of rain-water. This is a powerful stimulant, and must be used with caution.

RUST AND MILDEW IN WHEAT.—Wheat struck with the rust or mildew, should be cut at once, no matter how green in appearance, as this is the only chance of saving any thing from it.

RETURNED WITH INTEREST.—A man by the name of Bacon, wishing to pass a joke upon his minister, asked him why hogs' heads were called ministers' faces? "For the same reason, I suppose," answered the clergyman, "that the other end of the animal is called bacon!"

During this month, insects will frequently attack fruit trees in great numbers. For some of these, as the slugs and others of the same nature, a sprinkling of ashes or lime is the most immediately destructive. For the apis and smaller insects of the same habits, a solution of whale-oil soap, applied with a syringe, is the most efficacious. Caterpillars can be destroyed while in small clusters, by burning sulphur.

This common field, this little brook —
 What is there hidden in these two,
 That I so often on them look,
 O, tamer than on the heavens blue?
 No beauty lies upon the field;
 Small birds doth the river yield;
 And yet I look, and look again,
 With some thing of a pleasant pain.

Farmer, Calcutta.

THE editor of the American Agriculturist accuses the farmers generally of cutting their hay too early and their grain too late. The best time for cutting hay evidently is when the saccharine matter is most fully developed, and this is said to be just as the grass is going out of the flower.

In reference to grain, the Farmer's Cabinet says:

"We are satisfied that grain is very often left too long standing uncut in the field. The risk of injury from storms is increased — it does not handle so well, either in cutting, binding, loading, or stacking — and scatters out more. The opinion is pretty well established, that when wheat or rye is cut early — we mean before the grain is entirely hard — it makes quite as much, and whiter flour, than if left till the usual time. Since writing the above, we happened to read it to an experienced miller, who is also a good farmer. He says he is well satisfied that early cut grain — that which is apparently quite green — will really yield more flour, and is worth several cents a bushel more than that which is suffered to stand till the berry is thoroughly hardened.

NEW PITCHFORK — The American Agricultural Almanac furnishes this description of a new pitchfork, for which we suppose there is no patent:

"This instrument is the best we know of for pitching sheaves of grain. Its construction is perfectly simple, and it can be made by any skilful blacksmith accustomed to forge pitchforks. It consists of two tines (C) 9 inches long, which are spread 2 inches at the shank, and 2 1/2 at the ends. The shank has a sudden curve at the end, of about 2 inches, so as to bring the points of the fork nearly in a line with the direction of the handle and shank. The naked part of the shank (B) is 8 inches long, 1 inch wide, by 1/3 of an inch thick, and enters the handle, which has a ferule (A) on the end, of 8 inches, secured to the shank by a strong rivet. The tines and shank are made of the best German steel, and possess great elasticity, which very much lessens the labor of pitching. The handle may be of any desired length, but should possess as much elasticity as possible."

TOMATO CATSUP.—To a gallon of skinned tomatoes add 4 table-spoonfuls of salt, 4 do. black pepper, half a spoonful allspice, 8 red peppers, and 3 spoonfuls mustard. All these ingredients must be ground fine, and simmered slowly in sharp vinegar for three or four hours. As much vinegar is to be used as to leave half a gallon of liquor when the process is over. Strain through a wire-sieve and bottle, and seal from the air. This may be used in two weeks, but improves by age, and will keep several years.

A letter writer, speaking of the good butter made on the White Mountains, says "it is well spanked by the dairy damsels?" We are glad we do not live in that region.

GOOD EFFECTS OF PLASTER ON FRUIT TREES.—Mr. MURPHY states, in the Watertown Herald, that by ascending a fruit-tree while in blossom in the spring of the year, and sprinkling plaster freely upon them, the tree bore 20 bushels of apples the following fall, while it had never produced over 2 bushels any previous year. It is said, also, that plaster is a good preventive to the blast.

'Tis thirty — can it be thirty years,
 Since last I stood upon this plank,
 Which o'er the brook its figure rears,
 And watch'd the pebbles as they sank?
 How white the stream! I still remember
 Its margin glassed by hoar December,
 And how the sun fell on the snow:
 Ah! can it be so long ago?

Farmers' Calendar.

THE month of August is the most suitable time for budding apples, pears, plums, &c. Budding is a process resorted to when grafting in the spring has failed. The bud — fix on one near the middle of a healthy mid-summer shoot, and sever the shoot and carry to the stock you intend to bud; make a sloping cut round the bud from an inch and a half below it to an inch above, cutting half way into the wood, and taking out the bud, bark and wood together, so as to prevent the bud from wilting. Budding — cut off the leaf under which the bud is situated, leaving the foot stock of the leaf, by which you may hold the bud in your mouth: next find a smooth even place on the stock in which you wish to place the bud, and carefully make two incisions, clear through to the wood, in this shape T; after which you must remove the bud and bark from the wood attached to it, taking great care to separate all the bark, together with the root of the bud, from the wood. If the root is not separated from the bark, you will notice a small cavity where the root should be — and in this case throw away the bud and try another. The next step is carefully to open the sides of the incision on the stock, raising the bark of the stock clear to the wood; then nicely introduce the largest end of the bark of the bud, placing its inner side flat against the wood of the stock. Then cut the upper end of the bark off so that it will exactly fit the edge of the top of the T. With your thumb and finger bring over the bark of the stock so as to enclose the bark of the bud, and finish by winding a piece of wet matting or cloth smoothly and firmly round the stock above and below the bud, which must be left peeping out. In a fortnight the bud should begin to look round and healthy; a fortnight after that loosen the bandage, and after another week take it away entirely. In this state the bud passes the winter, and in the spring you may head down the stock to within an inch of the bud, and then fix on a stick to which you may tie the young shoot to protect it against high winds.

“Why, my good friend,” said one Staffordshire farmer, who stammered very much, to a neighbor, who stammered nearly as bad, “why don't you go — go — go to Bra — Bra — Brady? He has qui — qui — quite cu — cu — cured me.” “Has he, indeed?” said the other. — “Then he shan't cu — cu — cure me.”

STRIPPING LEAVES FROM CORN.—Some farmers are in the practice of stripping the leaves from corn for fodder, during this and the following month. This has always an injurious effect, as no part of a plant is more necessary for the maturity of its seed, than the leaves — for they are to plants the same as lungs to the human system. The truth of this may be easily proved by stripping alternate rows of corn in a field, and afterwards measuring the proceeds.

GREEN CORN PUDDING.—A Louisville paper gives the following recipe for making a fine pudding: “Take of green corn twelve ears and grate it. To this, add a quart of sweet milk, a quarter of a pound of fresh butter, four eggs well beaten, pepper or salt sufficient; stir all well together and bake four hours in a butter dish. Some add to the other ingredients a quarter of a pound of sugar, and eat with sauce.”

TENDER CONSCIENCE.—A French Abbe, calling one afternoon upon a bishop, was invited to stay and dine. "My lord," replied the conscientious man, with a very demure and scandalized look, "I have already had a good breakfast, a substantial luncheon, and a capital dinner; and besides, I beg leave to remind your lordship of what you seem to have completely forgotten; this is a fast day!"

It cometh back ;— so blithe, so bright,
 It hurries to my eager ken,
 As though but one short winter's night
 Had darkened o'er the world since then.
 It is the same clear dazzling scene ;—
 Perhaps the grass is scarce as green ;
 Perhaps the river's troubled voice
 Doth not so plainly say — " Rejoice."

Farmers' Calendar.

SEED of every kind should be gathered as it ripens, taking care not to mix the seed of weeds. The rule should be to reserve the most full, plump, sound and healthy, whatever the kind may be, for seed, as the produce will be in a degree similar to the seed sown. By observing this rule in reference to wheat, Mr. John Merton, an English farmer, in 1837-8, produced 2 ton 5 cwt. 1 qr. and 12 lbs. of red wheat from 792 seeds!— and of these seeds 252 were lost by frost and birds, leaving only 540 seeds to produce this enormous crop! Verily, the selection of good seed is worth a little trouble.

CUTTING GRAIN.—On page 18 we have given a suggestion on early harvesting and we will here add the results of an experiment made in England in 1841:

No.	When cut.	Flour.	Seconds.	Bran.
1,	month before fully ripe,	75 lbs.	7 lbs.	17 lbs.
2,	3 weeks before fully ripe,	76	7	16
3,	2 " " " "	80	5	13
4,	2 days " " "	77	7	14
5,	cut when ripe,	72	11	15

From this it will be seen that the wheat cut two weeks before it was fully ripe was the most productive.

Trees and shrubs may be propagated in this month by cuttings and layers.

MENTAL CONSTITUTION OF MAN AND WOMAN.—Even when most cultivated, there is a degree of roughness and rudeness to be found in the mind of man, when compared with that of woman, which is, perhaps, inseparable from its superior strength. The difference is well seen in the parental character. However fond a father may be of his child, he would be teased and tormented by the constant watchfulness and attention which is necessary for its well being, and which is the delight of the mother to bestow. Her constant, patient, and careful attention to minutia, would certainly require from him a much greater effort than from her, and would fatigue him much more than a very considerable exertion either of body or mind. Woman must always, of course, continue to be the mother of the human race; and as no change in her condition can alter that law of nature, so neither can any change alter those peculiarities of her mental constitution which so nicely fit her for the duties of the maternal character. This character, the duties attendant upon it, and the peculiarities, mental and physical, which are required by it, is the best guarantee that the distinction between the sexes can never be lost by any equalization of these rights.—Mrs. Hugo Reid's Plea for Woman.

DOCTOR'S VISITS.—A singular old gentleman was waited upon with his doctor's bill for medicine and visits. After cogitating for some time on its contents, he desired the young man who called with it to tell the doctor that the medicine he would certainly pay for, but as for the visits he had charged, he should return them again!

INCREASING THE MILK OF COWS.—Gentle treatment and rapid and close milking, will tend to the greatest development of milk in cows, and contrary practices will have the effect of reducing the quantity.

Those persons who eat a late supper should not take breakfast till one or two hours after rising. Those who dine late, and eat nothing afterwards, require breakfast soon after rising.

It is injurious to eat when greatly heated or fatigued. It would very much conduce to the health of laboring men if they could rest fifteen or twenty minutes before dinner.

Yet nature surely never ranges,
 Ne'er quits her gay and flowery crown;
 But, ever joyful, merely changes
 The primrose for the thistle-down.
 'Tis we alone, who, waxing old,
 Look on her with an aspect cold,
 Dissolve her in our burning tears,
 Or clothe her with the mists of years!

Farmers' Calendar.

BUTTER.—In Holland, where butter-making has arrived at the greatest perfection, and whose butter brings the highest price of any brought into the European markets, the following method of curing butter is observed: The butter, immediately after being out of the churn, is put into a shallow vessel, and carefully washed with pure cold water. It is then worked with a small sprinkling of fine salt; whether for immediate use, or for packing, the butter is worked up twice or thrice a day, for three days, in a flat tub, there being about two pounds of this salt allowed to fourteen pounds of butter; the butter is then hard packed by thin layers, into casks, which casks are previously carefully seasoned, and cleaned. They are always of oak, well smoothed inside. Before being used, they are allowed to stand three or four days, filled with sour whey, and thereafter carefully washed out and dried.

"We beg of our dairywomen," says Judge Burd, "to mark two points in the preceding process. First, no salt is used but what is incorporated with and dissolved in the butter, and which is necessary to give it flavor; and, second, the butter intended is worked from six to eight times, to incorporate the salt, and separate it from every particle of liquid, which, if left in it, would induce rancidity."

Dr. Anderson recommends, for preserving butter, a composition, of saltpetre, one part; sugar, one part—one ounce of this mixture to sixteen of butter. Butter thus prepared, will keep for a long time, but does not taste well for the first two or three weeks.—Bost. Cultivator.

SCALDING MILK FOR BUTTER.—In the Boston Ploughman, we notice that Mr. Johnson, of Frammingham, scalds his milk during the winter season, after drawing it from the cow, and then sets it away in the usual manner. The butter made from the cream is as yellow, sweet, and solid, as if made in June. The same thing is done by all good butter-makers in this vicinity, with the same effects as detailed by Mr. Johnson.—American Agriculturist.

ARTIFICIAL OYSTERS.—The following recipe was given to us recently by a lady in Dutchess county, for making, what to our taste, is a delicious dish: Take young green corn, grate it in a dish; to one pint of this add one egg well beaten, a small tea-cup of flour, half a cup of butter, some salt and pepper, and mix them well together. A table-spoonful of the batter will make the size of an oyster. Fry them a light brown. Cream, if it can be procured, is better than butter.

BENEVOLENCE.—If the certainty of future fame bore Milton rejoicing through his blindness, or cheered Galileo in his dungeon, what stronger and holier support should not be given to him who has loved mankind as his brothers, and devoted his labors to their cause?—who has not sought, but relinquished, his own renown?—who has braved the present censures of men for their future benefit, and trampled upon glory in the energy of benevolence? Will there not be for him something more powerful than fame to comfort his sufferings now, and to sustain his hopes beyond the grave? If the wish of mere posthumous honor be a feeling rather vain than exalted, the love of our race affords us a more rational and noble desire of remembrance.

"All flesh is grass," as the horse said when he bit the man's arm.

CARRYING THE THING TOO FAR.—The Boston Post says that a man has been turned out of a Temperance Society for eating corned beef. "I say, Mister, how came your eyes so all-fired crooked?" "My eyes?" "Yes." "By sitting between two girls and trying to look love at both at the same time."

Then why should not the grass be green?
 And why should not the river's song
 Be merry — as they both have been,
 When I was here, an urchin strong?
 Ah, true! too true! I see the sun
 Through thirty winter years hath run,
 For grave eyes, mirrored in the brook,
 Usurp the urchin's laughing look!

Farmers' Calendar.

WINTER is at hand; the frost has claimed dominion, and the year is wending to its close, wrapped in its winding sheet of snow. Have a care for your most faithful and profitable servants — your cattle, your horses, and your sheep. Some of them have aided you through the laborious season — others have ministered to your necessities and supplied you with the comforts of life; neglect them not in the time of their need. If your stock is in good condition now, see to it that you do not lose all this advantage by suffering winter to overtake you with your barns and sheds unprepared. Now is the time to put all the tools in good order. Keep the wagons, and carts, and plows, &c. &c. under cover; exposure to the weather for one winter will injure them more than the wear and tear of summer's use.

TO PRESERVE THE EYE-SIGHT.—Every morning, when washing yourself, dip your face in the water, open your eyes, and keep them under the water as long as you can hold your breath. This strengthens the eye, and cleanses it from the rheum, which deadens the sight, and considerably affects the ball. A gentleman in Maryland, by the name of James Calder, after using spectacles for twenty-five years, followed this plan, and at the age of seventy recovered his sight, so as to see without them. Dipping the crown of the head into cold water, every morning, both winter and summer, is a preservative against the head and ear-ache, and will materially assist the other operation in its effect upon the eyes.

CURE FOR A FOUNDERED HORSE.—A correspondent of the Louisville Journal says, that if a horse is foundered over night, he may be cured in three hours, if it is attended to in the morning. Take a pint of hog's lard, and heat it boiling hot, and after cleaning his hoof well, and taking off his shoe, put his foot in the lard, and with a spoon apply it to all parts of the hoof as near the hair as possible. This, he says, he has tried for more than fifty years, and never known it fail. The application should be to the foot of each foundered limb.

STEPHEN YALES' PROCESS OF MAKING CHEESE.—In making cheese in the ordinary way practised by the dairymen of Herkimer county, I discovered that when the milk was scalded, an oil would rise on the top and run off in the whey. I directed my dairyman not to scald the curd, and found I not only retained the aromatic oil, but also all the cream that would otherwise escape in the whey, and I kept the cheese in press for some days, (occasionally turning them,) until the linen wrapper was no longer moist. After this they were attended to in the usual way, except that they were rubbed with hog's lard instead of whey butter.—Am. Agr. Almanac.

A PALPABLE HIT.—A "notion seller" was offering Yankee clocks, finely varnished and colored, and with a looking-glass in front, to a certain lady not remarkable for personal beauty. "Why, it's beautiful," said the vender. "Beautiful, indeed! a look at it almost frightens me," said the lady. "Then, marm," replied Jonathan, "I guess you'd better buy one that hain't got no looking-glass."

If you be not capable of rising to the knowledge of the most sublime truths, learn with "the little ones" to know such as are small.

Who that has ever felt the refreshing effects of the morning air can wonder at the lassitude and disease that follow the continual breathing of the pestiferous atmosphere of crowded or ill ventilated apartments? It is only necessary to observe the countenances of those who inhabit close rooms and houses, to be sensible of the bad effects of shutting out the external air.

So be it! I have lost — and won!

For once, the Past was poor to me —
The Future dim; and though the sun
Shed life and strength, and I was free,
I felt not — know no grateful pleasure;
All seemed but at the common measure:
But now — the experienced Spirit old
Turns all the leaden past to gold.—Barry Cornwall.

Farmers' Calendar.

ALL hail! The work is done, the season closed, your cup is full; what remains but to pour out your hearts in Thanksgiving for the past? Be it with unfeigned gratitude, and let not the joyful day pass without remembering that it is more blessed to give than to receive the charities of life; and so may you long receive blessings from the Blessed One, to be His happy almoner to others.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.—A farmer called on Earl Fitzwilliam to represent that his crop of wheat had been injured, in a field adjoining a certain wood where his hounds had, during the winter, frequently met to hunt. He stated that the young wheat had been so cut up and destroyed, that in some parts he could not hope for any produce. "Well, my friend," said his lordship, "I am aware that we have frequently met on that field, and that we have done considerable injury; and if you can procure an estimate of the loss you have sustained, I will repay you." The farmer replied, that, anticipating his lordship's consideration and kindness, he had requested a friend to assist him in estimating the damage, and they thought, that as the crop seemed quite destroyed, fifty dollars would not more than repay him. The earl immediately gave him the money. As the harvest, however, approached, the wheat grew, and in those parts of the field that were trampled, the corn was the strongest and most luxuriant.—The farmer went again to his lordship, and being introduced, said, "I am come, my lord, respecting the field of wheat adjoining such a wood." He instantly recollected the circumstances. "Well, my friend, did I not allow you sufficient to remunerate you for your loss?" "Yes, my lord, I have found that I have sustained no loss at all; for where the hounds had most cut up the land, the crop is most promising; and I have therefore brought the fifty dollars back again." "Ah!" exclaimed the venerable earl, "this is what I like — this is what ought to be between man and man." He then entered into conversation with the farmer, asking him some questions about his family — how many children he had, &c. His lordship then went into another room, and returning, presented the farmer a check for one hundred dollars. "Take care of this, and when your eldest son is of age present it to him, and tell the occasion that produced it." We know not which most to admire, the benevolence or the wisdom displayed by this illustrious man; for while doing a noble act of generosity, he was handing down a lesson of integrity to another generation.

GOOD THOUGHTS ON EDUCATION.—Education does not commence with the alphabet. It begins with a mother's look — with a father's nod of approbation, or a sign of reproof — with a sister's gentle pressure of the hand, or a brother's noble act of forbearance — with handfulls of flowers in green and daisy meadows — with birds' nests admired but not touched — with creeping ants, and almost imperceptible emacts — with humming bees and glass bee-hives — with pleasant walks in shady lanes — and with thoughts directed in sweet and kindly tones and words to nature, to beauty, to acts of benevolence, to deeds of virtue, and to the sense of all good, to God himself.

Pride is as loud a beggar as want, and a great deal more saucy.

THE PARSON AND THE FARMER.—An honest bluff farmer meeting the parson of the parish in a bye-lane, and not giving him the way so readily as he expected, the parson, with an erect chest, told him that "he was better fed than taught." "Very true, indeed, sir," replied the farmer, "for you teach me, and I feed myself."

Never eat a hearty supper just before retiring to rest.

FOR A BRUISE OR SPRAIN. Bathe the part in cold water, till you can get ready a decoction of wormwood. This is one of the best remedies for sprains and bruises. When the wormwood is fresh gathered, pound the leaves and wet them either with water or vinegar, and bind them on the bruise; when the herb is dry, put it into cold water, and let it boil a short time, then bathe the bruise and bind on the herb. Always keep cotton wool, scraped lint, and wormwood on the hand.

THE EAR-ACHE is usually caused by a sudden cold. Steam the head over hot herbs, bathe the feet, and put into the ear cotton wet with sweet oil and peregoric.

Explanations of the Astronomical Department.

By due attention to the following explanations all the Astronomical Calculations in this work will be readily understood.

Time is regarded either as mean or apparent.

A mean day is the average length of the days in the year, and consists of 24 hours, as measured by a clock which runs uniformly, and which measures 365 times 24 hours in 365 natural days.

An apparent day is the time from the sun's leaving the meridian on one day, till its arrival on the meridian on the next day; and this time is not always the same, being sometimes more and sometimes less than 24 hours.

Mean time, then, is that shown by a well regulated clock; and apparent time is that shown by a correct sun-dial. The difference between these is called the equation of time.

The equation of time depends upon two causes, the obliquity of the ecliptic to the equator, and the eccentricity of the earth's orbit; both of which tend to produce an inequality in the daily increments of the sun's right ascension, while the earth's motion on its axis is perfectly uniform. Mean and apparent time coincide only four times in the year, viz: April 15th, June 15th, August 31st, and December 24th; and the greatest difference between mean and apparent time is on the 2d of November, and amounts to a little more than 14 1-4 minutes.

With the exception of the sun's declination and semi-diameter, and the equation of time, which are for the instant of apparent noon at Montpelier, all the calculations are adapted to mean time.

At the head of the right hand page for each month stands first a table of the declination and southing of the principal planets, on the 1st, 7th, 13th, 19th, and 25th days, and below it phases of the moon. By means of the first of these tables, the several planets may be readily found and recognized.

It was formerly customary to give the rising and setting of the sun according to apparent time, and to give the equation of time in another column. In that case it was necessary, in regulating a time-piece by the rising or setting of the sun, to apply the equation to the time of rising, or setting, (as the case might be,) given in the Almanac, and also 3 or 4 minutes, according to the sun's declination, on account of atmospheric refraction at the horizon. But as this matter was little understood, and attended with some trouble, these corrections were generally neglected. To remedy this inconvenience, it has been thought best to apply both these corrections, found to the nearest minute, to the sun's rising and setting, and to give only the result, which has been done in this Register since 1837. The method of doing this may be made plain by an example. Take, for this purpose, the 23d of September. On that day, according to the old method, the sun would rise at 6 o'clock, and set at 6. On that day the equation of time is 8 minutes; or, in other words, the sun is 8 minutes faster than the clock. The time, then, by the clock, when it is 6 by the sun, is 5h 52m in the morning, and 5h 52m in the evening. Now, on account of the refraction of the earth's atmosphere, the sun appears in the horizon in the morning 4 minutes before he arrives there; and in order to have the time when the sun is seen in the horizon at his time of rising, we subtract 4m from 5h 52m, leaving 5h 48m; and for the same reason we add 4m to 5h 52m, which gives 5h 56m for the time of his setting on the 23d of September; and these are the times given in this Register.

The column marked Sun South is formed by applying the equation of time to apparent noon, and contains the times shown by a correct time-piece when the sun is on the meridian; or in other words, when it is noon by a correct noon-mark or dial. For example—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of January, it should be 4 minutes after 12 o'clock by the time-piece. Again—when it is noon by the sun on the 1st day of November, it should be only 44 minutes after 11 o'clock by the time-piece. This column is introduced for convenience in setting time-pieces by a noon-mark.

The columns marked Sun's Declination, Sun's Semi-Diameter, and Equation of Time, are calculated, to the nearest second, for apparent noon, and will be understood, without further explanation, by those who may have occasion to use them.

On page 4 will be found a catalogue of the eclipses of Jupiter's Satellites, which may be visible in Vermont, and which may be employed for observation for determining longitude.

The year 1263 of the Mahomedan Era begins December 20, 1846.

Ramadan (Turkish Abstinence Month) begins August 23, 1846.

Morning and Evening Stars.

The planet Venus will be Evening Star till March 2d—thence Morning Star till December 18th, and thence Evening Star.

The planet Jupiter will be Evening Star till May 13th—thence Morning Star till December 1st, and thence Evening Star.

Eclipses of the Sun.

There will be, in the year 1846, only two Eclipses, and both of the Sun.

I. The first will be an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on the 25th of April, visible at Montpelier, as follows:

Beginning of the Eclipse, 11h 10m morning.

Greatest Obscuration, 0h 21m evening.

End of the Eclipse, 1h 40m evening.

Duration 2h 30m. Digits Eclipsed 6, on S. Limb. The Eclipse begins 118° from the Sun's vertex towards the right hand. This Eclipse will be visible from all parts of the United States, from Mexico, Central America, the northern parts of South America and the West Indies, and from the western parts of Europe and Africa. The central and annular path commences in the Pacific Ocean, near the Equator, passes across Yucatan, Cuba, and the Atlantic Ocean, and terminates on the western part of Africa.

II. The second is also an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on the 20th of October, invisible in Vermont; \odot at 2h 54m in the morning. This Eclipse will be visible to nearly the whole of Africa, Australia, and the Indian Ocean. The central and annular path commences on the coast of Guinea, passes across the continent, the island of Madagascar, Mauritius, and the Indian Ocean, and terminates near the centre of Australia.

WANTS FOR THE YEAR 1846.—More industry, and less idleness; more economy, and less extravagance; more honest men than rogues; more money than credit; more shirts than ruffles; more morality than grog-shops; more mechanics than dandies; more stocking yarn than street yarn; more stability than excitability; more education than ignorance; more laborers than loungers.

THE Heavens, O Lord! Thy power proclaim,
 And the earth echoes back Thy name;
 Ten thousand voices speak Thy might,
 And day to day, and night to night,
 Utter Thy praise,—Thou Lord above!
 Thy praise—Thy glory—and Thy love.

Farmers' Calendar.

WELCOME to the New Year! may it be a year full of blessings to each and all of the many thousands to whom we make our yearly visits. The book accounts should all have been squared last month, and every man should be prepared to begin the year with a clean page in the ledger—if his name enters the ledger at all. We think the if an important one. To new beginners in life without capital, the credit system is necessary—but it is a necessary evil to such; while to all who can do without it, it is an evil which ought to be stopped at once. The credit system is an enormous tax upon honest men for the benefit of rascals. Look at it: the village merchant or mechanic knows that he must put up his price so that the profits paid by honest men may cover all losses: thus the man who pays at all, not only pays his own debts, but those of his dishonest or negligent neighbors. The better way, then, for every man is to insist upon fair bargains and pay down. You cannot begin the year with a better prudential maxim than—“Always pay down.”

FARMERS should read agricultural books and papers, and thus get cheaply the long and hard-earned experience of others; use judgment, and apply it with caution, as circumstances differ in a hundred ways.—Cultivator Almanac.

THERE is an error somewhat prevalent, that animals do not require salt and water as much in winter as in summer. This is a mistake, and the good farmer will see that they have both. Nature's laws, in this respect, cannot be trifled with.

BE certain to keep your diseased animals, no matter of what kind, if you have any, away from the rest of your stock.

HAVE your animals well housed and as warm as possible during the cold weather. They will eat less if warm: the saving in food in a few years will far more than pay for the extra cost of warm barns and sheds.

FARMERS' CLUBS.—It would be a good plan for neighboring farmers to meet often during the long winter evenings, and talk over the suggestions, experiments, advice, &c. &c. contained in the agricultural newspapers.

SOUP SAUCE.—An excellent sauce for hoiled puddings is made as follows: Take two cups of molasses, one of water, half a cup of strong vinegar, and a piece of butter as large as an egg—simmer them together and add a little thickening or not, as it suits your taste.

TWO spoonfuls of powdered charcoal, it is said, drank in half a tumbler of water, will, in less than fifteen minutes, give relief to the sick headache, when caused, as in most cases it is, by a superabundance of acid on the stomach.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—So quick sometimes has the wheel turned round, that many a man has lived to enjoy the benefit of charity which his own piety projected.—Sterne.

OUR TRUE HAPPINESS.—We should imitate trees, which draw their nourishment as much from the heaven above as from the earth beneath them.

WHO aims at excellence will be above mediocrity; who aims at mediocrity will fall short of it.

Every farmer or gardener should procure a brand, containing the letters of his name, with which to mark all his implements or tools; it will cost from a dollar to a dollar and a half, according to the number of letters on it. Those who are in the habit of loaning tools will soon find that a brand will save its cost in a short time, besides much trouble

ALL things we see, or hear or feel,
 Thy wisdom, goodness, power reveal.
 The silent crescent hung on high,
 So calmly sailing through the sky ;
 The loveliest flower that lights the dells ;
 The lightest wave the stream that swells ;

Farmers' Calendar.

Ho! for the woods—get in the fuel while sledding is good. It is high time even for Vermonters to be economical in their fire-wood. Don't slash down every tree for burning as a lumberer of the ground. The day is at hand when rail-roads are to render the wood of Vermont an article which will bear transportation to far more distant points than now; hence its value will be increased. Again: manufactures of wood will spring up in Vermont, as they have done in Massachusetts—of pails, and other wooden ware, of lasts and pegs, of chairs and bed-steads, of tubs, barrels, &c. &c. Birdseye and other maple, birch, cherry, butternut, pine, and bass-wood are to be in greater demand not long hence.

"NEVER TOO LATE TO DO GOOD."—A distinguished friend at Braintree, in Mass., who this year gathered several hundred barrels of apples from trees grafted with his own hands since he retired from successful mercantile business in the city, who away from any thick settlement, has refused the offer of a thousand dollars for a single acre of standing orchard, who has upon his premises two hundred varieties of apples and nearly as many pears—lately furnished the editor of the Visitor the following memorandum: Mr. Ebenezer Cobb, of Kingston, Mass. began to set out an orchard at the age of seventy years. His neighbors remonstrated, as he could not expect to live long enough to enjoy the fruits of it. They thought Mr. Cobb deranged in mind to make such a rash attempt. His answer was that of the practical Christian—that from his ancestors he had enjoyed the fruits of their labors, and he was anxious to do something in that line for posterity. He lived till he was 197 years, 8 months of age, and enjoyed the fruit of his labor.—Far. Mon. Visitor.

TO MAKE YELLOW BUTTER IN WINTER.—Put in the yolk of eggs just before the butter comes, near the termination of the churning. This has been repeatedly tried, and it makes very fine sweet butter.—Cultivator.

THE FARMER.—It was well said by a sagacious observer, that "mankind might do without physicians, if they would observe the laws of health; without lawyers, if they would keep their tempers; without soldiers, if they would observe the laws of peace; and without preachers, if each one would take care of his own conscience; but there is no living without Farmers."

POVERTY is, except where there is an actual want of food and raiment, a thing much more imaginary than real. The shame of poverty—the shame of being thought poor—it is a great and fatal weakness, though arising in this country from the fashion of the times themselves.—Cobbett.

It is stated that an old lady in Iowa, while recently in the woods, was bitten on the end of her nose by a rattlesnake. The old lady recovered, but the snake died! Coroner's verdict—Poisoned by snuff!

WHENEVER you buy or sell, let or hire, make a clear bargain, and never trust to "We shan't disagree about trifles."

MISFORTUNES are like thunder clouds. Far away, they look black; over head, they are only gray. As gloomy dreams are harbingers of a joyful future, so the dream of life will prove on our awaking from it.

A farmer should never depend on his neighbor, for what he can by care and good management produce on his own farm; he should never beg fruit while he can plant trees, or borrow tools when he can make or buy; a high authority has said, the borrower is a servant to the lender.

Health is the poor man's wealth, and the rich man's bliss.

THE breeze that o'er the garden plays ;
 The farthest planet's glimmering rays ;
 The dew upon the distant hill ;
 The vapors that the valley fill ;
 The grove's untutor'd harmony—
 All speak, and loudly speak, of Thee.

Farmers' Calendar.

THE first day of March should not be suffered to pass without finding ample preparations to secure as good a yield of sugar as the season will supply. Cleanliness and care are the main things necessary to ensure white sugar. Let the kettles be perfectly free from rust or dirt—strain your sap into the kettles, and again when converted into syrup—"sugar off" quick without burning, and you may be sure of making good sugar. Finish by draining, and you may expect to find clean dry sugar, white enough for all ordinary purposes and which will command a good price. A little sweet cream will prevent sugar from boiling over.

KIND WORDS.—BY SOLITAIRE.

Like gentle rain upon the parched earth ;
 Like heaven's sunlight in some deep lone dell ;
 Like mother's hope at her fair infant's birth ;
 Like voice of freedom in a prisoner's cell ;
 Or joyous warbling of a spring-time bird,
 Falls on the heart a low-toned kindly word.
 The pent-up fountains of the drooping soul
 Gush forth, like sweetest music, at the sound,
 And upward, onward, for the distant goal,
 The faltering spirit now doth hopeful bound,
 While floating round that grateful tone is heard,
 Breathing its magic spell—a kindly word.

YEAST FROM POTATOES.—As it is sometimes convenient to know more than one mode of making an article, we will give you an old method of making potatoe yeast, which we have sometimes met with. Boil potatoes, of the best and most mealy sort, (for poor, heavy, waxy potatoes are good for nothing for this business,) till they are thoroughly done and their skins begin to peel off. Strip off the skins, and mash them up very smooth, and put as much hot water to them as will make the mash of the consistency of common thick cream. Then add to every pound of potatoes two ounces of coarse brown sugar, or molasses will answer, and when blood warm, stir in for every pound of potatoes two spoonsful of old or common yeast. Let this ferment for twenty-four hours. A pound of potatoes will make in this way very nearly a quart of yeast, and which will keep well for three months—so the cook says. She also says you must lay your bread eight hours before you bake it.

HONEY is, according to Mr. Milton, who has lately published a treatise on bees, in England, a universal specific, and among its other valuable properties, he declares that it prevents consumption, and states that that destroyer of life is not known in countries where honey is regularly taken as an article of food. Those who have less faith in the specific, may perhaps attribute the cause to difference of climate rather than to honey. The Italian singers, it is also affirmed, are greatly indebted to honey, but their practice is to sharpen it with a few drops of acid, though they sometimes take it in a pure state.—Albany Cultivator.

'You measure me by the rod,' said a school-boy to his master. 'Yes, and by the foot too,' was the reply, accompanied with a movement that raised him at least an inch.

Thy name, Thy glories, they rehearse,
Great Spirit of the universe!
Sense of all sense, and soul of soul,
Nought is too vast for Thy control;
The meanest and the mightiest share
Alise Thy kindness and Thy care.

Farmers' Calendar.

TAKE a sharp look at the fences: shortly you will find your hands full in plowing, harrowing, rolling and planting; and will find no time for repairing walls and fences. Make a dash, as you have opportunity, at the stumps and the stones: there are many fields so encumbered with them as to make hard work in tilling, to say nothing of the wearing out of plows and hoes, which one might clear in a single day with the aid of a drag and a pair of horses. It is good economy to have clean fields; while they gratify the eye and speak well of their proprietor to every observer.

"Plow deep while sluggards sleep," is good advice. Too many act as though their title-deeds covered barely the surface of the land; you own to the depths of the earth—hidden riches are yours—plow deep and bring them up. Is your soil too light, ten to one deep plowing will bring up the very stuff to remedy the difficulty: is it too heavy, a thorough breaking up certainly can do it no harm.

CALVES WITH SHEEP.—We have oft recommended the keeping of calves with sheep, as we have found it an excellent plan, and highly approved of by others who have tried. In this way there is less trouble, and the calves keep in fine condition upon the coarse part of the fodder which the sheep leave. In such cases, calves are never afflicted with vermin, and if any are on them before, they will soon disappear after the calves are among the sheep. Sheep are usually provided with a good shelter in winter, and the calves will seek the warmest part of it in cold weather. This plan will not do for those who keep sheep without water in winter, unless the calves have extra attention in this respect.—Boston Cultivator.

SMOKING HAMS—We are assured by an intelligent farmer that hams are effectually preserved from the attacks of the fly, while their quality is not at all injured, by throwing red pepper upon the fire in the smoke house, during the latter part of the operation.—Albany Cultivator.

CURRYING COWS.—Cows should be curried as often as horses, particularly when they are shedding their hair. Independent of other consequences, it tends to prevent them from licking themselves by which they often swallow the hair and receive injury.

TIME.—Speculate and moralize as we may, time, after all, is a mighty revolutionist. The changes which he imperceptibly effects, the inroads which he silently achieves, the sad estrangements to which he is a party, and the strange alliances of which he is the parent, attest his invisible and irresistible agency. Who has not done homage to his influences? The coldness and indifference of those who once loved, the unsuspected treachery of those we once befriended—they whom we dreaded removed—they whom we feared powerless—the scattered family—the silent hearth—the severed friendship—the hostile brothers—these are the spectacles which greet us in our weary pilgrimage, and these are thy trophies, resistless and merciless Time!

AN hour's industry will do more to beget cheerfulness, suppress evil humors, and retrieve your affairs, than a month's moaning.

PLUTARCH used to say, that men of small capacities put into great places, like statues set upon great pillars, are made to appear the less by their advancement.

The farmer should never be so immersed in political matters as to forget to sow his wheat, dig his potatoes, and bank up his cellars, or to do his other necessary business; nor should he be so inattentive to them as to be ignorant of those great questions of national and state policy which will always agitate, more or less, a free people, and which are so intimately connected with the interests of the farmer.

BENEATH Thy all-directing nod,
Both worlds and worms are equal, God!
Thy hand the comets' orbits drew,
And lighted yonder glow-worm too;
Thou didst the dome of heaven build up,
And form'dst yon snow-drop's silver cup.

Farmers' Calendar.

HA! the beams of the sun enliven the earth, nature awakes, strips off the snowy sheets and thinks of dressing in a new rich suit of green. It is high time to think of getting the crops into the ground, but first bethink yourself of this: the first step towards getting good crops is to prepare your ground well. Do this work thoroughly; plow deep, pulverize the soil,—the foolish habit of shaving the soil merely, always turns out to be a hard shave—the barber gets the worst of the job.

In selecting seed corn, John Brown 2d, of Monktonboro' says you must pick ears with a kernel large and bright, eight rows on a small cob, and as near as possible of a uniform bigness from butt end to tip. Selecting largest ears, he says, increases the stock and retards the ripening of the ear. Prepare a mixture of two parts plaster, two of ashes, and one of lime, in old urine—the more putrid the better: soak your seed corn in this until well coated, and it is said the worms will never touch it, and its germination will be hastened. One part each of lime, plaster, salt and ashes, put in the hill with the seed corn on top, is said to be an excellent manure, especially on a dry or sandy soil.

CUT WORMS.—To the remark that "cut-worms may be destroyed by continued tillage and a naked and open soil," I beg to say, the cut-worm would not be found in corn, were it not planted in sward or sod land. They are the progeny of a species of beetle or other insect, which could never propagate its kind without the aid of dung, which is found in grass that has been fed by horses or cattle, and in this they enclose their egg or eggs, and sink them in a given distance below the surface; hence an autumnal or winter ploughing of such land destroys them, by exposure to the rains and frosts of that inclement season—a doctrine which has at last met with the concurrence of every practical man among us.—Boston Cultivator.

BROOM CORN.—The seed is excellent to fatten sheep. Albert Hibbard, of North Hadley, tells us he makes use of the seed of his broom corn to fatten sheep—that they are very fond of it and will fatten better on this than on Indian corn. Broom corn is raised in great quantities in the river towns, where the brooms are made up and distributed to all quarters of the country. We have often raised the corn for the sake of the brush, but we have never made much account of the seed, though we think it has seldom been converted to meal for hogs. Mr. Hibbard thinks the broom corn seed more valuable for sheep than oats, or any grain, pound for pound.—Boston Plough.

THERE are a set of men whose success in wooing—and it is not un-failing—we cannot comprehend. Grave, emaciated, sallow divines, who never look the person in the face whom they address; who never speak above their breath; who sit on the uttermost edge of their chairs, a full yard distant from the dinner table. We have never known one of those scare-crows fail of getting a good and a rich wife. How it is, heaven knows! Can it be that the ladies ask them!

EVERY man of genius is a philosopher, but not every philosopher a genius.

"WHAT is the matter with Mr. Johnson's eyes?" "Why he has injured his sight by looking through a thick bottomed tumbler."

A farmer should never allow his wood house to be emptied of wood during the summer season; if he does, when winter comes, in addition to cold fingers, he must expect to encounter the chilling looks of his wife, and perhaps be compelled, in a series of lectures, to learn that the man who burns green wood has not mastered the A B C of domestic economy.

And nature with its countless throng,
 And sun and moon and planet's song,
 And every flower that light receives,
 And every dew that tips its leaves,
 And every murmur of the sea—
 Tunes its sweet voice to worship Thee.

Farmers' Calendar.

THERE are more than fifty starch factories in Vermont, capable of working up a vast quantity of potatoes: there is little danger, then, of raising too large crops of this important article. The difficulty is to avoid the rot or mildew, and raise enough to supply the demand. We observe that the editor of the American Agriculturist insisted strongly, in his last volume, against using barn-yard manure for potatoes: turn over the sod of a piece of grass-land, said he, roll and harrow it, make the rows three inches deep with a plow, without cutting up the sod at the bottom, and plant your potatoes.

Corn, planted late to be cut for fodder, will help to carry your cattle along through the autumn in excellent condition.

WOUNDS ON CATTLE.—The most aggravated wounds of domestic animals are easily cured with a portion of yolk of eggs mixed in the spirits of turpentine. The part affected must be bathed several times with the mixture, when a perfect cure will be effected in forty-eight hours.

IT is better to cut grain just before it is fully or dead ripe. When the straw immediately below the grain is so dry that on twisting it no juice is expressed, it should be cut, for then there is no circulation of juices to the ear. Every hour that it stands uncut after this stage is attended with loss.

ILL TEMPER.—It is impossible to conceive, if we have never witnessed it or felt it, how much unhappiness the ill temper of one individual can inflict on the family with which he or she is unfortunately connected. As there is no person so unimportant as to be incapable of conferring pleasure, so in proportion is the baneful influence; and thus the domestic harmony of many a little circle is changed to discord, and the most disastrous events frequently ensue.—Doctor Johnson.

TO PRESERVE MILK.—In very warm weather, put two table spoonfuls of salt into every pail of milk before straining; it will greatly improve the quality and quantity of butter.

THINNING PLANTS.—The thinning of seedling crops is a very necessary thing to be done in time, before the young plants have drawn one another up too much, by which they become weak, and out of form, and sometimes never do well afterward. All plants grow stronger, and ripen their juices better, when the air circulates freely around them, and the sun is not prevented from an immediate influence; an attention to which should be paid from the first appearance of plants breaking the ground. In thinning close crops, as onions, carrots, turnips, etc., be sure that they are not left too near, for instead of reaping a greater produce, they would assuredly be less. When they stand too close, they will make tall and large tops, but be prevented from swelling in their roots; better to err on the wide side, for though there are few plants, they will be much finer ones.

WALKING is the most perfect exercise for the human body; every artery from the heart to the extremities, propels the blood quicker and more equally in walking than in any other exercise. The blood is drawn from the head and upper parts, where it is most slow and languid, and is circulated with rapidity to every part.

It is better with willingness to purchase thanks, than with a discontented doing to have the pain and not the reward.—Philip Sidney.

The occupation of the farmer is favorable to health. Man was made for exercise—for toil—and in it he finds not only health but happiness. The use of all our faculties both of body and mind constitutes the sources of pleasure. The most unhappy individuals and the most miserably imbecile nations are those whom necessity does not compel to labor diligently for a livelihood.

Yes! all below and all above,
 Drink of thy flowing stream of love;
 Yes! wheresoe'er existence is,
 There, there is greatness, hope and bliss:
 There never was a mortal eye
 Which has not shone with smiles of joy.

Farmers' Calendar.

REMEMBER the weeds—a herd of vagrant cattle would soon be thrust from any man's cornfield; a host of hungry weeds should as soon be ejected. A month of long and weary labor, day after day, laboriously manuring, dilligently plowing, industriously harrowing, carefully planting, all lost, the crop choked to death by a great swarm of weeds! I have seen a man stone, dog, beat and thump a poor neighbor's cow out of his pasture, for one hour's intrusion, at the same moment six thousand great mulliens and thistles stood gorging on his land, and devouring more than a whole herd of cattle for a month together.

Cut lodged grass early; the rest between flowering and seed. Hay loses less by drying when near ripe, and makes richer food. But seeds ripening exhaust land; therefore choose the medium. Cut clover early, and dry it in small cocks, after one day's exposure; dried much in the sun, it is spoiled. Every farmer should have a horse-rake—it is to a hand rake, as a plow to a hoe. Hay heavily salted may be put up half green, and be fine for cattle in winter.

Keep ruta bagas well hoed during their early growth, and let other root crops be kept perfectly clean. Don't forget the weeds.—Cul. Al.

BE INDUSTRIOUS.—We do not mean here the industry of the hands alone; but that perseverance in whatever we undertake, that is the sure precursor of ultimate success. Never allow the mind or the body to stagnate; activity is necessary to the health of both. Always have some worthy end in view in whatever you undertake; remembering that to fail with good intentions, is more honorable than success in an evil cause.

JULY.—This month gives us ever the extreme of heat. The thermometer at 90. Independence celebrations, floral processions, sunshades, open windows, are the things of reality. Blessings on those happy arrangements by which the ice of winter is saved up to ameliorate the heats of summer, and an artificial warmth is created about us, to make us forget the cold of winter. Care must be taken that the temper and feelings always maintain that happier medium between the cold that chills and the heat that scorches.—Housekeeper's Annual

A DRY, cool, and airy room, free from all atmospheric changes, is the only place where fruits can be preserved for any length of time.

COLD water is the only drink that is always grateful and refreshing to the thirsty, always safe and useful for sick or well. Why do men corrupt it.

ANIMALS fed on dry hay, will do much better if they have a meal of roots once or twice a week. For the horse, we prefer carrots, and even if fed on grain, these roots will be found most healthful.—Agricultural Almanac.

FRANCIS I being desirous to raise one of the most learned men of the age to the highest dignities of the church, asked him if he was of noble descent. "Your majesty," answered the abbot, "there were three brother's in Noah's ark, and I cannot tell positively from which I am descended."

A MAN in a passion is like Vesuvius in an eruption—vomiting forth flames and red hot stones, which descend immediately into its own bosom, till chance directs it over the edge of the crater, to deal destruction to others.

"Finish one job before you begin another." This advice is true, but it is of great importance; and there are few cases where it cannot be attended to.

Attend strictly to the hours of commencing labor, and equally so to those of leaving off, unless extraordinary exertion is required.

AND all are bending to the spot
 Where disappointment enters not;
 The seed of man's mortality
 Shall on earth's bosom scattered be,
 And from its germs at last arise
 Fair blossoms, fit for paradise.

Farmers' Calendar.

DRIVE ON your haying and harvesting. Cut wheat a few days before it becomes dead ripe, and it will make more and better flour, and not waste by shelling out. Rake stubble with a horse-rake and save the scattered grain. Gather peas by means of a horse-rake, which will pull them and rake them together at one operation. Barley or pea ground intended for sowing wheat, should be well harrowed when the weather may be moist, to start the weed seeds, the young crop of which is to be plowed under for manure.

Save the best and cleanest wheat for seed—be careful to keep out all weeds, and especially every grain of that ruinous, deluding weed, the chess.

Wet grounds may be underdrained this month—underground ditches should never be less than two and a half feet deep—fill them half full of small stones, placing many very small ones on the top to prevent caving in—cover with straw, and then earth; a covering of slabs laid face downwards on the stones, is still better. Where the ground is sandy, flat stones—if inclining to quick-sand, slab or plank bottoms, timber sides, and plank covering must be resorted to—unless tile tubes can be obtained, which would be best.—Cultivator Almanac.

CULTIVATE YOUR MIND.—It is of more importance to the young, that their reading should be select, rather than extensive. One volume well understood, on any important topic, is better than half a dozen merely skimmed. There are many subjects of great utility, with which every man should have a partial knowledge at least; but it is one of the great faults of modern education to spend too much time on studies that rather burden and clog the mind, than strengthen and inform it for life's practical duties. Reading or studying without some definite aim, is likely to lead to few useful results. How many men there are who have spent a large part of their lives over books, of whom it may be said, "they remember a mass of things, but nothing distinctly." It is possible to cram the mind with masses of indigestible materials, destructive alike to a healthy and a vigorous action of the intellectual powers. Such is not the cultivation of the mind required by a young American Farmer.—Cultivator Almanac.

AUGUST.—The face of nature has lost something of its brilliancy and beauty, but it "is good, if it be not handsome." The weather in this month is apt to be moist and hot, and it is not particularly favorable for either mental or bodily exertion.

EXCRETORY DUCT IN THE FEET OF SHEEP.—Chancellor Livingston, 1st President of N. Y. Agricultural Society, says the legs of sheep are furnished with a duct, which terminates in the fissure of the hoof; from which, when the animal is in health, is secreted a white fluid, but when sickly, these ducts are stopped by the hardening of the fluid. He says he has in some instances found that the sheep were relieved; by merely pressing out the hardened matter with the finger from the orifice of the duct in each foot; it may in some cases be proper to place their feet in warm water, or to use a probe or hand brush for cleansing this passage.

You may be sure a man is your enemy when he tries to place you in a position where you must unavoidably make yourself ridiculous.

MEN who want principle live knaves and die beggars.

And we, creation's princes, we
 The favorites of the Deity,
 The wise—the strong—whose thoughts can soar
 Heaven's brightest, highest concave o'er!
 And hold, above created things,
 Communion with the King of kings.

Farmers' Calendar.

Sow wheat early in the month, where danger from the Hessian fly is not apprehended—wet the seed with brine, and dust it with water slaked lime, to destroy smut, and sow immediately. Let the work be done well, and above all, avoid sowing immediately after wheat, or on any soil which has been hard cropped; which, though it may sometimes succeed, on most soils it will fail in bad seasons.

Grain for hogs should be ground and cooked—cooking has been found by some good farmers to more than double the value. Hogs will fatten well and very cheaply on apples; picking up the fallen fruit in orchards—sweet and sour are both good. Apples are much better for this purpose than potatoes; and, except the last week or two, fully equal to corn.

Feed sparingly newly seeded grass lands—cut up corn in season to save the fodder after the seed is well “glazed”—in all cases, avoid “topping” corn.

Lay your plans for next year—adopt a good and regular system of rotation—every man's farm should be growing richer instead of poorer—without rotation, this cannot be—hard cropping now, is money out of pocket for the present, and for the future also—an enriching, is money now and money hereafter.—Cultivator Almanac.

MARRIED LIFE.—“Deceive not one another in small things nor in great. One little single lie, has, before now, disturbed a whole married life. A small cause has often great consequences. Fold not the arms together and sit idle. “Laziness is the devil's cushion.” Do not run much from home. One's own health is of more worth than gold. Many a marriage, my friends, begins like the rosy morning, and then falls away like a snow wreath. And why, my friends? Because the married neglect to be as well pleasing to each other after marriage as before. Endeavor always, my children, to please one another; but at the same time keep God in your thoughts. Lavish not all your love on to-day, for remember that marriage has its to-morrow, likewise, and its day after to-morrow too. “Spare, as one may say, fuel for the winter.” “Consider, my daughters, what the word WIFE expresses. The married woman is her husband's domestic faith; in her hand he must be willing to confide house and family; be able to entrust to her the key of his heart, as well as the key of his eating-room. His honor and his home are under her keeping—his well being is in her hand. Think of this! “And you, sons, be faithful husbands, and good fathers of families. Act so that your wives shall esteem, love you.”—Miss Bremer.

FEEBLE WIT.—The haughty Tarleton, vaunting his feats of gallantry to the great disparagement of the officers of the continental cavalry, said to a lady at Wilmington, “I have a very earnest desire to see your far-famed hero, Col. Washington.” “Your wish, Colonel, might have been fully gratified,” she promptly replied, “had you ventured to look behind you at the battle of the Cowpens.”

“WHY on earth don't you get up earlier, my son?” said an anxious father to his sluggard boy—“don't you see the flowers even spring out of their beds at the early dawn?”

“Yes, father,” said the boy, “I see they do, and I would do the same, if I had as dirty a bed as they have.”

Other things being equal, a woman of the highest mental endowments will always be the best housekeeper; for domestic economy is a science, that brings into action the qualities of mind, as well as the graces of the heart. A quick perception, judgment, discrimination and order, are high attributes of mind, and are all in daily exercise in the well ordered family.

SHALL we not praise and worship Thee,
Thou infinite Divinity?
Thank Thee for what we know—and own
Thou hidest what is best unknown;
And kindly, wisely, hast concealed
The future, from our vision veiled?

Farmers' Calendar.

SECURE fall crops—husk corn—dig potatoes—harvest ruta bagas and beets. Bury potatoes after they are well dried—the best way is, first one foot at least of packed straw, and then about three inches of earth—ventilating them well by a hole in the top of the heap till very cold weather. By this mode, after repeated trial, not a peck in fifty bushels is lost.

Ruta bagas should be pulled with a ruta laga hook—a tool with a small sharp hoe on one side to top the root with one stroke, and two prongs on the other for drawing the root after topped, from the ground. A man will do three times as much with this, as without it. Draw them in a cart, and “dump” them down an inclined trough or hopper into the ruta laga cellar. But if buried in heaps, those heaps must be ventilated by holes loosely filled with a wisp of long straw, or they will all ferment and rot.

Pick carefully all winter apples for sale and for use, and save all other apples for pigs and other farm stock, for which they will be found very valuable in winter.

Feed all fattening animals with perfect regularity—enough, but not too much. Save all your straw well for litter and winter feed.—Cultivator Almanac.

BE JUST.—In the course of life a man frequently finds his interests or his opinions crossed or thwarted by those from whom he had a right to expect better things, and the young are apt to feel such matters very sensibly. But be not rash in your condemnation. Look at their conduct carefully, and be just to the motives that prompt it. You may find, that were you placed in their position, the course you now condemn would be the one proper for you, and the one you would be under obligation to pursue. A little cool consideration would avoid censoriousness.

‘MANNERS,’ says the eloquent Edmund Burke, ‘are more importance than laws. Upon them, in a great measure, the laws depend. The laws touch us here and there—now and then. Manners are what vex or sooth, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine, by a constant, steady, uniform, insensible operation, like that of the air we breathe in. They give their whole form and color to our lives. According to their quality, they aid morals; they supply them, or they totally destroy them.’”

If there is a man who can eat his bread at peace with God and man, it is that man who has brought the bread out of the earth by his own honest industry. It is cankered by no fraud—it is wet by no tears—it is stained by no blood.

MAKING JELLY.—Those who would make fine jelly, should always avoid boiling the juice of the fruit, when it is desirable to have the article, when made, retain the flavor of the fruit from which it was prepared. After the juice is pressed from the fruit, and the proper quantity of sugar added to it, let it be heated until the sugar is dissolved, after this is effected no farther heat is required.—Far. Gaz.

TO TAKE MILDEW OUT OF LINEN.—Take soap and rub it well; then scrape some fine chalk and rub that also in the linen; lay it on the grass, as it dries wet it a little, and it will come out after two or three trials.

Economy and strict attention to business are as essential to farmers as to those of other occupations. Expenses must be retrenched to come within the income, and it is well to calculate a little occasionally in reference to this point. It should be a constant aim to improve the soil, for if it is suffered to run down, the owner is sure to go down with it.

SHALL we disturb the harmony
Which all creation tunes to Thee ;
Those sweet concordant notes, that sound
The arched hall of nature round ;
That fill the earth, the sea, the air,
And reach Thy throne—accepted there ?

Farmers' Calendar.

SECURE your cellars from frost. Feed cows with pumpkins, with roots and turnep tops. Turneps and their tops, fed to milch cows immediately after they are milked, give very little flavor to the milk, and none to butter, if in addition to this precaution, the butter is very well worked, and the last drop of buttermilk pressed out. Beet tops are not good for cattle, but are excellent as manure, plowed under green.

House all tools—plow for spring crops.

Whenever the air is not freezing, fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs may be transplanted. Shall we not enjoy a little of the beauty as well as of the bounty of creation, about our own homes and the homes of our children ?

Read agricultural papers—think, digest, apply with caution, and avoid blind and foolish incredulity. Get thus, the experience of others, hard-earned and long-earned, and apply it with judgment, common sense and discretion—allow for many differences in circumstances, and run not much risk in untried experiments.—Cul. Almanac.

COFFEE CUSTARDS.—Take two ounces of roasted coffee and two ounces of raw coffee. Pound them together in a mortar, but do not grind them. Boil this coffee in a quart of rich milk. Let it get cold, and then strain it. Stir into it two ounces of powdered loaf-sugar, and two large spoonfuls of cream. Beat eight eggs, omitting the whites of four. Stir them gradually into the coffee. Put it into cups, and bake the custards in an oven with water. Grate white sugar over the tops when cold.

COLD PICKLES.—Season some of the best vinegar with a little garlic, a little tarragon, and a little sweet oil. Put it into a glass jar, and keep it well covered. You may throw into it the green seeds of nasturtians, morella cherries, little onions, small young carrots when but a finger long, radish pods, and various other things. Keep the jar well closed, and the pickles will be as good and keep as long as if they had been boiled.

Nasturtians and cherries will keep in plain vinegar without any seasoning.

SHUN AVARICE.—One of the most disagreeable characters on earth, is that of the grasping, avaricious and penurious man. Generosity is perfectly compatible with economy ; and the means which enable some of our most noble hearted, generous men to do so much to benefit and bless mankind, are obtained, not by close-fisted penuriousness, but by economy. The distance is not greater between the zenith and the nadir, than between the covetous and the economical man ; the first banishes every just and honorable feeling from the heart, the other fosters and ministers to them all.

CORNS.—As every one seems to be familiar with these painful excrescences, we extract the following mode of cure, which is well worth trying : Take a small piece of flannel which has not yet been washed, wrap or sew it around the corn or toe—one thickness will be sufficient. Wet the flannel where the place is, night and morning, with fine sweet oil. Renew the flannel weekly, and at the same time pare the corn, which will soon disappear.

MARRIAGE is a feast where the ' grace ' is sometimes better than the ' dinner.'

It is not expected that the farmer, who attends to nothing but agriculture, will earn much in winter, nor is it necessary when he has raised good crops and has enough to last him through the year and a surplus for sale; but he will find much to do in the cold season, and he must practice economy and use to the best advantage the produce of his summer's labor, and conduct all his operations with prudence.

No : rather our according voice
 Shall in the general praise rejoice,
 And join the ever during hymn
 With cherubim and seraphim—
 With all to whom a tongue is given,
 To worship Thee, the Lord of heaven.

Farmers' Calendar.

LAY in full feed for all your animals, that they may have a full supply through the long hungry season of spring. Waste no fodder—provide racks and feeding troughs, that cattle may not tread their food under feet. Shelter all animals, it will save food and flesh. See that cattle have water and salt at all times. Let all stables be well littered—a dirty animal cannot thrive. Coarse hay and straw, if not salted when stacked, should now be brined for cattle. Chop up with a straw cutter all your corn fodder. Thrash grain early, and thus cheat the rats, the only kind of fraud admissible with honest farmers. Pick over apples in bins and use those partly decayed. Repair all tools—draw wood, manure, and all else wanted, whenever the sleighing may be good.

Tread snow round young fruit trees, to keep off the mice, which, if well done, it will accomplish effectually. Prune hardy grapes any time during winter—trim apple trees before spring, and apply a mixture of hot tar and brick dust to all large wounds thus occasioned.

Look round among your farming friends, and see who of them takes an agricultural paper. Show them your copy, and invite them to subscribe.—Cal. Almanac.

SHOE BLACKING.—Take eight ounces of ivory black, six ounces of molasses, six table-spoonfuls of sweet oil, and three of oil of vitriol: mix all together with a quart of vinegar, and bottle it. It will be ready for use in a week.

LIP SALVE.—Two table spoonfuls of sweet oil, a piece of beeswax the size of a hazle-nut, melted over a lamp, in a piece of letter paper large enough to hold it.

DETERMINE TO BE USEFUL.—No matter what may be your condition in life, you have an influence, and that influence should always be exerted in a proper way. The young have no right to fold up their arms, bury their talent, and become the drones of the social hive. Aim high, but with prudence; act with determination and perseverance; let no obstacle drive you from the path of honor and duty, and you may be sure of eventual success. Riches are not within the reach of all: competence is; and the latter condition is preferable in every respect to the first. Remember the Deity helps those who help themselves, and that utility is the great end of human exertion.

LEMON PIE.—Take one lemon and a half, cut them up fine, one cup of molasses, half a cup of sugar, and two eggs; mix them together, prepare your plate, with a crust in the bottom, put in half the materials, lay over a crust, then put in the rest of the materials, and cover the whole with another crust.

A LADY, being inquired of how she liked the dinner at a distinguished party, her reply was: "The dinner was splendid but my seat was so promote from the nicknacks, that I could not ratify my appetite, and the pickled cherries had such a defect on my head, that I made a motion to leave the table, but Mr. — gave me some hartshorn, dissolved in water, which bereaved me."

AFTER hypocrites, the greatest dupes the devil has, are those who exhaust an anxious existence in the disappointments and vexations of business, and live miserably and meanly only to die magnificently and rich.

The working classes are the pillars of the Constitution. When those pillars become incapable of sustaining the superstructure, it must fall, and great will be the fall thereof. Let the working classes lay this to heart; let them remember that on them devolves the responsibility of sustaining and strengthening the grand and beautiful fabric.

Rates of Postage on Letters, Newspapers, &c.

LETTERS.—Single, or any number of pieces not exceeding one half ounce, 300 miles or less, 5 cents.

If over three hundred miles, 10 cents.

Drop letters, (not mailed,) 2 cents.

Each additional half ounce or part thereof, single postage.

NEWSPAPERS.—Of 1900 square inches or less, sent by publishers or editors, over 30 and not exceeding 100 miles, or any distance in the State where they are published, 1 cent.

Over one hundred miles and out of the State, 1 1-2 cent.

Not exceeding thirty miles, free.

Newspapers over 1900 square inches, postage same as pamphlets.

PAMPHLETS.—Magazines and periodicals, any distance, for one ounce or less, each copy, 2 1-2 cents.

Each additional ounce or fractional part thereof, 1 cent.

CIRCULARS.—Quarto post, single cap, or paper not larger than single cap, folded, directed and unsealed, any distance, 2 cents.

HALF OUNCE LETTER, WHICH MAY BE SENT 300 MILES FOR 5 CENTS, OR ANY DISTANCE FOR 10 CENTS.

One and a half sheets of letter paper, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet do. with large or small envelope, sealed with wax or wafer.

One sheet foolscap, with small envelope, sealed with wafer.

One sheet letter paper with quarter eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Half sheet do. or light foolscap, half eagle enclosed, sealed with wafer.

Sheet of letter paper may contain a dime and a half.

Half sheet of letter paper may contain a quarter of a dollar.

Sheet of letter paper with seven bank notes, sealed with wax; or Three bank notes, and the whole in an envelope.

FRANKING, ETC.

Postmasters may frank letters and packages, relating exclusively to post office business; but must in every case endorse over his signature the words "post office business."

It is the duty of postmasters to notify publishers when subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office; and this should be done by letter, franked as "post office business." The old practice of giving notice by returning the papers, subjects the publishers to postage, which they will not pay, and of course they do not get the notice.

Postmasters may receive money for subscriptions to newspapers, (not exceeding $10 in any instance,) and give their receipt therefor after retaining 1 per cent. for their services. The postmaster receiving the money is to report all the necessary particulars to the postmaster who is to pay the same to the publisher, and the latter, on receiving the publisher's receipt, is to be entitled to 1 per cent. [The better way is for subscribers to send their money post paid, the difference between the postage and the 1 per cent. being so small.]

WRITING ON NEWSPAPERS OR WRAPPERS.

"POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Appointment Office,
Washington, D. C., Aug. 11, 1845. }

SIR:—Any memorandum upon transient newspapers, or upon the wrappers of the same, subjects the same to letter postage.

In determining the amount of postage you are to charge upon such papers, you are to be governed by the weight, according to the provisions of the law of March 3, 1845.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

W. MEDILL, 2d Ass't P. M. Gen."
